Mercantile Division to Consider Matters of Importance at Meeting next Monday

The Mercantile Division meeting at the Newton Club on next Monday evening, February 5, is expected to bring out a representative gathering of local business men to consider two subjects of special importance and more than ordinary interest to merchants and others who rely upon the good will and patronage of Newton citizens.

This is to be primarily a business meeting and will be the first of a series of monthly meetings to be held under the auspices of the Merchants Association of the Chamber, the contemplated activities of which will be planned and developed at these meetings.

All local business men, whether or not they are members of the Chamber, are cordially invited to be present at the initial meeting next Monday evening. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner at 6.30 o'clock, at $1.50 per plate. Reservations should be made not later than Saturday, at 10 A. M. Non-members who have not received the printed notice of the meeting are invited to make reservation for dinner by calling Newton North 4077. Those unable to be present at the dinner are cordially invited to attend the meeting to follow, at 7.45 o'clock.

The guest and speaker will be Mr. L. James Parker, Secretary of the Taunton Chamber of Commerce, who will speak on "Credit Bureaus." Mr. Parker directs one of the most efficient Chambers of Commerce credit bureaus in New England at Taunton and will describe in detail the plan of operation and the results achieved for its subscribers. He will also answer questions and discuss informally any special phase of credit bureau work in which those present may be especially interested.

The co-operative advertising plan recently developed by the committee of the Mercantile Division will be explained in detail during the evening and suggestions invited as to how this may be improved and made more effective. Every effort has been put forth to make the initial meeting of the series one of both interest and profit to all who attend and all members of the Mercantile Division of the Chamber are urged to co-operate with the committee in securing a large and representative attendance.

RESOLUTIONS

At the January meeting of the Trustees of the Newton Savings Bank the following resolutions upon the death of Mr. Joseph B. Simpson were adopted and entered upon the records.

Joseph B. Simpson died January 6, 1923. He was elected a Corporator of the Newton Savings Bank on January 12, 1915, and a Trustee on January 11, 1916. In his death the Bank has lost an able business man who brought to every undertaking in which he had a part, loyal, devoted and intelligent service.

As individuals, many of us lose a friend of long standing, who, with courage, steadfastness and good cheer even during years of ill health, pursued the "even tenor of his ways," doing his full duty as a friend and neighbor. We therefore, in his memory, enter upon our records this appreciation of his life and direct that a copy hereof be sent to his family.

FATAL ACCIDENT

John Ottatiano, aged 31 years, a laborer, of 407 Langley road, Newton Centre, in the employ of John Fontecchio, a Newton Centre contractor, was killed Saturday morning, at the Massachusetts Sand and Gravel Company's pits on Needham street, Newton Upper Falls, when eight tons of frozen sand fell on him while he was working in a sand hopper.

The accident occurred shortly before 8. Ottatiano, who was a helper on one of Fontecchio's trucks, was about to load his truck with sand. The driver had backed in under the chute which led from the hopper. Ottatiano opened the chute but found it practically empty, as the sand above, in the hopper, had frozen into a solid mass. He left the truck, went up to the second floor and climbed into the hopper to loosen up the sand. The man had been working there only a few minutes when the driver of the truck down below heard a roar and saw Ottatiano's legs sticking down out of the chute opening. A few grains of sand trickled through and eight tons had crashed down on top of the man trapped in the chute.

The laborers in the vicinity saw the accident and Police Headquarters and the Fire Department were notified. Apparatus from the Newton Upper Falls Station and the Newton Highlands Station responded. When the firemen and police arrived they found the laborers aided by about a hundred men from factories near there, attracted to the scene by the commotion, frantically digging from the top of the hopper in an endeavor to uncover the man at the bottom of the chute. Ottatiano's legs were sticking out through the opening all this time, but the passage was too small to admit his body.

With axes and picks the firemen chopped the chute to pieces, but it was 2½ hours from the time the man fell in before his body was removed. He had been dead some time when they finally liberated the body.

Ottatiano was single and had made his home with his brother at Thompsonville.

MODERN EDUCATION

Discussed at Read Fund Lecture by Mr. Eugene R. Smith

Under the auspices of the Read Fund, Mr. Eugene R. Smith, Headmaster of the Beaver Country Day School and President of the National Progressive Education Association, spoke on Monday night, in Hunnewell Hall, Newton, on "Modern Education." He said in part:

"There has been a tremendous progress in the last decade along material lines, and it is absolutely necessary that education should keep pace with this progress. The mere knowing of the necessary things today is an exceedingly difficult task. Labor conditions have made education in hand work difficult for the child, and the increased pressure of business has made it more and more difficult for parents to live with their children and so teach them by example the finer things of life. Thus increased burdens have been put upon the schools. Of late there has been a movement to bring industrial conditions to the attention of the schools through lectures, moving pictures, etc.

There is also today an increasing attempt to know the material with which the schools have to deal. This is being done through group tests (written) and through individual tests. These tests are based upon certain standards in each subject, and are independent of the individual teacher's judgment. There are also tests for initiative, originality, imagination, etc.

But the most constructive change along educational lines is the recognition and use of the natural curiosity and interests of the child in what is known as "project work."

In Geography for example, this means instead of the reciting of the answers to questions found in a geography, the taking of an imaginary trip to some country the details of which are planned by the children themselves, each child working with some definite object in view. The speaker told of one boy in the grades who had become tremendously interested in rubber through an imaginary trip to South America, and had gotten together an exhibit of rubber in its different stages which was of real value to the school.

In a History class using this method the pupils got up a magazine supposedly published in the time of Queen Elizabeth in which the pupils wrote from the standpoint of different characters of that day.

The underlying principle is that the study of Geography, History, Arithmetic, etc., shall become real and vital to the child, and that the impulse to learn shall come from the inside, not be imposed from the outside.

Competition, especially competition involving team work, has proved very effective in this connection. Some classes have had baseball contests based upon Latin vocabulary.

There have also of recent years been very marked changes in the methods of teaching Spelling, Reading, Arithmetic and Writing. In Reading no longer is the alphabet taught first, but the look of the word as a whole. In Arithmetic subtraction is being done away with. In spelling, in place of long lists of words to be learned, the child picks out the difficult ones and these are analyzed to discover the point of difficulty. In writing there is a strong tendency in favor of printing instead of ordinary writing.

Nor, in all this, is character building, the highest object of the school, neglected. To an increasing extent children are being given opportunities of forming judgments, and of co-operating with their teachers, so that the schools are becoming real democracies, and a real respect for law is being inculcated.

In conclusion the speaker said that there were two principles underlying the modern system of education, first that each student should do his best, and, secondly, that each student should pay respect to the rights of others.

A lively discussion followed the lecture. In answer to the question where the best teaching along modern lines was being done, the speaker said in the kindergarten. In regard to teaching through the "movies," the speaker said that no passive knowledge could take the place of active knowledge.

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by Dorothy Drake

Albert Edgar Angier School

Thursday afternoon, and Friday evening, in the Angier School Hall, will be presented an evening of entertainment by the children of the school for the benefit of our athletics for boys and girls. It will be presented in three parts: first, "A Child's Play" coached by Mr. Wilfrid O. White; second, an exhibition of folk dancing by the girls of the school, taught by Mrs. Margaret Hills, director of girls' playground work; and third, a minstrel show by the boys directed by Donald Houghton, our playground director.

Saturday morning, at Bullough's Pond, the Angier hockey team, captained by Gordon White, easily defeated the Hyde team, by a score of 9 to 0. Frank Spain made eight of the nine goals. On the Angier team the following boys played:

L. W. Haddock, (J. March); C. Spain, (T. Leach); R. W. Pelham, (C. Leach); L. D. Yardley, (Haddock); R. D. White, (L. Woolston); G. J. Rosenfeld.

High School Notes

Rindge Tech swimming squad defeated Newton High by a single point in a dual meet at Cambridge Y. M. C. A. Friday, 30 to 29, due to St. Clair's work in the plunges. Wallace of Newton took first in that event. Terzes of Newton tied with St. Clair for second place, but the Rindge lad won the plunge-off.

The summary:
20 Yard Dash—Won by Burns, Rindge, tie for second between Patterson and Perry of Newton. Time 10:15.5.
40 Yard Dash—Won by Wallace, Newton; Anthony, Rindge, second; Terzes, Newton, third. Time 21:45.5.
100 Yard Swim—Won by Anthony, Rindge; Kimball, Newton, second; Phelps, Newton, third. Time 1m. 9:35.5.
200 Yard Swim—Won by Marshall, Newton; McKelvie, Rindge, second; Thompson, Rindge, third. Time 2m. 43:25.5.

Dive—Won by Burns, Rindge; Perry, Newton, second; Morrissey, Newton, third.
Plunge—Won by Wallace, Newton; distance 51 ft.; tie for second between Terzes, Newton and St. Clair, Rindge, at 49 ft.; plunge-off won by St. Clair, Rindge.

Relay Race—Won by Rindge (Burns, Anthony, Jenkins, St. Clair).
Exeter defeated Newton high, 3 to 1, at hockey Saturday, at Exeter, Crosby saving a shutout for the visitors by scoring when only 30 seconds remained.

Newton is well pleased at being so well represented in Harvard by Alfred Stafford and Robert Darrell, both of last year's class in the Newton High School.

Stafford received one of the "Harvard Men of Newton Scholarships," and Darrell was the recipient of two hundred and fifty dollars from the "Cobb Tuition Fund Aid."

Robert Spencer and Phillips Hoyt were elected by the Senior Class to fill the positions of Editor-in-Chief and Business Manager of "The Newtonian." The assistant editor will be chosen later by the above and Mr. Thurber.

There has been considerable interest shown in the Girls' Ice Hockey Team, which now practices at Bulloughs Pond. As this is the only High School in this vicinity which is represented by a girls' team, there has been no competition. This year there will be class teams chosen which should make possible some very keenly contested games.

The Swimming Team have just received their black racing suits, which puts new life and interest into the team.

The work of Phelps, Terzes, O'Malley and Todd Wallace is especially commendable.

"Fanny and the Servant Problem" is the name of the Senior Play to be presented by the Seniors of the Technical High School on February 9-10. Under the competent coaching of Miss Wetherbee the cast is making the most of the rehearsals and should present the play in an excellent manner.

The Junior and Senior classes of the Vocational High School are planning a debate on "School Government."

Junior High School

An orchestra is being formed in the Junior High School, with Miss Grossman in charge. All pupils who can play any kind of a musical instrument are urged to join.

On Thursday and Fridays there are to be six periods. These two extra periods are to be used in a general assembly and the club periods.

Clubs are being organized at the Junior High. These are to be held on the first period Thursdays. The clubs organized are as follows: Dramatic, Public Speaking and Debating, Health, Camera, Science and French. A typewriting club has been organized for eighth grade pupils only.

A class meeting of the eighth grade was held in the assembly hall, Thursday, January 25. The purpose of the meeting was to elect pupils to serve on the student council. The report of this election will be printed next week.

The members of the football squad gave a dance in the Frank A. Day gymnasium, Friday, January 26, to raise funds for the needs of the coming baseball season. At this time the players were given their letters.

Day Junior High gymnasium classes are divided into squads having a captain and lieutenant on each squad. A point system has been started, each group having 100 points to start with. One point is taken from the 100 for any disorder during the gymnasium period.

The eighth grade class meeting, held on Thursday, January 25, was for the purpose of electing a committee to choose class colors. The following were elected: Florence Meade, Charles Mackin, Martha Wayright, Virginia Cameron, Helen Murdoch and Paul Nason.

To avoid much confusion in the lunch room there are to be two periods. Two hundred and fifty pupils go the first period and the rest of the 500 pupils go the second period. This change has created much better order in the lunch room than was seen for the first two or three days.

The ninth grade class 3A has finished the "Lady of the Lake." It was much enjoyed by all and a Scotch entertainment is to be given soon by this class.

The next issue of the "Newtonite," the Newton High School paper, is to have an extra page for the Junior High school news. This issue of the paper is to appear February 7, 1923.

The seventh grade class meeting held Monday, January 29, was held for the purpose of choosing representatives for the Student Council and the choosing of an executive committee. Those chosen for the Student Council were Donald Ross and Edith Lound. The executive committee will be James Brown, Herbert Holbrook, Edward Dodge, Mary Pfieger and Henrietta Kraber.

In Room 22 a "none tardy" campaign has been started. It is hoped that it will succeed.

Junior High subscribers to the "Newtonite" are starting in well. We want a 100% record.

The Day Junior High gymnasium will be ready soon. The ropes, basket ball nets and many other things are ready now.

Mason School

The eighth grade held its second class meeting on Monday of last week. It was a literary meeting on R. L. Stevenson and Eugene Field. A. L. The life of each was briefly outlined, and then some of their most interesting poems were read.

The Mason Hockey Team planned a game on Bullough's Pond with the Bigelow boys disappointed them.

Miss Bragg, the assistant superintendent, gave an interesting talk to the Mason teachers of the 6th, 7th, and 8th grades on speech work, Monday afternoon after school.

The milk lunch is still popular with the children and in Room 6, Grade 5, the weight is nearly or quite up to normal. There are no children who are more than 10 per cent under normal weight—the only 5th grade in the city to have that record. The eighth grade in room 10 has but two pupils that are below—a fair record.

We are anxiously awaiting the report from the Fathers' Night meeting of the Newton Centre School Association. In spite of the severe storm there was a good attendance.

Dues—35 cents for the year—are coming in slowly. We hope for a membership equal to last year's, which was over five hundred.

NEWTON POST, AMERICAN LEGION

Francis Barry of River street, West Newton, has been appointed assistant treasurer of Newton Post, A. L. The post has extended to Mayor Childs an offer of its services in time of emergency, and after consultation with the Fire and Police Departments the following signal was decided upon to summon the Legionnaires to emergency duty: Ten blows on the fire alarm, followed by a box number. For example, 10 blows followed by 31, four times, would mean that the members were wanted immediately at Police Headquarters. Fourteen blows, followed by the station number, summons the police and 15 blows, followed by one round of station number 311, summons the Militia.

President Mary Curley of the Woman's Auxiliary to Newton Post, A. L., and William Green, chairman of the entertainment committee of the post, are arranging for a dance on Washington's Birthday.

The officers for 1923 of Newton Post No. 48, A. L., Woman's Auxiliary, were installed recently at Legion Hall, West Newton, by Mrs. Grace Cormier, wife of Major H. D. Cormier, ex-commander of the post. The new officers are Miss Mary Curley, president; Miss Lillian Matthews, vice president; Mrs. Josephine Mulen, recording secretary; Mrs. Corline Siebert, treasurer; Mrs. Mary McCarthy, historian. An executive board of 13 members was also installed, comprising one representative from each of the Newtons. The installation was private, attended only by the auxiliary members. Refreshments were served by the entertainment committee following the ceremony.

EXHIBITION BADMINTON

Jan. 29th, Guest Night at the Newton Badminton Club, Miss Lillian Boker of Wellesley College defeated Miss Ruth Jennings of Radcliffe College, three games to two in the first Badminton match between representatives of any women's colleges in America.

Men's singles was won by Mr. Stewart Gourley of M. I. T., defeating Mr. Charles Martin of Harvard three games to two.

In the Mixed Doubles, Miss Boker of Wellesley paired with Charles Martin of Harvard, Miss Jennings of Radcliffe with Stuart Gourley of M. I. T., the latter won three games to two. Preceding the Badminton matches and duel with foils, Mr. George J. Higgins, the club director delivered a short address on the importance of "Postural Balance" and "Correct, Deep and Efficient Breathing" as the foundation for sound physical health.

He indicated that approximately 99 persons out of every 100 of about the age of 40 years required postural readjustment for restoring the bony framework to its weight-bearing alignment. It was explained that this was necessary to prevent impingements of the spinal nerves, setting up obstructions to the free flow of the vital forces through the nervous system, tending to destroy the health of the individual.

Students from Wellesley, Radcliffe, Harvard and Technology attended, following the Badminton matches all participated in the lively foxtrot game. The bird that appeared to be an easy mark for the swift moving racquets of the tennis experts was soon found to be uncanny in its elusiveness and elicited a closer observation of its flight to keep it in play.

COMMUNITY MEETING

On January 26th, a community meeting was held under the auspices of the Newton Highlands Improvement Association. The greater part of the evening was given up to the question of a War Memorial, Mr. Lewis, Chairman of the War Memorial Committee, showing a model and eighteen slides.

He stated that $1600 had been subscribed in cash and pledges to date. Mrs. Ward I. Connell showed two models and several slides of designs by Mr. Parana and Miss Thompson.

The question of a War Memorial was laid on the table for one year and that the money subscribed for the donors and the pledges cancelled.

The treasurer reported a membership in the Improvement Association of 260, more than double its membership of the previous year.

The question of a hockey rink at Crystal Lake was discussed, Mr. Bonner of the Sports Committee reporting the difficulties of securing financial assistance from the City of Newton as Crystal Lake does not come under its jurisdiction.

Mr. Lewis spoke of the importance of grasping the opportunity of combining extended library accommodations and an assembly hall with a Junior High School for the South Side.

The great need of added gymnasium facilities at the High School was brought up and it was voted to go on with the plan in favor of building a gymnasium for the Newton High School and that a letter to that effect be sent to the Mayor and the President of the Board of Aldermen.

ordinary region of gorges, thousands of feet in depth; of sudden cloud bursts which leave small chance for life when one is caught on a narrow passage between cliffs; of winding trails up precipitous slopes and dizzy heights often capped with clouds. Through his many expeditions to this part of the country, Mr. Gleason has become familiar with its beauties at different seasons and under all kinds of weather conditions, and has obtained many unusual effects—gorges after a storm, cliffs at twilight, in moonlight, and at dawn. His slides cover a wide range of the region and show fine feeling for composition, light and shadows, and their interest is doubled by their beautiful tinting done by Mrs. Gleason, who accompanied her husband on his trips and mixed her colors from a study of nature's own palette—cliffs of vermilion, gorgeous yellows and changing white.

The annual Electa N. C. Walton Scholarship Fund Whist, given by the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held Friday, January 26, at the Brae Burn Club. The day was delightful and there were enough present to occupy fifty-three tables. Mrs. Charles E. Quinn and her committee had everything planned so completely that the afternoon was a great success, socially as well as financially.

At the meeting of the Newton Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, Mrs. Sidney Peterson was the essayist and her subject, "Modern English Dramatists, Shaw, Galsworthy, and J. M. Barrie," from whose works she read selections.

Thursday afternoon following the Current Events lecture by Dr. Powers before the Newton Community Club, Mrs. Ralph W. Bartlett, chairman of the Legislative committee, presented a discussion of the Prison bills now before the General Court with Rev. William M. Macnamara speaking in favor and Mr. Walter Wardwell in opposition. The committee plans to take a half hour each month to bring up some phase of legislative matters for the information of the club members.

POLICE NOTES

Gaetano Spizzano and his wife, Josephine Spizzano, of 97 Florence street, Newton Centre, owners of the 1000 gallons of liquor and the electrical apparatus which "ages liquor 10 years in a week," seized in a raid last Wednesday night, by Sergeant Desmond, patrolmen William Dolan and Joseph Kelley, were before Judge Bacon Saturday morning. Spizzano was found guilty on both charges, was fined $100 on the charge of keeping and exposing liquor for sale and $50 on the charge of illegally selling liquor. Mrs. Spizzano was found guilty of assault and battery on a policeman and was fined $50 and given a suspended sentence of three months in the House of Correction.

The L Street Station of Boston Edison in South Boston, with a capacity of 260,000 horsepower. On Dec. 21, 1922, Boston Edison supplied enough electricity to light eighty million 25-candlepower lamps for an hour—enough lamps to circle the United States, if set only 9 1/2 inches apart. Note the 75,000-ton coal reserve.

The Friendly Glow

On that day a great city leapt forward!

THERE are two million people in this Greater Boston of ours—a great forward-moving body, whose progress is as inevitable as the hands of a clock, and so gradual that the eye can't see it move.

But on December 21, in the twilight of the passing year, we saw this city move!

December 21, if you recall, was not an extraordinary day in weather—just a busy Thursday, with Christmas in the air. By a trick of fate, it was the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims—the very day when modern civilization first touched the Massachusetts shores.

How did we see it?

Three hundred and two years later, to a day, a thrilling report came through to the officers of the Boston Edison.

"Every record we ever had is smashed," it ran. "Greater Boston used today more than 2,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity. That's 24 per cent more than was ever used before in one day!"

Do you wonder that we looked back across three centuries to a little boat, making shoreward through the ice? We saw by contrast the power of 179,000 horses, commanded by a lever here, a button there, to make Greater Boston—greater.

We saw a trainload of coal, 44 cars of 40 tons apiece, used that day to drive this city ahead.

And we saw Greater Boston even straining at its boundaries to reach a helping hand to neighbors outside, for that day we supplied 226,000 kilowatt hours of power to territory beyond Greater Boston.

That was your great day

Where were you on December 21? What inspiration made you play your part in the great advance against our common enemies—Darkness and Idleness?

Two million people can think of a lot of things to do with electricity. On that day they did them: more motors drove more machines in factories and shops; more cars carried more people on more missions; in our homes and hospitals and offices and theatres, a great community was getting more done in the business of living and growing.

Somewhere, you contributed to this progress. Just as surely as the progress was made, you will profit by it. You, and the rest of the two million, push a button, close a switch, or swing a lever. On an indicator of the Boston Edison Company a needle shows your command, a current flashes in response—and a city moves forward!

DEATH OF MRS. CARTER

Carrie Giles Carter, wife of James Richard Carter of West Newton, who died last Friday, was a daughter of Rev. Chauncey Giles, a prominent preacher and writer of the New Jerusalem Church. She was born in Pomeroy, O., in 1853, when her father was closing a successful career as school teacher to become minister of a church in Cincinnati. Removing ten years later with the family to New York, she was there married in 1873 to James Richard Carter, prominent in the paper business in Boston. Mrs. Carter possessed in a marked degree the strong religious convictions and courage of her father, and expressed her devotion to his memory in the preparation and publication of two books, "The Chauncey Giles Year Book," a volume of brief quotations from his writings, and "The Life of Chauncey Giles," designed especially to show the power and beneficent influence of the New Church in her father's life.

Mrs. Carter had been a worker in local charities and a teacher in her home church, and had held the position of president of the National Alliance of New Church Women. Her home and her family were her first care. She took great pleasure in her mountain home and garden at Jefferson Highlands, N. H. In the winter her zeal for the cause of her country led her to work almost beyond her strength, and since the war the condition of the disabled soldiers had appealed strongly to her sympathies and her practical kindness.

Surviving her are her husband, a daughter, Miss Evelyn Carter, and three sons, Hubert L. Carter, Winthrop Carter and Elliot Carter. Services were held at the Church of the New Jerusalem on Sunday, Rev. William L. Worcester of Cambridge reading the scripture and Rev. John Goddard delivering the address. The choir of the church also sang several selections. The cremation was at Mt. Auburn.

G.; Theresa Freeston, Warden; Blanche Buell, Conductor; Helen M. Merriam, Treas.; Mary L. Sweet, Fin. Sec.; Bertha H. MacKay, Rec. Sec.; Grace Wade, Inside G.; Ida M. Welsh, Outside G.; Marilla F. P., of Waltham, with Althea Potter, Marshal, and suite, performed the installation ceremony in a very impressive manner, after which Mrs. Hoelscher in behalf of the Lodge presented May Bradbury with the P. N. G. Collar in a few well chosen words. Mrs. Angie A. Weeks made a pleasing presentation to Mrs. Hoelscher of a gold piece and Miss Mabel Baxter presented a gold piece to Mrs. Potter, both gifts coming from the lodge. Mrs. Ida M. Welsh, in behalf of the Sewing Circle, presented May Bradbury with a beautiful P. N. G. jewel. All the recipients responded with words of gratitude.

Interesting speeches were given by others prominent in Odd Fellowship and excellent music was furnished by Mrs. Fred E. Perkins, Pianist, assisted by Mr. Edmund C. Buell and Mr. Fred E. Perkins, violinists.

SOMERSET FARMS CREAM

Frank H. Turgeon, manager of the Somerset Farms, is entitled to much credit not alone for the wonderful cream he dispenses throughout Greater Boston, but for the fine appearing trucks that haul it from source to destination. Everywhere about the Somerset Farms seems to suggest the first class in every respect. Newton people not yet being supplied with this cream are needlessly being deprived of a great pleasure.

A SPLENDID RECORD

At the annual meeting of the City Missionary Society of Boston, last week, Friday Mr. Samuel F. Wilkins of Summer street, was elected treasurer for the 47th time. Mr. Wilkins was literally born into the society as his father, Samuel C. Wilkins, was for many years one of its best known workers. It was in his father's kitchen that the Shawmut Church was organized.

Mr. Wilkins began as treasurer shortly after the late Rev. Daniel W. Waldron became secretary. He did the work at odd moments during a busy career as a banker. The only securities then were two $1000 bonds which he kept in his own safety deposit box. Mr. Wilkins has seen the endowment of the society multiply by practically one hundred.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—"Just Married," the famous laughing success with Vivian Martin and Lynne Overman, at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, now entering its fourth week in Boston, continues to play to undiminished business, and is crowding the house at every performance. There is every indication that "Just Married" will duplicate in Boston the success it has achieved in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. The authors are Adelaide Matthews and Anne Nichols, who gave the stage "Scrambled Wives" and "Nightie Night." The cast is headed by Vivian Martin and Lynne Overman.

FOR almost three-quarters of a century The Barrett Company has been America's leading manufacturer of roofings and roofing materials.

This fact has a definite meaning for every user of roofing. For in this age of keen competition only leadership that is based upon highest quality products, honest prices, and fair dealing could remain so long unchallenged.

For bungalows, garages and farm buildings, Everlastic Mineral-Surfaced Roll Roofing is one of the most popular of the famous Barrett brands. It is moderate in price, easy to lay and very durable. It may be had in either dark red or green and it needs no painting.

Let us tell you more about Barrett products.

Other popular Barrett products include metal protective paints, roofing cements, shingle stain oil, fly spray and a wood preservative.

On account of illness the Gilded Dome article has been omitted the past two weeks. We hope to resume the article next week.

The Senior play of the Newton Technical High School, "Fanny and the Servant Problem," will be given on the evenings of Feb. 9-10, with a special performance on Thursday afternoon. There will be dancing in the "Gym" after the evening performances.

Miss Mildred Greene, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College, class of '18, has recently been added to the faculty of the Classical High School. She will teach English and Spanish and will probably have Room 36 as her headquarters.

Newton's swimming team lost its first meet of the season when Rindge Tech piled up 28 1/2 points to Newton's 28. Wallace of Newton brought in ten of the team's 28 points by winning the 40-yard dash and the plunge. Marshall did a fine piece of work by winning the 200-yard swim, 12 yards ahead of the field.

On Wednesday, Jan. 31, Mayor Childs gave a very interesting talk to members of the Technical High School on the qualifications and duties of a citizen.

On Saturday evening, the Newton High School track team defeated the Alumni in a closely contested meet by a score of 43-34. During the meet two new school records were made. Kohler set a mark in the standing broad jump when he leaped 9 ft., 7 1/2 in., thus beating his own record by half an inch. Mercer clipped a fifth of a second off the 600 yard time. Tom Clausen, captain of the 1921 team, ran a fine race in the 1000-yard course, defeating Captain Dicks. Newton High gathered in 5 points when it won the 200-yard run, the last event of the evening.

Schwartz, McQuiston, and Walters of the School and Pierce, Gray, Walker and Richards of the Alumni were other place winners who did splendid work. Just before the last event Mr. Bacon, after a fitting speech, presented the insignia to the boys of the Intermediate and Junior varsity football teams. Those who received the letters are: Capt. Rhodes, Alexander, Arnold, Brophy, R. Brown, Carter, Fellows, Mgr. Flitts, Gilligan, Hanscom, Hoyt, C. Johnson, W. Johnson, Kernan, Mercer, Nixon, Rising, Sisk, Shaw, M. Stern, Stewart, Sutcliffe, and Wright. There was dancing at the end of the meet and the music was provided by Holmes' Orchestra.

The school swimming team was beaten last Monday at Malden by the home team 42 to 17. For Newton, Morrissey was second in the dive, Patterson second in the 200-yard dash and Marshall second in the 200-yard swim.

At Southboro, on Tuesday, the hockey team played a 1 to 1 tie with St. Marks with 41 minutes of play.

The track team was outpointed yesterday in the Boston Y. M. C. A. gym by Huntington school, the score being 44 to 24. The feature race was the 1000-yard run between Wesley Dicks of Newton and Edward Hall, Huntington. Not until the final lap was the contest decided. For most of the distance Dicks was content to remain in fourth place, but with three laps to go he passed third and second runners and then went to the front. Another interesting race was the 300-yard event. Walter Ryall led the field the first lap. Then William Spinney, Huntington, shot by with Larry Simmons of Huntington and McQuiston of Newton trailing closely. When the bell sounded, Spinney was going at a great pace with Ryall pressing close behind, the former winning. McQuiston was third, as Simmons of Huntington was disqualified for fouling.

NORTGATE CLUB

An enjoyable whist party was held at the Northgate Club, on Wednesday night. About 75 were present. First prizes were won by Mrs. Fred Potter, Mr. E. J. Carleton, Mrs. C. H. Alvord, and Mr. Willard Church. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B. Potter were in charge of the affair.

There will be a Valentine Dance on February 14th.

The Club is having Neighborhood Nights on Mondays.

VALENTINE PARTY AND WHIST

A dancing party with Valentine features and whist will be held on Thursday evening, February 8, at Norumbega Hall, Auburndale, under the direction of the young ladies of the Church of Corpus Christi, in aid of the church building fund. ## PUBLIC SCHOOL READING

It is interesting and illuminating to note the rate of increase in the publication of newspapers and periodicals in the United States during the last forty or fifty years, as shown by figures supplied by the Bureau of the Census. For instance, for the year 1870, there were published on the average five newspapers and periodicals for every man, woman, and child in the country; in 1910, this figure had leaped to something over a thousand. Phenomenal almost to the point of unbelief but such are the astounding facts.

Much may be read into such statistics. If reading maketh a full and a wise man, then surely our nation may frown upon the supposedly low state of literacy revealed by the results of the intelligence tests used by the war department during the recent world struggle. A nation that reads cannot be a nation of illiterates and our people certainly read. Further it is comforting to national pride to find that over one third of all the periodicals of all kinds in the world were published in the United States in 1910.

"The establishment of the penny press; the development of railroads as a means for the distribution of newspapers; the transmission of news reports; and the reduction of heavy postage rates; the discovery of telegraphy and its immediate application to the purposes of journalism; and the improvements of the printing press, which have rendered it possible to print large editions of newspapers in a short time" are causes enumerated by the author of the special census report for this great increase.

There is every reason to suppose another feature which has made this increase possible. It is that the public schools of our nation have evolved methods of teaching reading which make it possible for our citizens to read. This is a statement of truth, for in Horace Mann's report of 1838, as Secretary of the Board of Education of Massachusetts, from statements of school committee men gathered throughout the Commonwealth "eleven-twelfths of all school children did not understand the meaning of the words they read." Graduates of schools of those days were not fluent, intelligent readers. A newspaper or an almanac once a year meant keeping up with the times. Today the average urban population demand several editions daily and in known instances financial publications appear hourly. Rural peoples do not now fall far behind with their two editions daily. People have learned to read.

By the end of the third grade the pupil of 1923 has all the rudiments of reading that the average child of 1840 gained in his total schooling. Several of the above thoughts were presented in slightly different form by Charles L. Judd of the University of Chicago, in the December issue of the Elementary School Journal. Certainly these thoughts will bring cheer to our Newton citizens who have held such increasing faith in the public school these many years.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

Some of the philanthropic organizations within our city go about their work so quietly and unobtrusively, and thereby the more effectively, that the general public has very little idea what they are doing and little realization of how great is their need for larger funds. Among them may be particularly mentioned the Welfare Bureau and the West Newton Music School. An analysis of the donations to the former for the year just closed reveals that contributions came from but 373 individuals, from 9 churches, and from 7 clubs, from the Newton Federation, the Ladies' Home Circle, the Overseer of the Poor, the Peirce school, and the American Red Cross. The work being accomplished by the Welfare Bureau through its efficient secretary, Mrs. Carrie A. Hull, is much more than remedial, in fact she would not consider her position, if she could not do constructive work. The women of the clubs are, perhaps, more conversant with what she is doing than the men, and so it is the hope this year that the Bureau's work may become better known not merely from reading her report, but also from hearing from her of matters which it is impossible to put into print. Ten minutes from her on the work of the Welfare Bureau would be addition to any program and an opportunity which she would gladly embrace. The West Newton Music School, too, is doing a unique work, giving a thorough musical education to promising students who would otherwise be unable to afford instruction. Dr. Archibald T. Davison, of Harvard in a private conversation the other day said, "You Newton people ought to support it." He was undoubtedly enthusiastic over what is done by the school. Surely his approval and that of Mr. Thomas Surette should give our citizens confidence in what is being done and a generous support should be assured.

A brief review of legislative measures endorsed by the State Federation will be presented to the Newtonville Woman's Club by Mrs. William H. White, director of the 12th district, on Tuesday afternoon, and an amusing two-act play, "How Maggie MacTaggart Gained Her Citizenship," under the direction of Miss Marion D. Bassett will be given by the "star" members of the club. The Girl Scouts will conduct a food sale on this afternoon and members are invited to omit their pastry cooking on February 6, and make the girls happy with empty tables and full tills.

Mrs. Grace M. Poole will give the sixth of her current events lectures on Tuesday afternoon, February 13th, at 2.45 o'clock. Non-members may obtain tickets at the door. The group sewing for the Newton Hospital will meet with Mrs. James B. Hartford, 85 Otis street on Thursday afternoon, February 15.

An evening meeting of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands has been planned by the program committee for February 6, to be held in the Congregational Church auditorium at 8 o'clock. Hon. Guy A. Ham will speak on "Abraham Lincoln" and an unusual musical attraction will be the contribution of several numbers by Mr. Verne Powell of Arlington, flutist, accompanied by his son on the second flute and Mr. Almon J. Fairbanks at the organ. As this is "Guest Night," members will be allowed to bring guests—no tickets necessary either for members or guests.

Other events to come: Feb. 2, Junior assembly in Odd Fellows Hall, 8 P. M.; Feb. 3, Miss Jamieson's story hour in the Library, 10.45 A. M., for pupils of grades 6, 7 and 8; Feb. 5, Executive Board Meeting, 10 A. M.; Feb. 8, Bridge Party at Mrs. Arthur Williams' for Philanthropic Fund; Feb. 13, Barn Studio tea and display of basketry.

Guest Night of the Auburndale Review Club will be observed on Tuesday, February 6, at 8 o'clock in the Auditorium of the Auburndale Club house. A play will be given by some of the members with a reception and social hour following.

Wednesday morning the Newton Social Science Club holds its monthly business meeting. Guests may be invited at 10.30, to hear Miss Heloise E. Hersey, who will speak on "Modern Poetry."

The annual Luncheon-Bridge of the Newton Mothers' Club will be held this year on Wednesday, February 7, at one o'clock in the Unitarian Church at West Newton, with Mrs. H. C. Blunt as chairman.

On Thursday, February 8th, the meeting of the Newton Community Club will be one of unusual interest. The Reverend J. Burford Parry, a native of Wales and educated both in English and American schools of learning, is to give "The Great Welshman, Lloyd George." His address is the story of the struggle and rise of Lloyd George to the Premiership of Great Britain, told from the intimate knowledge of a neighbor and close friend of many years. Dr. Parry's voice and manner are of rare charm and compel the attention of his audience. The club chorus under the direction of Mrs. Arthur S. Flinn will sing.

Friday evening, February 9, the Community Service Club of West Newton will hold its annual Guest Night in Players' Hall, at 8 P. M. The entertainment will be given by Miss Helene Pardivel, pianist, Miss Ruth McIntyre, solo dances, and the one-act play, "Sham," by Frank G. Tompkins, will be presented by the following cast: Mrs. Royal G. Whiting, Mr. Royal G. Whiting, Mr. Harry Platt, Mr. Geoffrey Baker. Members are invited to bring guests, and a large audience is anticipated.

The Current Events meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be held Friday, Feb. 9 at 2.30 P. M., at Players' Small Hall. The chairman of the afternoon, Mrs. Fredrick A. Cole, is very fortunate in securing Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Brookline, president of the State Federation, as speaker. She will address the club on Current Events.

Dr. Francis George Curtis, chairman of the Newton Health Board, will talk on the Schick Test. There will be music by the Auburndale Women's Club Chorus Trio, Mrs. Edward Legge, soprano; Mrs. Lyman Gore, second soprano and Mrs. Wicklie Spaulding, alto. There is to be a tea followed by a social hour.

Local Happenings

At the last meeting of the Woman's Club of Newton Upper Falls Mrs. William H. White, of Wellesley Hills, State Federation district director, spoke of legislative matters upon which the Federation is working. Mrs. Walter Hosley, of Waban, read the play, "The Fifteenth Candle." Mr.

"The Enchanted Frame," as presented by the Newton Community Club at its meeting last Thursday afternoon, proved a most artistic and satisfying entertainment. The idea was worked out by the Art department of the State Federation a year or two ago, there being a lecture covering the characteristics of the art, particularly painting, of the different countries, with illustrations of examples of each shown within the "Enchanted Frame" by club members. There was a running accompaniment of appropriate music, both instrumental and vocal. The costumes provided by the Federation were exact in their detail and behind the screen of gauze within the frame might have been costly velvets and rich brocade, while the spot light cleverly operated converted the picture into a veritable canvass.

The first object shown was a Greek Statue, Artemis, Mrs. Frank F. Lamson. Titian's Laura was chosen as the Italian representation, being impersonated by Mrs. Samuel N. Braman. Of Flemish painters Franz Hals was selected, with Mrs. H. Leroy Simpson as "The Laughing Cavalier." Millet was the French artist and his "Knitting Lesson" in our own Boston Museum was portrayed by Mrs. Robert P. Walker and Eleanor Kerns. From the Spanish two men were chosen, Velasquez and Zurbarán. The former's "Lady with the Fan" was charmingly done by Mrs. Wallace Leonard, while Mrs. George W. Camp was in "My Uncle Daniel's Family" by the latter. Sir Joshua Reynolds was chosen for the English representatives, Mrs. Parks impersonating "Nellie O'Brien." Three American artists were chosen, Copley, Glenard, and Cyrus Dallin. Mrs. Henry Tolman appeared in the portrait of "Mrs. Lee," Mrs. Aldrich Taylor in "The Pot of Basil," and Mrs. George Angier and Peggy Lamson reproduced the Anne Hutchinson monument.

Musical was furnished by Mrs. Martha Gifford Haddon, pianist, Mrs. Wallace Wales, Mrs. Clara Sexton Crowley, and Mrs. Arthur S. Flinn, vocalists. The closing trio, "To Thee Oh Country," was particularly effective and appropriate accompaniment to the American art.

Great credit is due the committee, particularly to Mrs. Aldrich Taylor, who assumed the chairmanship upon very short notice, for the very fine way in which the program was put through. Those who assisted Mrs. Taylor were, Mrs. George Lincoln Parker, Mrs. Frank F. Lamson, Mrs. Frank E. Perkins, Mrs. George W. Camp, Mrs. Parks, Miss Dorothy S. Emmons, Mrs. Philip Jamieson and Miss Edith Jamieson.

The Auburndale Woman's Club cordially welcomed president and guests from other clubs to its new meeting place, the Auditorium of the Auburndale club house, on Tuesday afternoon, and so many accepted that the capacity of the hall was taxed almost to overflowing. After brief greetings and remarks from the guests of honor, Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, Mrs. William H. White, and Mrs. Ralph C. Henry, the entertainment was provided by a trio of artists, Beatrice King Stodola, Edwin Stodola, and Mignon Rounds Goward, in a dramatic presentation of "Famous Mothers of History," among whom were included, Nicholas Rebeckah, Mary, the Madonna, Queen Osburg, Anna Lager, Liszt, Mary Ball Washington, Nancy Hanks Lincoln, Martha Bullock Roosevelt, Elizabeth Marine Riley. Some were portrayed as living pictures and others through recitations or with musical accompaniment. Mr. Stodola's piano selections were especially good. A social hour with refreshments completed the afternoon.

Mr. Herbert W. Gleason met a large and enthusiastic group of would-be tourists of the Newtonville Woman's Club on Tuesday evening to join him in his trip through the Grand Canyon and high plateau region of southern Utah. Many were well satisfied to be conducted by means of a travel talk and lantern slides through this extra-

"MY BLACKTHORN STICK"

—By J. D. Monahan.

It was cut in Ballyshannon,

Where it grew among the fern;

Near the old bridge o'er the river

"And the winding banks of Erne."

I gaze down its thorny length,

As I hold it in my hand;

And every knot reminds me

Of my dear old Motherland.

I can picture her sad story,

One mingled joy and tears;

Each page adding to her glory,

Thru the bitter fight of years.

Yes, it's just a bit of blackthorn,

From the land of Hugh O'Neill;

From the land of Tone and Emmet—

Gallant hearts as true as steel.

It calls to mind the songs of Moore,

And Allingham's kindly pen;

With the warrior words of Davis

To awake her sons again.

The sun is breaking thru thy clouds,

O're thy hills and valleys green;

The lustre that was once your own

Soon will crown you "Ocean's

Queen."

Thorny little bit of blackthorn,

'Tis no wonder that I yearn,

To go to Ballyshannon

"And the winding banks of Erne."

FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY

St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Newton Highlands has an Interesting Program

On Monday evening the members of St. Paul's Church, Newton Highlands, celebrated its fortieth anniversary.

The early part of the evening was given over to reception. In the receiving line were Rev. and Mrs. Theodore R. Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Rayner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Anness, and Mrs. Daniel White of Newton Upper Falls who attended the second service held in the church and the church, which he paid as a tribute to his father and mother. This came as a great surprise to those present and was greatly appreciated.

Music was furnished during the evening by Mr. Switzer, organist of the church, Miss Dorothy Johnson, and Mr. Frank O. Hunter accompanied by Miss Eunice Huntsman.

Refreshments and a social hour concluded the evening. A brief history of the church follows:

The first meeting of persons interested in the Protestant Episcopal form of worship in Newton Highlands was held at the residence of Mr. James Simpson on January 26, 1883, at which Mr. George D. Eldridge was chairman and Mr. John P. Tenney, clerk. Mr. James Simpson was subsequently chosen president, Mr. Alexander Tyler, vice-president; Mr. John P. Tenney, clerk, and Mr. Charles F. Johnson, treasurer.

The first religious meeting was held in the block at the junction of Walnut and Lincoln street, on February 4, 1883, at which 118 persons were present. Immediate steps were taken towards building a chapel, and the opening service was held July 19, 1883.

The Parish of St. Paul was incorporated April 14, 1884, with the following charter members: J. R. Deane, Charles C. Barton, John P. Tenney, James Simpson, Edward J. Payne, Alexander Tyler, Charles F. Johnson, George W. Knight, A. O. Sweet, J. W. Hill, John F. Heckman, T. P. Wiggin, J. Edwards Harlow, A. E. Hodgson, F. A. Skelton, F. L. Skinner, Charles R. White, E. J. Williams, John Brunnett, Eben Thompson, Edwin H. Corey, James H. Hatch and George D. Eldridge.

The rectory was purchased in 1888, and in 1902 it was moved to its present location on Columbus street and chapel enlarged and a parish house erected.

For the first four years, the church was served by four ministers, Rev. George W. Shinn, rector of Grace Church at Newton, being the first, and was followed by Mr. Langdon L. Ward, Mr. Henry W. Winkley, Rev. Dean R. Rabbitt, Rev. Carlton P. Mills, the first rector, was installed November 26, 1886, and served for about three years. He was succeeded by Rev. William Hall Williams, whose service extended to six and a half years. Rev. Clifford G. Twombly serving for ten years. Rev. Charles E. Jackson for a few months. Rev. Albert N. Slayton for six years. Rev. Louis A. Parsons for six years, and the present rector, Rev. Theodore R. Ludlow, has served since Sept. 1, 1920.

REV. THEODORE R. LUDLOW

is the oldest living member. About two hundred people were present, including Mrs. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Williams, who are no longer residents of Newton Highlands but were among the first members of the parish.

Letters of congratulation and remembrance from former rectors of St. Paul's, the Rev. C. P. Mills, the Rev. W. H. Williams, the Rev. C. G. Twombly, the Rev. A. N. Slayton, and the Rev. L. A. Parsons were read by Mr. Stephen A. Smith. Rev. Theodore R. Ludlow, the present rector, gave an address of welcome, and Rev. Samuel H. Woodrow of the Congregational Church brought the greetings from his church. Rev. Frederick C. Robinson of the Methodist Church was unable to be present.

Mr. Edgar D. Sampson, one of the oldest members of the church, gave an historical address at the conclusion of which he presented Rev. Mr. Ludlow, Mr. Rayner and Mr. Anness with the cancelled mortgage of

BAD FIRE

A fire which originated in the cellar from some unknown cause, swept through the William J. Kennedy home at 321 Commonwealth avenue, in the Chestnut Hill section of Newton Centre, early Monday morning, resulting in damages amounting to about $15,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy were assisted from the burning house by firemen and Jessie Jackson, a maid in the employ of the Kennedy's who was trapped on the second floor when the flames swept up the staircase, was carried down a ladder to safety by patrolman Edward Chadwick and hosieryman Bernard Neville of Combination 9.

At 3:15 o'clock patrolman Chadwick was passing the house and saw flames through a second-story window. He pulled an alarm from box 84, which is in front of the house, and ran to awaken the occupants. The cellar was a seething mass of flames and the fire had broken through into the first floor and was climbing the stairs. Chadwick awoke Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy and they managed to descend the stairs unaided. The maid, however, reached the stairway just a minute too late, as the flames made her escape impossible by that means. She screamed for help and patrolman Chadwick, together with hosieryman Neville, ran a ladder up the side of the house and carried the woman out.

The house, which was only recently completed, is one of the finest places of the section. Situated on the corner of Hammond street, and Commonwealth avenue, the house attracts considerable attention because of the old style of architecture. Surrounded by brick dwellings the Kennedy home is of the low Spanish mission type, the only one of its kind on the boulevard. The place is valued at $90,000.

The fire was at first believed to have started from an overheated furnace but the house was found to be heated by oil and the oil heater kept on going all through the fire. The greater part of the damage was caused by flames and smoke.

IN NEW QUARTERS

J. L. Fairbanks and Company, of Boston, one of the oldest manufacturing stationery firms in the country, having been founded in 1798, have moved from 15 Franklin street, corner of Franklin and Federal streets, No. 63 Federal street, Mr. Abner K. Pratt of Gibbs street, Newton Centre is the head of the company.

In 1798 the firm's name was Benjamin and Josiah Loring, and in 1810 new quarters were opened at 1 South Row, or Marlborough street, at that time, what is now 288 Washington street. The firm moved to Franklin street in 1902. Mr. Fairbanks, who worked his way up from a boy, became a partner in 1841. He died in 1875. Mr. Pratt became a partner in 1888.

WEST NEWTON MUSIC SCHOOL

The kindly notice given to the West Newton Music School's work by Miss Grace M. Burt in her Women Club article of last week's issue is all the more appreciated because unsolicited in any way. Her appeal on behalf of the school for consideration from the citizens of Newton for larger support comes at a critical time for us. It is difficult for us to make such an appeal ourselves without seeming ingratitude for the generous support given us by loyal friends, and Miss Burt's statement opens the way for us to bring, through the courtesy of your columns, some facts and figures before the public that concern that part of it which desires to keep the Music School and make it a permanent institution.

This year's budget calls for $5300 as did last year's, but as there was a deficit of some hundreds in 1921-22, important work had to be forgone in order not to put the school in debt. At a time when it seemed almost impossible to hope to keep the school, it was fortunate enough to gain the attention of two widely known and esteemed gentlemen, Dr. Archibald T. Davidson and Thomas W. Surette, musicians and educators of high standing. Their investigations resulted in a grant of money and other kinds of help from a fund controlled by them for the purposes of furthering high standards in Music Education. In the words of the grant "this is made for the purpose of enabling these schools (the West Newton Music School and the South End School of Boston) to become models of what such schools should be, thereby interesting and influencing other schools throughout the country."

The fund is given for certain specific objects which the school could not otherwise afford, the one stipulation being that the school should raise, through its supporting public, the minimum budget of $3300. To quote from Mr. Surette in his talk before the Open Meeting of Dec. 3rd given in the Channing Church to acquaint the Newton Public with the circumstances:

"This West Newton Music School is a great asset to the City of Newton. Dr. Davidson and I are very much interested in this school. In watching the progress made by other schools, we are convinced that this school is the best school and the one that should get our attention. It is on you the responsibility falls, and if you will do your share, this school will go forward. I ask of you, one and all, to help us to carry on what is so well begun and established. If you do so the grant will be permanent. But, unless the citizens of

READ FUND LECTURE

Under the auspices of the Read Fund, Rev. Samuel M. Crothers of Cambridge, gave a lecture Monday night at the Hunnewell Club, Newton, on "Satan Among the Biographers." Satan in this capacity is first mentioned in the book of Job. The lecturer compared Satan to a person on the opposition bench ready to ask questions.

Formerly biographers treated a subject in much the same way an artist paints a portrait, from what he sees on the outside. Modern biographers use psycho-analysis and try to see into the mind of the person reviewed.

Dr. Crothers' illustrations were numerous and witty. They were taken from John Morley's "Life of Gladstone," Frederick Chamberlin's "Life of Elizabeth," and Strachey's "Life of Queen Victoria."

Gladstone was a great man, and Mr. Morley was in a position to know many things of him which others did not, but he did not look at Gladstone's mind. Strachey, on the other hand, indulges in minute analysis. He makes us see Queen Victoria "as she would have seen herself if she had been as smart as we." When we finish his portrayal, we feel it was no mistake that she lived in the Victorian era. This is a triumph for the biographer.

Of Chamberlain's "Queen Elizabeth" he said that there were forty pages devoted to discussions of her diseases and the diagnosis of her doctors. While the 20th century doctors have little praise for what the 16th century doctors did, they ought, at least, to acknowledge that with all her diseases, they kept her alive to enjoy a good old age.

The speaker quoted Cato's saying, "It is hard to live in one period and be judged by another period." A great man is one who rises above the level of his own time. To psychoanalyse one who is dead must be a fascinating occupation, according to the lecturer, for there is no one of the family or period left to contradict the biography.

ALDERMEN MEET

Mayor Childs appoints Mr. Allston Burr a Sinking Fund Commissioner

The principal feature of the meeting of the aldermen on Monday evening was another interminable committee meeting during a recess of the board which kept the board in session until nearly midnight.

President Hollis was in the chair and Aldermen Collins and Hickey were the only members absent.

There were the usual grist of routine hearings with nobody interested except in two cases. There was a spirited discussion of the recommendation of Mayor Childs that the curve in Commonwealth avenue near Prince street be straightened. It was favored by Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Blodgett, John M. Dowd, Mrs. William B. Cowing and others with a letter in favor from Henry B. Day and opposed by Representative P. S. Cunniff for the Mehigan estate, Mr. C. J. Mehigan with a letter in opposition from George M. Angier. There was considerable conflicting testimony in regard to the number and extent of the accidents which had taken place at this point and as to the relief which would be granted by straightening the curve.

A hearing on a proposed sewer in Charlesbank terrace was reported favorably by Alexander Frazier and opposed by Roderick MacLean, George H. Edwards and others.

Mayor Childs sent in recommendations for payment of laborers pensions to Gaetano Santillo, $546; Dominic Spelman, $693, and Patrick Barry, $653; for payment of taxes on land taken for school purposes on Waltham street, for payment of street lighting in Newton Centre square, all of which were approved. He also submitted these appointments, Allston Burr for sinking fund commissioner, O. J. McCourt, overseer of the poor; Dr. C. A. Boutelle, inspector of animals; and Ralph W. Angier and Thomas J. Lyons, members of playground commission for three years.

The school committee requested $6000 for moving Underwood school to a temporary site and that sum was approved and the mayor given authority to dispose of the old building when the new school was completed. Sewer assessments and charges submitted by the city engineer were approved.

Petitions of Ira C. Doucett and Charles S. Pearce for taxi licenses, of Michael Maguire for private garage on Linwood avenue and the Garden City Garage, MacNeill Auto Sales Co. and Joseph P. Jewett for automobile licenses were granted.

Petitions of F. A. Morse for a victualler license, 352 Watertown street, for sewer in Wameest road, that Short street, Waban, be a one way street, for transfer of property at Commonwealth avenue and Walnut street from a residential to a business district, for transfer to general resident district of land on Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, and for a victualler licenses at 400 Centre street were received.

Permission was granted children from the Noble and Greenough School to take part in an entertainment of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on March 23rd.

The Newton Highlands Improvement Association sent in resolutions approving the building of a high school gymnasium.

These appointments of Mayor Childs were unanimously confirmed, W. B. Randlett, forest warden and inspector of petroleum; Henry Bailly, chairman of assessors; George E. Stuart, superintendent for gypsy moths, and Charles E. Gibson, Alfred E. Alvord and Albert M. Lyon, as members of the Planning Board.

The committee on Mayor's address approved the proposal that the cost of street sprinkling should be included in the general tax levy, and the erection of a sanitary building at Cabot Park.

Joseph Beraldi was given leave to withdraw on petition for a garage on Webster place, and the Garden City Garage granted an increase in quantity of gasoline to be kept.

Hearings were assigned on laying out of Cranberry street, on the laying out of proposed streets at Oak Hill, making a division in certain betterment assessments, reducing betterment assessment of Michael Chirung by 50%, abating sewer assessment on estate of G. M. Angier, and settling

A Business As An Inheritance

Men who build a successful business, neglecting in the meanwhile to create an estate separate, often go out of the world leaving an inheritance of doubtful value to their families.

—the heirs may not be qualified to succeed in the management

—without its founder the success of the business may wane

—there may be obligations which would strain the finances

—if it were desirable for the estate to sell out, there might be difficulty in finding a buyer.

A prosperous business, therefore, may not prove the best kind of inheritance, but an independent estate, created and enlarged under a trust agreement, can be transmitted to heirs and continued for their benefit indefinitely.

Are you looking ahead?

Our TRUST DEPARTMENT has resources in excess of $1,000,000. It will bring to the management of your estate; broad experience, conscientious effort, and sympathetic interest.

aim of F. J. Dorr on Algonquin road for $50.
After the recess, there was quite a debate on the report of the Claims and rules committee, Alderman Ross, dissenting, favoring the employment of police officers as assistant assessors. Alderman White believed it would create jealousy in the police department and the order was defeated. Another recommendation of the committee striking out the limit of 12 for assistant assessors was adopted.
There was also some debate on the after limiting the Saturday half holiday recently granted so that carpenters and painters who do not work on Saturday should not be entitled to the half holiday. The matter was finally laid on the table until the next meeting.

Newton wish to give their help in adequate measure, the obligations we are under as trustees of the Fund will require that the support be withdrawn.
Last year the School received from 222 individuals $2642.00 From Churches, Clubs and other organizations 537.00
Year 1921-22 $3179.00
This year the School has received from 251 individuals $2642.00 From Churches and Clubs 197.00

This leaves far too heavy a burden on the Board to raise the needed money by entertainments, and it does not allow the School the needed assurance for making plans and carrying out permanent policies.

In spite of its name, the School serves the whole city, through its three branches.
May we ask that the public consider these facts in the light of our thirteen years' service and help us to maintain the School for the city's youth.

CATHOLIC WOMAN'S CLUB

On Wednesday evening, the Catholic Woman's Club of Newton Centre gave a concert of unusual merit in Bray Hall.

Dr. Irving L. Gifford sang a group of Folk Songs, followed by a second group of selections from Schubert, Schuman, Franz, Liszt and Grieg.

As illustrations of the Russian School, Dr. Gifford rendered, "The Asra" by Rubenstein, and the "Romance of the Rose" by Rimsky-Korsakoff and selections from Gretchaninoff and Rachmaninoff.

The last group included selections from representative French composers.

Dr. Gifford prefaced each song with a brief introduction about the poem and music, which added greatly to the understanding and enjoyment of the audience.

Miss McKee also added much to the charm of the program by her sympathetic accompaniments.

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT

Mr. Samuel Shaw, who died last Saturday at Portland, Me., was for many years a well-known resident of Newton Highlands, and prominent in Masonic circles.

He was born at South Carver, Mass., on May 24, 1845 and he came of Revolutionary stock on both sides of his family. He was a member of Dalhousie Lodge of Masons of Newtonville; Boston Council, Gethsemane Commandery, Knights Templar of Newtonville, former grand commander of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and in the year 1901 was appointed grand lecturer for Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He was elected eminent commander of the Gethsemane Commandery of Newtonville in 1899.

He had been retired from active business several years. Five sons survive him, Alfred Victor Shaw, a mining engineer and a graduate of Technology in the year 1906, who is now located at Silverton, Colo.; Ralph R. Shaw, a mining superintendent, now located at Durango, Colo.; Ernest W. Shaw, in the United States Forestry Department at Livingston, Mont.; Samuel H. Shaw, of Springfield, under the name of Shaw, who is in the automobile supply business at Portland, Maine.

NEW FIRM

Mr. George A. Haynes, for the past seven years with the Newton Trust Company and Clement Hernandez, of Waltham, have opened well appointed real estate offices at 253 Walnut street, Newtonville Square, under the firm name of Haynes & Hernandez.

Mr. Haynes' experience as a bank man, serving in the various capacities from clerk to Assistant Cashier of the Newton Trust Company, and for some time manager of the Newtonville and Auburndale offices of the bank, especially fits him to branch out into the Real Estate, Mortgage and Insurance business. The knowledge he has attained on Newton valuations has been developed through the most advantageous channels, he having served for the past four years on the investigation committee on real estate and mortgage loans at the bank. His familiarity with Newton is well established, having been born in West Newton and receiving his education in our public schools, graduating from the Newton Technical High School in 1915.

Mr. Hernandez has been associated in the printing industry, having conducted a very successful business in Boston under his own name for several years. His acquaintance in Newton has grown very rapidly and no doubt it is due to his great activity in social and fraternal circles in this vicinity. He is a native of Waltham and after attending the local schools went to Phillips Exeter, where he enjoyed the one great task in a young man's career of working his way through school.

NORUMBEGA SOCIAL

Next Monday evening at the Norumbega School of Religious Education, at Central Church, Newtonville, the Assembly period will be given over to a social, in order that members who come from many churches may become better acquainted. The social is in charge of the Watertown members of the School.

The class in Pageantry, under the direction of Dr. Priscilla H. H. Fowle of Newton Centre, is making an intensive study of the Easter Pageant called "The Dawning," written by Lyman R. Bayard. This pageant is called by many competent critics the very best obtainable for the church Easter observance, producing an effect that is altogether spiritual and convincing.

There are twenty-four members in the Pageantry class. They have already been planning simple dramatizations or pageant forms as methods for interpreting familiar hymns, and bringing out their significance. Missionary hymns are found especially useful for such a purpose.

EDITORIAL

Favorable action by the aldermen on the recommendation of Mayor Childs that the cost of dust laying should be in the general tax levy instead of a special assessment on the property directly benefited by the dust laying, means the shifting of the cost of this work from one class of tax payers to another.

Just how it would work out is an involved question depending upon the amount of real estate owned by the tax payer. In brief it means an addition of some $45,000 to the general tax levy or about 45 cents on the pre-tax rate. On a piece of real estate with 100 feet frontage and valued at $10,000, this would mean a relief of $4.00 direct street sprinkling assessment and an addition of $4.50 on the general tax bill. At the present time there are about 30 miles of street not sprinkled, and on the tax payers living on those streets, the change means a direct increase in taxes without any relief from special assessments. It is inevitable that these tax payers will immediately and with justice demand that their streets be oiled with the rest of the city. It will also mean an increased tax on every merchant and shop keeper and automobile owner in the city, as the increased tax rate will affect personal property as well as real estate. All in all it is a subject in which our tax payers may well take an interest.

While the proposition of Mr. Hartmann to develop the Oak Hill section of the city appears to have considerable merit, its acceptance will radically change the settled policy of the city in the matter of laying out new streets. For many years the city has required land owners to pay the full cost of placing the streets in proper condition for acceptance as public ways and under this wise policy, we have had splendid developments like that of Farlow Hill and West Newton Hill. To accept a proposition whereby the city would pay 75% of the cost of the work, would not only be unfair to land developers of the past but would open the way to many propositions of far less merit than that of Mr. Hartmann. Incidentally, the building of a piece of concrete road connecting with gravel built roads at each end would inevitably require in the near future an enormous amount for continuing the concrete roadbed.

The proposed widening of Commonwealth avenue at Prince street has been carefully studied by past city governments who have been unable to see that this possible improvement was worth the price. We do not believe that the proposed widening would for one moment relieve the danger said to exist at this point and we feel very sure that if the avenue was widened at this point it would be a further invitation for increased speed with consequently increased danger.

Little progress will be made in curbing bootleggers and drunken operators of automobiles so long as our courts impose suspended sentences on those found guilty. A few days in incarceration in jail is the only effective way to make this class of offenders obey the law.

The proposition to have police officers act as assistant assessors has considerable merit, if the work is done as part of the regular duty, as is the case in Boston and Watertown.

REAGAN WALLACE

Last Sunday, Miss Mary R. Wallace, daughter of Mrs. Wallace M. Wallace, Raymond place, West Newton, became the bride of Mr. John V. Reagan of Dorchester. The wedding took place at St. Bernard's Church, and was performed by the Rev. John Alliston.

The bride's gown was of gold cloth veiled in charming lace with a hat to match. Her only attendant was Miss Elizabeth M. King of West Newton, who wore a gown of a Alice blue tulle and hat to match. The groom's attendant was Mr. W. Russell Reagan of Dorchester.

A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony. After a wedding trip to North Conway, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. Reagan will make their home on Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale.

The groom is a graduate of Georgetown University, and is a director of the Dorchester Club a member of the K. of C. and has many other affiliations.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

The Woman's Association of Central Church held its all day meeting on Wednesday. After sewing and the making of surgical dressings luncheon was served by Mrs. Stuart Hill and her committee, assisted by the young women of Central Guild.

In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Brewer Eddy the report was read and pledge envelopes distributed by Mrs. W. H. Allen. Mrs. P. F. Williams read letters from Porto Rico and Taladega College, Alabama, expressing thanks for the surgical dressings. Mrs. H. O. Williams was announced as chairman of the Cradle Roll.

A system has been arranged to supplement the work of the deaconesses. Several assistants will serve under the deaconess of their district, making calls and welcoming the new comers. These assistants will be changed from time to time.

Misses Eleanor Richmond and Mary Elizabeth Edmonds, who were delegates to the young people's camp at Lake Winnepesaukee last summer, told of the ideals, purposes and activities of these centres, where the young are trained for Christian leadership. To promote these helpful agencies money is needed and contributions will be solicited.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. F. E. Clark, who with her husband recently toured Europe in the interest of the Christian Endeavor movement. In a conversational manner Mrs. Clark gave her impressions of the religious life in Europe. It is a more outspoken Christianity there than in this country. A kindness is done and "for Jesus" is the motive given. A young people's band has the instruments marked C. E. In Germany Mrs. Clark had met with much kindness. A visit to Coblenz had shown our boys living happily and finding that on $1.00 a day they were Nabobs. What a startling spectacle to behold the Stars and Stripes floating from Ehrenbreitstein! Much poverty is seen in Germany. In Freiburg they had no butter and no milk except small tubes of condensed milk.

In Czechoslovakia there is property and happiness. In that country Woodrow Wilson is honored. Stations and boulevards are named for him and his picture is seen everywhere.

In Hungary there is a marked contrast. She has lost much of her territory and blames Wilson bitterly for her condition.

Mrs. Clark described the Sisterhoods where training is given for all kinds of service from the scrubbing of floors to conducting evangelistic meetings. Many amusing incidents enlivened her account and the occasion was very enjoyable.

NEWTON W. C. T. U.

The January meeting of the Newton W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Florence E. Foster, 1658 Walnut street, Newton Highlands. Mrs. Sarah E. K. Mick, president, presided and led the devotionals.

Mrs. Jeannette H. Mann, gave a very interesting account of the World's and National Convention held in Philadelphia, Pa. Refreshments and a social hour followed the regular meeting. The hostesses were Mrs. Florence E. Foster, Mrs. F. A. Campbell, Mrs. O. P. Lovjoy, Mrs. Charles Hathaway and Mrs. Charles T. Bartlett. There were 27 members present.

The Newton W. C. T. U. held its February meeting at the home of Mrs. Cyrus T. Schirmer, 25 Wauchoisset road, Chestnut Hill. There were 29 members present. Mrs. Sarah E. K. Mick, president, presided.

Miss Pucclarelli and Miss Sheer of the West Newton Music School rendered music which delighted the hearers.

Mrs. E. J. James's reading and interpretation of "The Fifteenth Candle" was very touching. Service is the keynote of all happiness was impressed upon the minds of those who heard Mrs. Edwin F. Browne read "The Happy Prince" by Oscar Wilde. Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

PARISH NIGHT

Under the auspices of Grace Church Men's Club, the members of Grace Church, and their friends enjoyed "Parish Night" Thursday evening. The hall was crowded, and many were standing.

The entertainment consisted of two short plays, the first by Booth Tarkington called "The Ghost Story." This was a typical Tarkington story of adolescent life in which the parts were taken by the young people of the parish. Mr. T. Edson Jewell, Jr., as the young lover who was trying to get up his courage to propose was exceedingly funny. Miss Katherine White made a charming "sweetheart." The other young people were very well acted by the following:

Miss Mary Marshall, Miss Florence E. White; Miss Marylove Pullman, Mr. Edward Center; Mr. Royall Switzer, Mr. Irvin Switzer; and Mr. John S. Priest.

The second play was called "Lonesomeness" by Harold Brighouse. To his high praise cannot be given for this play which seemed professional in the quality of the acting. Mr. William V. M. Fawcett as Sam Horrocks was particularly fine. The mixture of pathos and humor made the play very appealing. Mrs. Ralph W. Bartlett seemed to be living rather than acting the part of Sarah Omerod, and Miss Lena L. Nixon did the difficult part of Emma Brierly with its Lancashire dialect very well indeed.

The entertainment was followed by dancing. Mr. Leverett D. G. Bentley, President of the Men's Club, paid a tribute to the stage manager, Mr. Thomas White, and to the coach, Mr. William V. M. Fawcett, and also expressed the appreciation of the club for the use of the curtains which were loaned for the occasion by Mr. George Lord of West Newton.

N. H. S.

The Harvard Musical Clubs will give a concert and dance next Friday evening at the Classical High School in aid of the Library Fund.

ORIGIN OF "BULL AND BEAR"

These Common Terms Go Back to the Early History of the British Stock Exchange.

So well established have the terms "bull" and "bear" become that they are defined even in the least colloquial of dictionaries as "one who speculates or wagers upon a rise in stocks" and "one who speculates or wagers on a fall." The commonly accepted explanation of the use of the terms formerly was that the bear claws or pulls the stock down, while the bull tosses it up, at it were, on his horns. But this is really nothing more than a guess, and the real origin of the phrase "bull and bear" is buried somewhere in the early history of the British stock exchange.

Here, says the Detroit News, it appears that the earliest use of the idea was in the proverb about "selling the bearskin before one has caught the bear," which was applied to all transactions on the exchange or elsewhere where there was no immediate transfer of goods, but only a payment to be made at some future time according as the goods had advanced or receded in price.

In "The Anatomy of 'Change Alley,'" published in 1719, occurs the sentence: "Those who buy Exchange Alley bargains are styled buyers of bearskins," and in 1744 the terms appear to have come into common usage, for the London Magazine of that year refers to "bulls and bears," while George Coleman, in his "Man of Business," uses them in precisely the same sense in which they are employed at the present time.

HOW MANY STITCHES IN SUIT?

Some Patient Person Over in England Has Estimated That They Number About 45,000.

There are approximately 45,000 stitches in the average man's suit of clothes, according to an announcement recently made in an English paper by some amazingly patient and observing person, presumably a tailor. This result is reached by the following calculation:

To the average-size pair of trousers, 8,000 stitches are allotted. Of this number, about 6,800 are machine made, the rest being put by hand, chiefly in the form of finishing work to the waist, pockets and turn-ups, or "cuts."

In the vest or waistcoat there are, he declares, roughly, 5,500 stitches. The percentage of handwork is higher in this garment than in the trousers, the lining usually being put in entirely by hand-made stitches, as well as the finishing work. The figures are 3,400 machine, and 2,100 hand stitches.

But it is in the coat that the big totals come. In that garment, he says, there are, on an average, 30,000 stitches. The pockets and the large number of seams account for much machine work, while the lining and refinishing entail many hand-made stitches. Of the latter there are more than 8,000 in the average coat. There are also to be taken into consideration the tacking and fitting stitches, which, as above announced, brings the total up to something like a round 45,000.

Maximilian's Beautiful Beard.

Maximilian of Austria, "the pale archduke from overseas," had one of the most nearly perfect beards of all time. It has been much mentioned in poetry, and is recorded as full of gleams and glints. Ruben Dario, in one of his Mexican poems, christened Maximilian el Principe del Barbado Oro—Prince of the Beard of Gold. Victor Hugo should have been called, says the critic, the Bard of the Elegant Beard. Whiskers of authors rather fascinated Dario. He dedicated verses to the famous Spanish novelist, Don Ramon del Valle-Inclan, as "This renowned Don Ramon with the goat's beard distinguished."

William Penn Smoked With Women.

William Penn has a fine record in the history books. Controversy and colonial muck raking has not sullied his name. But William Penn smoked with the women. He smoked with them right out in public. In fact, they took puffs from the same pipe. Twice at least did this happen.

But it was a peace pipe; a Calumet which he smoked with the big chiefs and the braves and the squaws of the tribes that were selling him land. He made a fine trade for a first-class piece of land, paying for it in part with 300 tobacco pipes, 100 hands of tobacco and 20 tobacco boxes.

Had the Laugh on Teacher.

Preliminary to taking the final examination we reviewed the work we had covered during the semester. The teacher called on me to differentiate between "debit" and "credit," and when I was almost through reciting, he said, "Are you reading that?" I said, "Yes, sir, I—." The teacher interposed with, "I thought so. That isn't what I wanted you to do." The class laughed, but I turned the joke on the teacher by completing my sentence with, "I am reading it from memory."—Chicago Journal.

Foresaw the Results of Victory.

Willie—Aw! You're afraid to fight; that's all it is.

Jack—No, I'm not; but if I fight my ma'll find it out and like me.

"How'll she find it out?"

"She'll see the doctor goin' to your house."—London Answers.

REAL POETS ARE PROPHETS

They Participate in the Eternal, the Infinite and the One, Says Shelley.

Every original language near to its source is in itself the chaos of a cyclic poem; the copiousness of lexicography and the distinctions of grammar are the works of a later age, and are merely the catalogue and the form of the creations of poetry.

But poets, or those who imagine and express this indestructible order, are not only the authors of language and of music, of the dance, and architecture, and statuary, and painting; they are the institutors of laws, and the founders of civil society, and the inventors of the arts of life, and the teachers, who draw into a certain proximity with the beautiful and the true, that partial apprehension of the agencies of the invisible world which is called religion. . . . Not that I assert poets to be prophets in the gross sense of the world, or that they can foretell the form as surely as they foreknow the spirit of events; such is the pretense of superstition, which would make poetry an attribute of prophecy rather than prophecy an attribute of poetry. A poet participates in the eternal, the infinite, and the one; as far as relates to his conceptions, time and place and number are not. The grammatical forms which express the moods of time, and the difference of persons, and the distinction of place, are convertible with respect to the highest poetry without injuring it as poetry; and the choruses of Aeschylus, and the Book of Job, and Dante's Paradise, would afford, more than any other writings, examples of this fact.—Shelley.

How PYGMIES GET BANANAS
Mark Green Bunch With Arrows, Take it When Ripe and Leave Meat in Payment.

The pygmies in Central Africa take up their abode near the village of a big chief where banana plantations abound, from which they may glean when they please. They have two methods of doing this. One is as follows:

A pigmy will mark out a bunch of bananas in a plantation by shooting an arrow into the stalk. The arrow signifies that the pigmy desires that particular bunch when it is sufficiently ripe. The owner of the plantation stands in such fear of the pigmy's vengeance that he never dreams of removing the fruit or the arrow, but leaves both to be claimed by the awe-inspiring dwarf.

By the other method, the pigmy buys the bananas, he fixing the price and paying for it in that which his fat makes currency. On returning home from a day's hunting, with several pieces of meat wrapped in grass or leaves, he goes to a plantation, selects several bunches of bananas, shins up the tree, cuts off the bunches, and in payment, affixes one of the small packets of meat to the stem by a wooden skewer. He has not, in his view, stolen the bananas—he has bought them!

Where Every Bride Is Measured.
The "measuring of the bride" follows every marriage ceremony performed in the English town of Royden. The reason is that about three hundred years ago the lord of the manor bequeathed the sum of $5,000, the interest from which was to be voted annually to provide dowries for four brides. Under the terms of the bequest, the money has to be divided among the youngest, the eldest, the shortest and the tallest brides married during the course of each year in the parish church. The official records determine who are the youngest and the eldest, but to decide the shortest and tallest, each bride is required to remove her shoes and let down her hair and be measured by the officiating minister.

Legend of Wandering Jew.
The wandering Jew was a legendary personage condemned to wander upon the earth until the second coming of Christ, for reviling the Savior while on his way to Calvary. Some say he was a porter in the service of Pontius Pilate, named Cartaphilus; but others identify him with Abasuerus, a cobbler on whose doorstep Christ attempted to rest when overcome with the weight of the cross. Tradition has it that Abasuerus drove the Savior from his door with curses, whereupon Jesus calmly replied: "I truly am going; but thou shalt wander over the earth until I return." Southey's "Curse of Kehama," Croly's "Salathiel," and the Sue's "Le Juif Errant," make use of this legend, although not in its original form.—Kansas City Star.

PRIZE EDITORIALS

The editor of the Graphic as president of the National Editorial Association recently offered some prizes for the best editorial submitted for competition by members of that Association.

The judges who passed upon the editorials submitted selected the following for first, second and third place.

Editorial Responsibility

To weigh the acts of men and judge the motives behind the acts, to consider private rights and public policies, distinguishing between the trivial and the important, between the claims of the unworthy and the unclaimed rights of the worthy, between the fallacies of the temperamental enthusiast and the vicious pronouncements of the demagogue on the one hand and the solid foundations of truth on the other; to look forward as well as backward and always upward, prudently always as tranquilly as may be; these are the duties that hourly lie in the path of the conscientious editor.

To be able to separate jealousies, human inconsistencies and personal prejudices inborn from the right as it may appear to him to be; to conquer private ambition that would unworthily affect his efforts for the public welfare; these are gifts and graces devoutly to be prayed for by everyone entrusted with the preparation of messages to the minds and hearts of the people.

The editor who may unworthily use his power and place may debauch the minds, the hopes and the ambitions of those who read his words. He may raise animosities between neighbors, spread discord, and undermine public confidence and kindle the fires of prejudice. He may so mingle truths and half truths and he may so prey upon the vain imaginations of unworthy souls that the very foundations of the state may be disrupted. Contrariwise, he may clarify the public mind by a proper assemblage of facts and by presenting proper conclusions therefrom. He can caution the unwary, counsel the indiscreet, teach the truth to the open minded and denounce the perpetrators of evil and those who would corrupt private and public life. The editor must choose. He cannot shirk responsibility. The consequent effect of what he writes from day to day and presents for the information and guidance of the people cannot be blotted out.

And withal to have joy in the doing, that the workmanship may attain that degree of perfection only attained by those who love their work. Then shall power be added to the words fitly written, and then, as it was with Paul to the Romans, his calling shall be magnified.

Written by F. O. Edgecombe, Signal, Geneva, Neb. (Mr. Edgecombe is totally blind.)

"He Never Quits"

"He Played Four Years on the Scraper," "He Never Quits," reads the inscription on a huge boulder on the campus at Northwestern University. It was dedicated the other day to Dr. David T. Hansen, an alumnus of the university who fell in the world war while aiding a wounded comrade.

The honor was earned twenty years ago. That he deserved it might have passed unnoticed except for the fact that he gave his life as unselfishly as he had lived it. Whoever sponsored the erection of the memorial and conceived the inscription had the rare faculty of being able to put values in their proper light.

Honoring leadership and achievement is a spur to others to become leaders and to achieve. But recognizing the heroic quality of doing one's best—of taking an obscure part, though an essential one, toward securing an end is even more commendable. To do that lies within the power of every individual and is more heroic because it is unselfish. A philosopher has put it in this way: "For when the One Great Score comes to write against your name, Not that you won or lost, but how you played the game."

Business and Government

Congressman Underhill gave the members of the Board of Trade a plain talk on Monday evening, setting forth in convincing array the tendencies of government to encroach on the field of private endeavor, and to spend money lavishly on forms of social welfare, most desirable in themselves, but not practically obtainable through legislation. During and since the war, he said, the money spenders have held the reins, and although the national cry of waste has been checked, it has not been eradicated, and new ways of extracting money from the national treasury are constantly being devised.

It is enlightening to read in Senator Beveridge's life of John Marshall, that the constitution of the United States was written and adopted on the insistent demand of the business men of that day. If radicalism is now to be controlled it must be by the power and influence of the hard-headed business men of today, not by the big interests which, by misuse of power, have lost public confidence, but by the shopkeepers, the neighborhood merchants and the manufacturers on a small scale. These with their wives and families compose the sturdy, industrious, law-abiding, independent middle class of American citizens, who accumulate property by thrift and sacrifice, and neither ask nor desire that government shall do for them what they can better do for themselves.

It is hard for a people to realize that their government has no money to spend that they do not themselves contribute, but taxes are mainly paid through business, and business men know from whence the money comes. If business associations, irrespective of politics, in the cities and towns of the nation will take time for the consideration of government as well as business, they can generate and apply a power far beyond that of the business men of the early days of the Republic, and to which Congress will promptly respond.

WINTER SPORTS

An afternoon of Winter Sports is planned for Saturday, Feb. 10th. There will be coasting, tobogganing, skiing and snowshoeing, on the hills near the Movie Studio.

The Sports Committee of the Newton Highlands Improvement Association has been planning an event of this kind for a long time but unfavorable weather conditions have prevented. It is hoped now that on Saturday the 10th there will be good conditions, and that no further postponement will be necessary. If a thaw sets in, the affair will take place the next favorable Saturday. Watch for posters in Newton Highlands Square.

There is to be no set program for sports, everyone is to enjoy the sport they prefer. At 5 P. M. there will be a campfire ready for those who bring their own grub to cook it—hot coffee will be served by the members of the Lambda Phi Club and from 6 to 8 there will be dancing at the Movie Studio. Through the courtesy of Mr. Dadman of the Atlas Film Corporation, the committee has been given the use of the Studio and the dancing will be open to all who take part in the sports.

At a meeting of the Sports Committee held Feb. 4th, a new chairman and two new members, were elected.

The committee is now composed of the following: Robert Bonner, chairman, Thomas Hinkley, Henry Berger, Harry Forte, George H. Mellen, Jr., Harry J. Whittaker.

The Main Department of the Second Church School in West Newton, of which Harlan D. Crowell is the Superintendent, has developed a number of original and unique teaching methods, which though still experimental are proving increasingly their success and value.

There are no quarterlies of any sort in this school, graded or ungraded; there are no textbooks. These were abolished as teaching materials four years ago. At the present time, course of study are issued to the members two or more times a year in the form of Sunday lesson assignment cards

NEWTON WELFARE BUREAU

Annual Report of the Secretary

The Newton Welfare Bureau is the organization whose first interest and responsibility center around the family as a whole. Its purpose is through the personal service of its staff of trained and volunteer workers to develop normal family life, to strengthen the home and raise the family above the need of asking for relief. It endeavors to study each family to learn what the problem is—what has been the cause of this present difficulty; then it makes an honest effort to solve that problem, which usually means calling in, in co-operation, one or more of the community resources, thus forming the connecting link between the disorganized family and the resources of the community which the family does not know how to use for itself.

In more than half the families referred to us, financial aid is not needed but there is a need for medical care, legal advice, adequate employment, and sometimes just a need for encouragement to overcome seeming impossibilities. We have to stand by in some instances until the family is able to carry its burden alone.

interested friends, relatives, employees; referred by other organizations; city, county, state, inquiries from other states and even countries.

The organization exists to serve, and it depends upon the public to report by letter or telephone families who are in need.

Why they come to us: We could not pick up a newspaper or magazine during the past fifteen months and not read somewhere of the industrial depression that has swept over almost the entire world. Newton, though seemingly a residential city, did not escape; families known to the Bureau for several years, who had been caring for themselves for some time, were forced to again ask for aid. One-third of the new families came on account of unemployment. Despite the easy criticism of extravagant living on the part of the labor group, there must have been a real increase of thrift, which made it possible for so many to bridge over the lack of employment for several months. For months, mills were working part time and then closed for a period of from five to seven months. Many families were able to carry themselves over a part of the crisis with savings accumulated during the war years. There were many days last winter when the workers in the office dreaded to see the door open, knowing that it would mean real need for help. In some instances, work would have been taken could it have been found. Right here, your Secretary wishes to thank the Board of Directors for their loyal support and willingness that every request should be met rather than feel that any family should suffer. We did not have time to investigate every family that came. In some instances, work may have been lost because it was not what they wanted, but most of these were willing to take work for even a few hours, realizing the mistake they had made. To meet this crisis, we were having almost daily conferences with the Overseer of the Poor and frequent consultations with our Mayor, endeavoring not to duplicate but to supplement so that all needs could be met. To the community who gave to meet our emergency needs, it will be interesting to know that with the mills opening, people readjusted themselves even when it was only part time work. It was proof that there was a real need or they would not have come.

Sickness remains one of the greatest single factors in causing dependency in Newton families. When we go through our Directory and see the number of physicians listed, we know that sickness comes to all classes or there would not be the need of so many medical men in a city. Go in mind from your comfortable home to the manufacturing section of the city and visit a little house known as "the rear" tenement. Your Secretary was there a few days ago to see a mother who is living in three rooms. She is doing three washings a week and caring for a sick child. Her outlook is the backs of houses, some unpainted, dirty stuff covering the ground. This, on a dreary winter day, was not a cheerful outlook in our city of beautiful homes. We have been giving fuel so that this woman could be self-supporting, and medical aid has been secured for the child.

Sickness, other than tuberculosis, was the cause of 20 of the new families coming to us, and much of the follow-up work in families previously known was necessary because of illness in the home.

The Welfare Bureau gives special attention to the conserving and building up of health in the families in its charge. For instance, the District Nursing Association was asked to give prenatal and postnatal care to 24 mothers. Medical care is provided through the family and city physicians, hospitals, Hospital Social Service and the District Nursing Association.

The Domestic Problems are desertion, non-support, marital infidelity, debts, bad housing, bad management, insufficient income, incompetent labor.

All the above tend to domestic tragedies. Bad home management can wreck a whole family, and housing and sanitation cause disease; desertion can be traced to discouragement and debts. It is no easy task to break the circle of ignorance, neglect, illness, irresponsibility, desertion, and non-support that cause these broken homes. To help adjust living conditions in one family it has been necessary to ask the co-operation of the Court, City Physician, Overseer of the Poor, District Nursing Association, State Departments of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, benevolent individuals, employers, and relatives.

The character defects are crime, juvenile delinquency, alcoholism, lack of responsibility, illegitimacy. All of these defects go hand in hand with the causes of domestic troubles. Of times, these are the result of subnormal mentality. We endeavor to overcome ignorance, revive ambition, and arouse moral responsibility, endeavor in our families to make education a vital factor, look to our own wholesome recreation to our churches for religious training that will interest and hold our young people.

The physical and mental disabilities are sickness, death, accident, old age, blindness, insanity, epilepsy, feeble-mindedness.

All of these came to us during the past year, and all met some response that was helpful.

D. Clafin is elected Chairman of the House Committee.

Whatever of service the Welfare Bureau brings to the adjustment of a family problem is due to the working with other agencies. Every contributor to the Welfare Bureau has his share in this service. Every organization or institution plays its part in providing those elements of normal family life which make the family an asset rather than a liability to the community.

Statistics show the number of families having actual financial aid from our organization. We venture to say that could we tell of all the requests that come to us for advice, adjustment, friendship by people themselves, the people who come to get advice to pass on to their friends, those who come, not wanting us to go in to a family and before they leave asking us to go in, feeling we are so much better able to help than they all these would make a report in themselves and a story far more interesting than much of the present day fiction.

It has been said that there is no individual who cannot serve a community if we develop them to their maximum mental and physical capacities. As an illustration, our School of Feeble-Minded at Waverley was cited. Sixty-five men, who had been under training there, entered the war and three returned as sergeants. This proves that latent abilities which otherwise would have been a waste product in the State can be developed and put to use.

We, who are working in and for the Welfare Bureau, realize that this is a slow process, but each year we see standards raised in some families—parents coming to a knowledge that a defective child can be better cared for and trained in a specialized institution than in the home; families coming to the realization of the fact that hospital and sanatorium care is not only necessary for those suffering with certain types of illness but also for the protection of those in the homes; and men gaining self-respect by caring for their own financial responsibilities.

In each instance, it is a step toward the goal for which we are working and which Newton as a community desires for her people.

Again this past year, the Health Committee of the Welfare Bureau was the dispensing agency for the money raised by the Christmas Seal Sale. The work has been more systematized and carried on in connection with the School and Playground Departments. This is tabulated in our financial report as the Special Fund.

Health Clubs were formed on the playgrounds under the direction of the health workers. To stimulate interest, buttons were given, and at the close of the season pins were presented by the Mayor to the two children from each playground who had most carefully observed the Health Rules. A vote of thanks is due Mr. Herman, Superintendent of Playgrounds, and the directors for their splendid co-operation and interest in the work.

Three Health Classes are now organized in connection with the health work of the schools. Doctors are giving their services, and a nurse, who is paid from the Special Fund, is in charge. The children in these classes are all underweight. As the doctor sees the need they are sent to their family physicians or to the Out-Patient Department at our Hospital for thorough physical examinations. Our Board of Health is working with us in special tests for tuberculosis. These tests are made at the Hospital. Seven children from the Health Classes were sent away for vacations. With the co-operation of other agencies these vacations were provided at no cost to the Health Fund.

Milk has been furnished in many homes and to some children in the schools. It may be interesting here to state that on milk alone we have expended $1185.75. This does not include milk which is sent into homes where there is a problem for the Welfare Bureau.

We do not restrict our Health Classes to the Public School children. A number of the children from the playgrounds attend the Parochial School and are enrolled in the regular school classes.

Relief is granted in homes where there is active tuberculosis, and the proper clothing is secured for patients going to sanatoria. This part of the work is also carried on in co-operation with the Board of Health.

Perhaps the greatest service a family agency can render in the community lies in its preventive work. Training in right living habits and a special study of the proper foods for the undernourished children are among the contributions the Health Fund has made possible in Newton.

The Welfare Bureau, because of its very active Health Campaign, has been voted a member of the Health Group of the Central Council.

We have come to think that work of this department will lessen, but each year has brought new problems to us. Throughout the country went Clean-up Squads to endeavor to reach every service man. A year previous to this, the Newton Red Cross Chapter had asked that our Home Service Section try to do a 100% piece of work for Newton, and as a result we stand back of this effort financially.

A committee from an American Legion and the Red Cross met, and the Home Service took on as a worker, Mr. Noone, a Legion man. The experiment was watched by the New England Division of the Red Cross, and the value of the combined effort was apparent. They requested the temporary release of Mr. Noone so that he could go with the Clean-up Squad in their field work.

We have adjusted back claims of many months' standing, secured readjustments of insurance where death has occurred, had guardians appointed for mental cases, made loans to men awaiting compensation, and helped families where the wage-earner was ill and in a government hospital.

The Home Service work of Needham now comes under our care, Needham at present being a branch of the Newton Chapter.

We have come in close touch with boys of many nationalities through the Home Service, and know that the Red Cross has been of inestimable help in establishing their claims. One young Italian became so interested that he gave a great deal of time, acting as interpreter, getting affidavits, and even taking men in town to assist them at the Veterans' Bureau.

We have had enlisted men, army nurses, and men who have held commissions apply for assistance in having claims adjusted, and they have been most sincere in their appreciation of the Red Cross as an organization. The Home Service Section has been busy with the Red Cross for the City Clerk where applications have been sent in for Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief; in many instances, the man and his need were already known to the Red Cross.

A TRIP TO PERSIA

The following letter from Mr. J. Henry Flanagan, who is secretary to the commission engaged by the Persian government to straighten out its finances, will be of interest to his many friends in this city.

Upon mentioning the fact to my friends and acquaintances in the United States that I intended taking a trip to Persia, this announcement was received in a variety of manners and was usually greeted by expressions that now appear to me to be amusing. I have no doubt that in the minds of many Americans Persia appears as a mythical land, entirely outside the pale of civilization, and completely out of touch with the rest of the world. I shall have to confess that my own ideas regarding Persia were very hazy. Upon arriving in this far land, it seems very strange that a more comprehensive knowledge of the country is not enjoyed by more of our people at home. It is not a very small country, having an area of 628,000 square miles, but its population is only about 15,000,000. The possibilities of development agriculturally are wonderful, but that will be taken up later on.

It might be well to take up the different stages of the journey and set forth the more striking facts as they were encountered. Sailing from New York on September 30 aboard the French liner "Lafayette" a very pleasant trip across the Atlantic was enjoyed. Although the liner "Aquitania" reported an extremely rough passage upon its arrival in New York on October 1, the sea was smooth practically all the way for our journey. No unusual incidents occurred during the eight days spent on the ocean. I was introduced to the French method of preparing food, and became very fond of it. The ship docked at Harve, France, on October 8, and the first step in our journey was completed.

The party proceeded to Paris immediately. Here a stay of ten days was necessary, due to the difficulty encountered in engaging passages on the Peninsular & Occidental, a British line running to Egypt and India. After some trouble passages were obtained for all the party, although it was necessary that they be divided into three groups. Four of the mission, including the head of the mission, left from Marseilles on October 20; two, man and wife, were obliged to go to London and take another steamer there; and the others, fourteen in all, left Marseilles on still another ship on October 27.

My ride from Paris to Marseilles was taken at night, so much of the country through which we passed could not be enjoyed. After the life of Paris, that of Marseilles offered a striking contrast. Both cities were very interesting, however. We spent only two days in Marseilles.

Our first day abroad the "Morea" the ship which took us to Bombay, India, was not a very exciting one—in fact, it was just the opposite. There were but two other Americans on board, besides our party. The English do not have the reputation of being quick to make friends, and the first impression we gained was not a very favorable one. This line is considered to be the very finest, and is strong on formality. Lord Inchcape, a renowned English commercial gentleman, was on board, and also a number of other titled ladies and gentlemen. Add to these a large number of army officers returning to their posts in India and other countries and you do not have a very good "mixing" assortment. A rather monotonous two days were relieved by the sight of two cities between which we passed on the second night out. These cities are located on either side of the straits running between Italy and Sicily. The thousands of lights made a brilliant and interesting spectacle. The following day matters began to loosen up a bit, and we met three English people whose destination happened to be the same as ours. They proved to be very interesting, and helped to make the time pass more agreeably.

Five days after leaving Marseilles, we put in at Port Said. A few hours spent ashore proved very pleasant and interesting. We were besieged by beggars and peddlers of all descriptions. After much haggling and bargaining we bought some cigarettes from one of the street vendors at what we thought was a low price. While we were congratulating ourselves upon having got the best of one of the Orientals, another came along and offered us the same brand of cigarettes at a considerably lower price, telling us we had been cheated. It was worth it, however, in the amount of amusement obtained. It was its usefulness as an object lesson also.

Leaving Port Said we proceeded through the Suez Canal and into the Red Sea. Grim tales were told us of the heat on this body of water so famous from Biblical times. To supplement them I read an account in one of the journals aboard ship describing the hardships made for luncheon and dinner, but we were glad we came provided with our own food. The berths consisted of two leather covered seats along the wall, and one board covered with black leather attached by a sort of hinge to the side of the compartment, and supported on the outside edge by two chains hanging from the roof. I had this upper berth. No other clothing was provided, so, after cleaning the dust off the berths as best we could, we spread our own blankets and staterooms, using brief cases, sweaters or whatever was most suitable for a pillow. The distance to be covered was about 350 miles, and the train traveled at an average speed of around 10 miles per hour. I crawled up onto my room a little after twelve, and had no very clear idea of happenings until next morning. I do know that I spent a very uncomfortable and cold time of it. I have slept on a plank before and felt quite comfortable, but the leather covering on this luxurious bed had just enough warmth to make it impossible to find a smooth space to lie on. In addition, the bed sloped towards the outside, so I might wake up at any time with my body pressed against the cold chain which is all that kept me from tumbling out. Next day they told me that about two hours after leaving Basra the train stopped and then headed back for the place we had left.

was offered by the sight of a dozen quart bottles of Scotch whiskey on one table alone at dinner time. The French liner had specialized on wines, and the recent events I judged that the American liners might display on their dinner tables an impressive array of water pitchers. The smoking room was a favorite gathering place for the men. I have seen numbers of them sit there all day, playing bridge and drinking whiskey and soda. After dinner, back again they would go to play cards and drink whiskey. Many of the English swear by whiskey as being a life saver in the tropical climates.

Arriving at Bombay on November 3, we were met by Vice Consul Burke, a young fellow whose home is in Roxbury, Mass. He is a graduate of the Foreign Service School at Georgetown, and has been in India only a few months. I do not envy him his post one bit. Mr. Burke proved very helpful to us during the short stay of three hours. We spent only time enough to transfer our baggage to a launch, which was to take us to another ship, and to obtain our tickets for the steamer from Bombay to Basra, at the head of the Persian Gulf. After four days on the ocean, it seems as though we would have had enough, but there was to be no respite, and we did not mind doing a little more riding on the waves. I was sorry not to have been able to see more of Bombay.

The "Varsova," which sailed between Bombay and Basra, offered a complete change from our life aboard the "Morea." Necessarily, it is a much smaller ship. One of the chief disadvantages on the "Morea" was that it was too crowded, and therefore not very chummy. To go to dinner without a dinner jacket would have been a serious offense. We continued this practice sailing on the Persian Gulf, but the passengers were much more sociable and friendly. The staterooms were much better, more comfortable and cleaner. The list of first class passengers comprised only twenty-seven people. Down below were packed Arabs, Turks, Armenians and all kinds of picturesque inhabitants of this section of the world. Up forward the deck was crowded—Mohammedans, Parsees, and members of different sects. They made a collection that was just an insult to me, and I spent much time watching them prepare their meals, saying their prayers, making up their beds, etc. As a Mohammedan will not touch food prepared by a Christian, (an unbeliever) these travelers did all their own cooking. At sundown the faithful followers of Allah would spread a carpet on the deck, face Mecca, and say their prayers. They would stand barefooted, on this rug, with a look of supplication, on their face, and mumble prayers that nine-tenths of them do not understand. Then they would kneel, place their hands in front of them on the carpet, and touch their foreheads to the ground several times. Sitting back on their heels, they would continue their mumbled prayers, and then they would rise again, wave their arms back and forth, stretch out their hands as though in pleading, and then repeat. The holy ones would spend quite a long time in their devotions. All the while, perhaps a priest or descendant of Mohammed would chant prayers from a little book in a loud voice.

The ship stopped at Karachi and Bushire on the route. We visited Karachi for an hour, but were unable to go ashore at Bushire. A perfectly calm sea made the voyage exceedingly pleasant. Good food, plenty of fresh air, and lots of sleep were conducive to a feeling of peace and contentment. My chief cause for sorrow was the fact that Dr. Mills, the Chief of the Expedition, and Mr. Macgregor, head of the Imperial Bank of Persia, had been on board Pearson and me at deck quits. Perhaps we'll get a chance to turn the tables when it comes to tennis in Tehran.

The morning of the sixth day, after leaving Bombay, I awoke to be greeted by a beautiful sight. We were sailing along the Schatt el Arab, which is the name of the river created by the joining of the Euphrates and the Tigris Rivers, on our way to Basra. Both banks were lined with date trees, planted in a very orderly manner. They represented a spectacle that is not easily forgotten. Date raising is a very important industry in this region. The green trees were stretched out for miles, and in many cases acted as a backdrop for the most oriental pictures. When we reached Basra we were met by the Persian Consul, and by representatives of an English company, who were very helpful to us in taking our baggage to be forwarded to Bagdad.

Basra did not appeal to me very much. We had lunch with the Persian consul at a not very modern hotel. At midnight, the same day we left on the train for Bagdad. Many rumors of the discomforts we should suffer came to our ears before we left. The trip is supposed to take about 36 hours. Three of us had one first-class compartment and the other shared a compartment with two young British army officers. It was necessary to us to bring along something to eat. The train stops made for luncheon and dinner, but we were glad we came provided with our own food. The berths consisted of two leather covered seats along the wall, and one board covered with black leather attached by a sort of hinge to the side of the compartment, and supported on the outside edge by two chains hanging from the roof. I had this upper berth. No other clothing was provided, so, after cleaning the dust off the berths as best we could, we spread our own blankets and staterooms, using brief cases, sweaters or whatever was most suitable for a pillow. The distance to be covered was about 350 miles, and the train traveled at an average speed of around 10 miles per hour. I crawled up onto my room a little after twelve, and had no very clear idea of happenings until next morning. I do know that I spent a very uncomfortable and cold time of it. I have slept on a plank before and felt quite comfortable, but the leather covering on this luxurious bed had just enough warmth to make it impossible to find a smooth space to lie on. In addition, the bed sloped towards the outside, so I might wake up at any time with my body pressed against the cold chain which is all that kept me from tumbling out. Next day they told me that about two hours after leaving Basra the train stopped and then headed back for the place we had left.

After an hour of this, the engineer evidently got his bearings again and started for Bagdad.

The country through which we passed was for the most part desert land. It wasn't long before we became accustomed to seeing caravans of camels, or great herds of these awkward-looking beasts. Wild looking Arabs on their wonderful horses were everywhere. The whole country abounded with places of historical interest, and the people showed little evidence of having changed their dress, their customs or their mode of living since the time of Abraham. The fields, where there are any, are tilled in a way that is centuries old. One very impressive sight was presented just at sundown on the first night of the journey. The train had stopped at a small station, and the faithful at once spread their rugs on the sand and, turning towards Mecca, offered up their prayers. Silhouetted against the rapidly-diminishing sky was the dome of a tomb of a very holy man. One cannot help being impressed by the constancy of some of these people to their religion.

On Saturday, November 11, we called on the Persian Consul. Later on we had lunch with the American Consul, Mr. Owens, who proved very helpful to us while we were in Bagdad. This city did not impress me very favorably. It was dirty, dusty and unattractive in many ways. While there I was initiated into the pleasures and dangers of a truly Persian luncheon. There was a fish course, at least four meat courses, salads, fruits and all the trimmings. At the end we were compelled to allow two or three different kinds of fruit to go untouched, and there is no telling how many more would have followed, had our capacity been equal to the task. We stayed at a clean and comfortable hotel, the dust of the city had not made much of an impression on its newness. The meals were very good, and the service excellent. One difficulty with service in this section seems to be that as many clerks as possible do a little something. When it comes to the time of departure, it is very difficult to determine to whom the tips are due, and as practically all employees of the hotels line up one has quite a task distributing them.

After spending three days at Bagdad we left for the Persian frontier, accompanied by a young Persian named, Mahmoud Khan, who had been sent by the Government to accompany us to Tehran. As for the trip to the capital, and the accommodations there provided for us, I believe that had better be left to another time. Suffice it to say that the trip was a very pleasant and interesting one, and we are very much pleased with our new home.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The Legislature is under a full head of steam with numerous hearings very day on more or less interesting matters.

Last week, Senator Rice was the only advocate for legislation on compulsory liability insurance on automobiles. This very much needed piece of legislation is opposed by the automobilists on account of the high rates charged by the insurance companies and is opposed by legislation attempts to fix the rates to be charged. Registrar Bates informed the committee that only one third of the licensed cars carried liability insurance. Some day the danger to the public from this source will be so plain that the insurance companies or the automobilists will have to come to compulsory insurance. The compelling cause for this future action will not be too severe.

The church people were much interested in the hearing last week on bills to allow a collection or admission fee to Sunday sports on condition that a percentage of the money thus obtained should be donated to some charity. Of course, this is a mere camouflage and was so denoted at the hearing. The committee has since reported unfavorably on these bills.

The increased Democratic membership of the House has thus far resulted in several unnecessary roll purposes, evidently inspired for the sole purpose of showing the public how many Democrats there are in the Legislature. Three such roll calls have been had this year, on all of which the vote was about three to one against the Democratic motions. There was one matter some ten days ago on which there was legitimate doubt as to a roll call. This was on a bill to allow boating and fishing on portions of the unused reservoirs near Marlboro. The vote to allow this reasonable use of these basins was 100 in favor to 102 opposed. There is apparently no good reason why these bodies of water should not be enjoyed by the public as long as they are not required for water supply purposes.

The House has a new chaplain, a young man from Cambridge who has made a good impression so far. Speaking of chaplains, the writer has been a member of the House for three years and never realized until the present session, the remarkable prayers which have been given daily by Rev. Dr. Edward A. Horton, the chaplain of the Senate. Dr. Horton has a wonderful faculty for drawing inspiration from the ordinary affairs of our daily existence.

One of the interesting phases of legislative work is observing the various forms of propaganda on this or that matter of pending legislation. This observation is particularly noticeable when such a live matter as vaccination is before the House. All of the members of the committee on Public Health and many of the other members of the Legislature have re-urgingly proposition to a bill to extend vaccination to private schools and in favor of a bill to abolish compulsory vaccination entirely. The House chairman of this committee has received hundreds of letters, all in the same terms, while the Senate chairman takes his mail in baskets. The truth of the matter is, that because everyone realizes that some active influence is at work stirring up the public in this fashion. A few letters from reliable persons, have far more influence in matters of legislation than an organized propaganda such as has been at work on this matter of vaccination. It has been the habit of the writer to personally answer every letter sent him on matters of legislation, but in this case, he will make no attempt to reply to letters and telegrams on this particular subject.

DEATH OF MR. KEITH

William Ward Keith, died Saturday at his home 57 Walnut street, Newtonville. He was sixty-five years of age, and was a native of Boston. His father was William W. Keith, also in the stock brokerage business and one of the very early members of the Boston Stock Exchange. His mother was Cordelia (Bryant) Keith.

Soon after he was born the family took up their residence in Lexington, and following a residence there of several years the home was moved to the Newtons. Mr. Keith, the son, entered business at an early age, and first was in the photographic supply trade in Bromfield street, but he soon turned his attention to the stock brokerage business and associated himself with Charles A. Sweet and Company, at 40 State street, in 1882. Mr. Keith went into business on his own account, and for some time was identified with the firm of T. H. Perkins and Company, at 68 Devonshire street. Because of failing health Mr. Keith retired from this business and subsequently the firm was dissolved. For thirty years, therefore, Mr. Keith had been an invalid and was able to get about only by the aid of a wheel chair and in all that time he had the constant attention of his brother, Walter B. Keith, who lived with him. There is another surviving brother, Harry H. Keith of Newton, and a sister, Mrs. William F. Huyck of LeRoy, N. Y.

Mr. Keith was a member of the Boston Stock Exchange from 1882 to 1905, and his membership in the Corinthian Yacht Club at Marblehead Neck was one of his chief delights, and it was there that for several summers he was taken by his brother to spend several weeks. He also was one of the early members of the Boston Athletic Association.

Services were held on Tuesday, in the Newton Cemetery Chapel, Rev. Richard T. Loring of St. John's Church, Newtonville, officiating and the burial was in the Newton Cemetery.

DEATH OF MR. BURRISON

Mr. Henry K. Burrison of Lincoln Park, West Newton, a native of Framingham, died last Friday, in his 74th year.

Until seven years ago, Mr. Burrison was a professor of Mathematics at the Institute of Technology. He had lived in Newton between forty and fifty years. He was a member of the Lincoln Park Baptist Church and for many years a deacon in this church.

Surviving him are a daughter, Miss Olive K. Burrison, a clerk in the First National Bank of Boston, and a son, Ralph L. Burrison of West Newton.

Services were held on Monday, at his late residence, Rev. Frederick W. Peakes of the Lincoln Park Baptist Church, officiating. Music was furnished by the Pilgrim quartet of Boston, and the burial was in the Newton Cemetery.

MISS FREEMAN'S PLAYERS

Miss E. H. Freeman's Company of Players will appear in Boston, March 14 and 15, under the management of Mr. Nicola Ouloukoff, the eminent musical artist. Mr. Ouloukoff was associated with the Moscow Art Theatre at the time when it was founded. He came to Boston to sing in the Boston Opera Company and for some years he has been well known in musical circles both for his rich baritone voice and for his unusually keen powers as a teacher.

The program on March 14 and 15, will consist of Synge's "Playboy of the Western World," which was produced last year by Miss Freeman's Company, followed by a new opera, "Galatea." The latter is an original version of the picturesque story of Greek mythology, already treated—in a humorous vein—by Gilbert, Shaw and others.

VAISSAR ENDOWMENT FUND

Under the auspices of the Vassar Alumnae Association of Newton and for the benefit of the Vassar Endowment Fund, Miss Heloise Hersey, the well known Boston lecturer, gave a lecture in the Newton Centre Woman's Club, last Friday, on Hutchinson's "This Freedom." Miss Hersey was introduced by Mrs. Harold T. Giddings, chairman.

The speaker stated that novels should be judged by definite standards, not by a feeling of like or dislike. The following were the standards which she suggested: a good novel should have a definite structure, it should have characters whose deeds should be consistent with themselves, beauty of style, with decorations such as wit, humor, etc. in their proper places. A novel should also deal with some definite problem of life in such a way that one is sure of the author's position. Above all, there should be a poignant, human story.

Miss Hersey stated the problem in Mr. Hutchinson's novel thus: "Can a woman have a career for its own sake and also claim the rights and privileges of Motherhood?" She pointed out that many a woman has been a success in business and also a mother, but in all of these cases the business was entered into as a means of helping the family, not for its own sake, as an outside or conflicting interest.

Speaking of Hutchinson's style, she called attention to many faults especially in diction. In spite of these, however, the author has a remarkable gift for depicting character, and great sympathy with youth. "Poor youth that all have lived and none remember."

Among the larger issues of the book, there is the problem of the hardening of the heart of Rosalie and of the ministry of pain. Whatever views we may hold in regard to the uses of pain, it is through the crushing tragedy of her own life, that Rosalie is at last redeemed.

The final aim of all Art is to depict beauty. This according to the lecturer is true of Hutchinson. In spite of obvious faults, his novels, especially "If Winter Comes" and "This Freedom" show spiritual beauty, the beauty of struggle and achievement. Miss Hersey was greeted by a very appreciative audience many of whom stayed to enjoy the social hour which followed the lecture.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. C. A. Andrews of Waban, and Mrs. Robert T. Ness of West Newton. Mrs. W. C. Andrews of Cambridge, was chairman of the committee. She was assisted by Mrs. Elias B. Bishop and Mrs. George W. Bartlett. The head usher was Miss Eleanor Bishop. Vassar 22, assisted by prospective Vassar students.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY CONCERT

Much interest is shown by Newton alumni of the Norwich University and other residents of this city in the concert to be given Saturday evening, February 24, in Players Hall, West Newton, by the Norwich University Musical Clubs. The visit of this highly successful organization will be made an event of social importance and a large patronage is expected.

The Norwich University Musical Clubs consists of a glee of 24 picked voices, a mandolin club with 20 instruments, consisting of two banks of mandolins, four violins, flute, cello, saxophone and piano, a stringed quintet of two violins, cello, flute and piano; tenor and baritone soloists, a reader and a comedy quartet.

The program is not only musical compositions of the highest grade, but lighter numbers, including a military travesty. Already the clubs have performed in other parts of New England and have been received with hearty enthusiasm.

The appearance in this city will be the only concert given by the clubs in the vicinity of Boston on this their annual tour. The students wear military uniforms and make a natty appearance.

An active committee of Norwich alumni is busily at work and the success of the affair seems already assured.

POLICE NOTES

As a result of a fight made early Sunday morning by three men against Police Sergeant Thomas Leehan, William Nolan of 234 Adams street, Newton, was fined $15 Monday in the Newton Court for being drunk; James English of 236 Adams street was fined $15 for being drunk, $50 for assault on an officer and given three months in the House of Correction; Thomas Holden of 190 Adams street was fined $75 for attempting to rescue a prisoner and sentenced to three months in the House of Correction. Nolan paid his fine and the others appealed.

Sergeant Leehan was walking through the Nonantum section about 2 o'clock Sunday morning when the three men attracted his attention by their actions and noise. He told them to move on, but they preferred to stay. Leehan finally placed Nolan under arrest, fighting the other two off. They were taken into custody later by Patrolmen Keating and Feeley.

The home of John Luizzo, of 326A Cherry street, West Newton, was raided last Friday night by Sergeants Moran and Leehan, and Patrolmen Walker, Gagnin and Dowling, and a small quantity of liquor seized. Luizzo was charged with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned Saturday morning before Judge Bacon in the Newton District Court and the case was continued a week in order that he might engage counsel.

An automobile owned by Dana B. Jefferson of 1784 Beacon street, Waban, was stolen last Friday night about 10 o'clock, in front of the Community Theatre. Mr. Jefferson immediately notified Newton Police Headquarters. The number of the car was sent to surrounding cities and towns and at 12.20 Saturday morning Station 11, Dorchester, called Newton and informed Capt. Mullen that the automobile was in their possession and that two Newton boys from good families were under arrest.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

It is none too early to begin thinking of attending the General Federation Mid-Biennial Council Meeting in Atlanta, Ga., to be held May 7-11. By vote of the convention at Chataqua the Council meeting is a business meeting, although the election is held biennially. This, of course, means that the greater number of delegates will always be in attendance the biennial year, but it does not necessarily mean that the Council meeting will not be of as great interest. In fact the smaller convention has many advantages over the big unwieldy thing the Biennial has become. "Woman as a Spiritual Force" will be the keynote of the program. Art, music, literature, and science will be given outstanding place on the program, and inspirational addresses on each subject will be delivered by speakers of note. Dr. Henry Van Dyke is expected to be the chief speaker. Our own Mrs. George Minot Baker, director from Massachusetts, is chairman of the Program committee.

State Federation

Monday, February 12, 10:30 A.M. Arthur W. Gilbert, commissioner of Agriculture, will speak in the lecture course on State Administration under the auspices of the Civil Service department.

Tuesday, February 13, 3-5 P.M. Art committees are invited to visit the studio of Desmond Fitzgerald, 410 Washington street, Brookline.

Tuesday's Broadcast from Medford Hillside, WGL, will be by Mrs. Wallace P. Hood, adviser to the department of Health.

Legislative appointments for the week are as follows: February 12, afternoon at Malden; 13th, all-day at Sharon; 14th, afternoon at Dedham; 15th, all-day at Watertown, and also with Newton Federation at Newton Centre; afternoon at Abington.

February 27, Mid-winter Meeting at Somerville. Luncheon tickets must be secured before February 24, by sending check and self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Arthur W. Hurlbut, 463 Medford street, Somerville. Delegates should do this much to help the hostess club in a most difficult task.

Newton Federation

Thursday, February 15, 10:30 A.M. Mid-winter meeting with the Newton Centre Woman's Club in the new club house. At the morning session B. Loring Young, speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, will speak on the Child Labor amendment and the Woman's Party bill. Frank Brier, register of Probate of Suffolk county, will speak for the proper examination, classification, and treatment of convicted prisoners. Alfred L. Cutting, chairman of the Middlesex County Commissioners, will speak in opposition. John Hull, House chairman of the Judiciary committee, will speak on Jury Service for Women. A cafeteria luncheon at popular prices will be served at 12:30. The afternoon session will open at 1:45 and the address will be given by Judge Frederick Cabot of the Boston Juvenile Court. All women interested, whether or not members of federated clubs, are cordially invited.

Professional Women's Club

Mrs. J. W. Ferguson Kennedy, well known under her pen name of Barbara Bradford, will speak at the next meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club on "The Social Message of Six Great Leaders of Modern Thought." Mrs. Kennedy is an organizer of practical experience in politics, and brings a vital message, which makes an appeal of especial strength to women. Her articles in the leading magazines and in the Boston Transcript, as well as her lectures before numerous clubs, have aroused much interest in her subject. At the beginning of the program a group of songs will be rendered by the Club Chorus. This meeting will be held at 2:30 o'clock, on February 13, in the Auditorium of the Auburndale Club.

Children should be provided with railroad tickets.

February 14 there will be no meeting of the Newton Social Science Club on account of its being Ash Wednesday. The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will omit its regular meeting on Thursday of next week in order that the members may attend the meeting of the Newton Federation at Newton Centre.

Movies for Newton Highlands

A series of Motion Picture shows has been arranged by the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands in Lincoln Hall, for three successive Saturdays, February 17 and 24, and March 4, at 2:30 and 8 P.M., for the benefit of the club's building fund. A first class performance is assured the public. The first program has been secured through the co-operation and interest of Mr. Harry Campbell of the Fox Film Company, who is a resident of Newton Highlands. Through the courtesy of Mr. Leon Dardm of the Atlas Film Company, the big features of the last two entertainments will be pictures made in Newton Highlands, in which members of the community have taken part. The club earnestly requests Newton Highlands residents to save their carfare to Boston and come to see the kind of pictures taken at the Aqueduct Studio. On February 17, the program includes Tom Mix and his famous horse in "Catch My Smoke," as well as news, educational, and comedy films.

Local Happenings

Mrs. Anna Coleman Ladd, a distinguished sculptor, spoke Monday, February 5, to the members of the Waban Woman's Club on "Art in Relation to Life." She defined art as the desire to make beauty last forever and urged that art be considered a matter of immediate personal interest and not something apart. Each one should use her power to make her own face and body, her own home, and her own community beautiful. During the war artists helped in the joyous painting of Y huts, in camouflage and in the work on mutilated faces. Mrs. Ladd's special service was in the making of 70 portrait masks. Mrs. John R. Marfin gave three songs and tea was served.

In preparation for Legislative Day of the Newton Federation, Mrs. William H. White, director of the twelfth district discussed on Tuesday afternoon before the Newtonville Woman's Club certain bills now pending in the legislature of interest to women's clubs—prison reform, child labor, equal rights for women, and need of new legislation in regard to divorce laws.

Ms. White presented the bills in a clear and interesting manner, not an easy thing to do in a fifteen minute talk—and all who had the privilege of listening to her, will go to Newton Centre, well-informed on the subjects to be discussed that day. Mrs. White's talk was followed by a two-act play, "How Maggie MacFarland Got Her Citizenship" based on our obsolete naturalization laws. Although a most amusing comedy, it presents in a very graphic way, the chaotic condition of our naturalization laws, and shows the great need of some just legislation to establish women's status in connection with laws. Everybody was letter-perfect from the prologue, given by Mrs. Augustus Wakefield, to the climax at the close of the second act, and frequent laughter and applause showed appreciation of parts especially well done. Some of those taking important roles were Miss Marjorie Bassett, Mrs. Percy Williams, Mrs. Charles Davidson, Mrs. A. D. Salinger, Mrs. K. B. Hastings, Mrs. W. McK. Burr, Mrs. Pitt Drew, Miss Theresa Cron, Mrs. E. P. Crane, and Mrs. E. P. Hendrick. All present were exceedingly grateful to Miss Bassett for the good fun she gave the club in staging this play.

Guest Night of the Review Club of Auburndale last Tuesday evening found the new Auditorium of the Auburndale Club filled with members and their guests, who had come to enjoy the occasion held for the first time in this commodious new hall, of which all Auburndale may well be proud. Since the birthday of Charles Dickens fell upon the next day, the committee chose as the entertainment one of his plays, "The Cricket on the Hearth." It is a difficult play for amateurs, and the club is to be congratulated upon the very creditable performance achieved by the cast. Miss Frances Dennett, as Tilly Slowboy, brought down the house by her clever impersonation of the stupid, foolish girl; Mrs. Francis E. Leland made a sweet little "Lot," and all the other parts were well sustained. Those who took part were: Mr. C. S. Grover, Mr. Ernest Braithwaite, Mr. Richard O. Walter, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Leland, Mrs. George F. Howland, Mrs. N. W. Dennett, Mrs. A. C. Farley, Miss Frances Dennett, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rider, Mrs. Nelson Freeman and Mrs. Hall rendered piano duets both before the play and between the acts, choosing appropriate English music to suit the play. A social hour with reception and refreshments closed a delightful evening, the guests having opportunity to meet Mrs. R. O. Walter, the president, and other officers, and the members of the cast.

In prefacing her lecture on "Modern Poetry" before the Newton Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, Miss Heloise E. Hersey paid a graceful tribute to Mrs. Wolcott Calkins, who nearly forty years ago had invited Miss Hersey, then a newcomer to Boston, to come out to Newton to lecture to some of her friends. Although particular lectures were almost unknown in those days, Miss Hersey accepted the invitation, and talked to this group upon "The Modern Novel and the Modern Woman," a lecture which she has continued to give all these years and which, she stated, had yielded her some $7000.

Turning to her subject Miss Hersey noted the revival of poetry, which has taken place within the last few years, a revival begun before the war. Whether the war helped or hindered it is hard to say. These poets have found a new moral enthusiasm and a new interpretation of life itself. Among these writers are great diversity of attainments, some have the vaguest ideas of poetry at all, but they have a message that must communicate, and they have succeeded in catching the ear of the public.

The first function of poetry, said Miss Hersey, is to express the inexpressible; it must have real thought and real beauty. Verse can't be taught verse as verse, and not be taught to put verse into prose. It is easy to blunder by trying to compare fine prose with poor verse. The distinction between them is clear cut. The Poets as written in Hebrew are poetry, but as translated into English they cease to be poetry, they are a noble, pure kind of prose.

Many writers of "Vers Libre" are hack writers who have adopted a French system of verse entirely different from and unsuited to our English system. Miss Hersey read extracts by way of illustrating the unpoetic ideas some of them attempt to present. She feels that in time these will tire of their toy, and more and more mark back to the old form.

The fine poets of the present day are singing of men with too heavy a load, are speaking for those who cannot speak for themselves, are trying to interpret this country of ours, and are re-interpreting Christianity to us. They are making us listen. We are waiting today for some one who has the great call, and we shall hear it in the next two years, was her prediction.

She supplemented her lecture with readings from many of the modern poets, some as illustrations of what is not good, but for the most part what she considers as fine and high.

For its annual luncheon and bridge on Wednesday afternoon the Newton Mothers' Club chose the Unitarian Church of West Newton as more commodious than some of the former places of meeting. Forty-seven tables were arranged by the committee. At one o'clock the company sat down to a delicious chafing-dish luncheon, after which the afternoon was spent with cards. The committee in charge consisted by Mrs. A. C. Blunt, chairman, Mrs. Norman Bingham, Mrs. Stanley Bolster, Mrs. William F. Chase, Mrs. H. M. Andrews, Mrs. A. S. Ladd, Mrs. Henry F. Cate, Mrs. E. S. Gile, Mrs. R. E. Hatch, Mrs. A. Mann. The affair proved both a social and financial success.

The girls are also busy at work on preparations for an entertainment to be given on Friday afternoon and evening, Feb. 23.

Rev. Dr. Tipton, president of the Collegio Internazionale of Rome, Italy, will speak in the Methodist Church on next Tuesday evening at 7:45. His subject will be "The Place of the Papacy in Modern Italy." Dr. Tipton has been a resident of Italy for many years. During the days of the late war he was twice knighted by the King of Italy for his services. It is said in certain informed circles that he had a great deal to do with Italy remaining on the side of the Allies. His address will be of great interest. The meeting is open to the public.

Albert Edgar Angier School

The children of the Albert Edgar Angier School are being studied as individuals more than has ever before been attempted and more than most of our people in any sense realize. There was a time when the number of years a child had lived was the sole determining factor as to whether or not he was properly graded. Now a study is being conducted in this school which takes into account not alone the chronological age, which is by far the least important, but the pedagogical age, psychological age, grade age, proper grade age, and as far as at present possible the physical and physiological ages. These various ages combined produce a fair index of the educational age of a child.

The pedagogical age is obtained by the use of standardized tests of achievement or by the marks which the teacher has given, which however are less scientific and less impersonal. The school department psychologist, Miss Annie Sturges, renders invaluable aid in the individual test work. Accurately, the ability of a child to do common school tasks. This is in direct contrast to the pedagogical age, which is a statement not of what a child may be able to do, but what he has done.

The grade age is simply the grade he has reached in school. It may be seen that a comparison of grade age, chronological age, and the average grade age in the city would reveal a pupil's retardation or acceleration in terms of years lived only.

Of vast importance is the teacher's estimate of such qualities as industry, concentration, ambition, loyalty, and honesty, for a child of rather low mental ability may more than offset this by such traits as those mentioned above.

Lastly, the measurements of the physical and physiological ages have not reached the stage where it is possible to administer them in the school house. In place of these ages therefore, a statement of physical condition and the weight record are entered.

From a study of the above an educational age is found, by which the teacher knows her pupils better than has before been possible. Every child has been roundly measured and the type of instruction for him has been more wisely administered. Further the intensity of his instruction, the expansion of the curriculum, and the nature of study are affected. His rate of promotion may be quite wisely determined. The disciplinary problem finds a more satisfactory solution. By the wise use of such educational methods the work which is being done at the Albert Edgar Angier School will greatly aid the individual child to obtain a wiser guidance than the science of education has hitherto granted him.

NEWTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

A credit bureau will be organized in Newton in the immediate future as a result of action taken by the Merchants Division of the Newton Chamber of Commerce at a meeting at the Newton Club last Monday evening. Mr. L. James Parker, Secretary of the Taunton Chamber of Commerce, and Manager of the Taunton Credit Bureau, Inc., was the guest and speaker of the evening and outlined in detail the method of operation of the Taunton Credit Bureau and the results achieved for its subscribers.

About fifty of the representative local business men of Newton were present at the meeting, which was by far the most interesting and most successful yet held by the merchants of the city under the auspices of the Chamber. So much interest and enthusiasm was developed in behalf of a credit bureau in Newton that the discussion of the cooperative advertising plan recently developed by the mercantile division committee had to be deferred to some future meeting. Those present voted to take up this matter at a special meeting of the Mercantile Division, to be held on Monday evening, February 19.

A dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock, after which Chairman George A. Scudder called the meeting to order and called on the secretary to outline the purposes of the meeting and to introduce Mr. Parker. The latter talked for about three-quarters of an hour, after which he answered questions and discussed informally the subject of credit bureaus for more than two hours. Mr. Parker proved to be especially conversant with his subject and the interest in it was such that those present inquired in it in great detail, finally voting enthusiastically, and with no votes in opposition, to organize a credit bureau in Newton.

The matter was referred, with authority to develop and carry out the plan, to the Mercantile Division Committee of the Chamber.

MELODYLAND

Newton Centre Woman's Club Cabaret a Most Successful Affair

To present an amateur show with all the finish of a professional performance is not an easy matter, but it is no exaggeration to thus characterize the production of "Melodyland," at the cabaret of the Newton Centre Woman's Club held in the clubhouse last Friday and Saturday evenings. C. Hassler Capron, who directed the program, originated several of the most effective acts, and his careful supervision of details is largely responsible for the success scored by the club.

The scene opens in the bachelor apartment of two New York young men just before midnight. One of them falling asleep sees in his dreams one girl after another with whom he has "played." The "Home Girl" proves his favorite. This is followed by the song, "Smoke Rings," by Mr. Capron and the Ladies of the Ensemble, who entered from all corners of the hall and advanced to the stage throwing "smokes" here and there as they went. Others who had part in this scene were: Ralph E. Stuart, Otis E. Stephenson, Hortense Lane, Beulah Havens, Mildred Marr, Louise Stuart, Beatrice Lane, Cornelia Holmes, Frances Holmes, Evelyn Peakes Charlotte Aubin, Mildred McKee, Eleanor Young, Dorothea Tichnor, Betty Gordon, Margaret Williams. In the next scene, "Classical Jazz," Sylvia Riley charmed everyone with her graceful dancing. Although she is still but a child, Julia Wyman considers her one of her star pupils and that she has great promise for the future. "Moonlight," which came next, one of Mr. Capron's original features, had great beauty lighting effects. Ralph E. Stuart as the Siren sang "Neath the South Sea Moon." Helen Crampton was the Lady of the Moon. The Ensemble, this time in sport costume, included: Marion Bailey, Dorothea Callowhill, Esther Gates, Lois Kendall, Katherine Lincoln, Mary Moore, Helen Nathan, Margaret Rising, Virginia Van Dusen, Virginia White, Miss Ruth Chapin trained the chorus dance. In scene IV was introduced the comedy element, when Catherine Sullivan singing "Where is the Man of My Dreams?" beholds one after another the most disreputable bunch of hobos imaginable. Charles E. Bailey, George H. Croshie, Frederick W. Downer, Albert H. McAuslan, Arthur W. Rayner, Stanton L. Rowley, Tracey A. Rudd, impersonated the "Dreams."

"The Fan," the first scene of the second act, was particularly effective, the huge fan of lace and painted sticks occupying the centre of the stage, parted in the middle to admit the "Girls Behind the Fan." Josephine E. McKee, as the Lady of the Fan, in a Spanish dance did a remarkably fine piece of work, while Stanton L. Rowley's rendering of the song, "Behind the Fan," deserves more than passing mention. In the chorus dance, trained by Miss Ruth Chapin, were the following: Charline Mitchell, Bailey, Eleanor Bradford, Priscilla Clark, Rebecca Clark, Barbara Cooke, Miriam Huntington, Louise Masters, Margaret Perry, Margaret Rice, Emily Woods. The next number, "Under Tropic Skies," took the audience far away to the islands of the sea suggestive of the charm of Hawaii with the tinkling music of ukulele and guitars. Elizabeth Chapin was the dancer, and Eleanor Chapin, Frances Thurston, Seaward Johnson, Dana Follett, and Robert Chapin furnished the music.

But the scene with which the program closed "A Winter Night," will linger longest in the memory of the audience for its original thought, delicate beauty, and the dainty touch that was turned away. A white starling way leads from earth to sky. Down it descend the Northern Lights, Alta and Vincent Maloney, bearing candle torches, who seat themselves upon each side of the stairs at the foot. The Man from Earth, C. Hassler Capron, calls down the Lady of the Sky, Catherine Richardson; then comes a Snowflake, Sylvia Riley, who does another graceful dance, and summons one by one the Little Snowflakes, Barbara Anderson, Dorothy Barton, Eleanor Colony, Ruth Harman, Mary Holmes, Hope Pearsall, Dorothy Rising, Catherine Skelton, who gave the loveliest dance of all.

So great a demand was there for tickets, that in addition to the tables chairs were placed on the edge of the hall, while on Saturday night persons who turned away. Smokes, refilling soft drinks and candy were sold in the hall during the evening. At the end of the program the company adjourned for supper in the banquet room below, while the hall was being cleared for dancing. A bevy of girls with novel costumes of checker-board aprons and caps designed by Mrs. James D. Hymers, who with Mr. John F. Capron also made the huge fan used in Act I. Scene 16, were busy all the evening dispensing their wares.

The officers and committees in charge included: Director, Mr. C. Hassler Capron; assistant director, Mrs. Edward A. Andrews; stage manager, John F. Capron; electrician, Charles Lamb; chairman of floor committee, Mrs. George A. Holmes; costumes, Mrs. Frederick C. Rising, chairman, Mrs. Phil M. Riley, Mr. J. Herbert Johnson; properties, Mrs. Edward A. Andrews; Mrs. James O. Wright, Mrs. W. Dana Follett, Mrs.

FOR RUSSIAN RELIEF

A talk on Russia, illustrated by Moving Pictures, will be given by Mr. George Sommaripa, a soldier of the Russian Army, and now a student of Harvard University, in the Auditorium Theatre, Newton Upper Falls, on Monday evening, February 26th, at 8 o'clock.

Music will be furnished by the local Russian Club, and Russian girls in native costume will sell Russian cakes. The proceeds will be sent through the Red Cross for relief purposes in Russia. It is hoped this most worthy cause will find wide patronage from all parts of Newton.

Harry E. Pearsall; cast committee, Mrs. William A. Anderson, Mrs. John R. Perry, Mrs. James D. Hymers, Mrs. George H. Croshie; chairman of waitresses, Mrs. Frederick M. Stuart; head usher, William Breed; supper committee, Mrs. George F. Richardson, Jr., S. Hardy Mitchell; beverages, Paul M. Goddard; snakes, Frank N. Nathan; candy, Mrs. Frederick D. Robinson. An elaborate program filled with expressions of the good will of Newton Centre firms and other friends of the club had the cover designed by Miss Louise Stuart. The orchestra and music was under the personal direction of Louis V. Hafermehl.

A tremendous amount of work was put into the affair, preparations having been begun as long ago as last June. Those in charge are extremely grateful for the splendid co-operation met with on every hand, without which the success of Melodyland would not have been possible.

RECORDS BROKEN

Two Newton High indoor track records were broken in the dual meet between Newton High and Brookline High Friday afternoon. Capt. Wesley Dicks of Newton bettered his old mark of 2m 29.1-5s by three seconds, coming home a winner in 2m, 26.1-5s.

In the broad jump, Kohler of Newton bettered his old mark of 9 ft. 7 1/2 in., doing 9 ft. 8 7/8 in. Newton scored 50 points to 27 for its opponents.

The best race of the afternoon was the 600-yard run. Barba of Newton jumped into the lead and was ahead completing five laps, with Daley of Brookline in second place, 10 yards back of the Newton athlete. Daley gave a fine exhibition on the last lap, overtaking Barba and winning by five yards.

Brookline High's athletes, who scored a win over the Newton team in a previous meet, claimed that the banking of the track put them at an unfair advantage, blaming the loss of the relay race to these conditions. Bell, who ran second; and McCann, anchor man, both fell at the first turn, Newton winning by 15 yards.

No final heat was run in the 30-yard dash as all four Newton boys won their heats and the nine points were credited to them. Newton won first place in all events except the 600-yard run and shotput. The summary: 30-yard Dash. First Heat—Won by Baumann, Newton, Time, 3.4-5s. Second Heat—Won by Kohler, Newton.

Third Heat—Won by Weeks, Newton.

Fourth Heat—Won by McQuiston. 30-yard Low Hurdles—Won by McQuiston, Newton; Daley, Brookline, second; Duane, Newton, third. Time, 42-5s.

GIRL SCOUTS

Fifteen Scouts with Captain Freeman and Captain Sprague enjoyed the Audubon lecture given last Saturday morning at Tremont Temple. This was the last of a series of four lectures given under the auspices of the Audubon Society. The lectures have been especially attractive to the Girl Scouts and have been very largely attended by them. After the lecture last week the Newton girls had luncheon together and then went to the Natural History Museum where they enjoyed seeing at close range specimens of some of the birds which had been shown on the screen and whose songs Mr. Gorse had so beautifully imitated.

On Wednesday evening, February 14, the Officers Association held its regular monthly meeting in the Parish House of the Unitarian Church, West Newton. After a very delicious supper served by the officers of Troop 4 (Waban), Miss Lohne of the Boston School of Physical Education gave a most interesting talk on "Posture."

In part that the Girl Scout Organization had a great opportunity through its Health program of showing their girls the importance of correct posture and of the mental and physical advantages to be gained by such posture. This meeting will probably lead to a short course given for Newton Scout Officers in this subject so that they will feel better equipped to put it over to the Troops.

The regular meeting of the Executive Committee was held on Feb. 14 in the Parish House of St. John's Church, Newtonville. Mrs. Frank Day, Commissioner, presided. Those present were Mrs. C. D. Meeserve, Mrs. John Eaton, for the Council Mrs. Loring Marshall, Mrs. Norman Bingham, Miss Louise Lovett and Miss Freeman.

At this meeting a Troop Committee for Girl Scouts in Newton Highlands was voted into the Newton Local Council Girl Scouts. Mrs. Frank A. Shute, chairman of the Committee, becoming a member of the Council. The other members of the Newton Highlands Committee are Mrs. John W. Locke, Mrs. Albert Hutchinson, Mrs. L. W. Carriek, Mrs. L. W. Oakes and Mrs. G. O. W. Marcy.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Hard at Work on Many Problems of Interest to the City

Plans for a Co-operative Advertising Campaign to be conducted by Newton merchants in an effort to stimulate home trade will be presented for discussion at the second of the series of the Mercantile Division dinner meetings of the Newton Chamber of Commerce to be held at the Newton Club, Newtonville next Monday evening, Feb. 19th. A dinner at 6.30 o'clock will precede the meeting which will start at 7.45 and a general invitation has been extended both to chamber members and non-members.

It is felt by the Mercantile Division Committee, in charge of these meetings, that so much interest is being shown among Newton merchants in this Co-operative advertising plan that it is advisable to perfect arrangements to start the campaign at once. Enthusiastic support of the plan has been so generally assured by all the merchants who have been acquainted with it that it only remains for the details of the campaign to be presented for the approval of the merchants of Newton as a whole before the proposed plan is put into operation.

The newly planned Credit Reporting Bureau of the Chamber received such overwhelming support at the last general meeting that the Chamber officials feel it is timely to project this second plan for the promotion of local business so that it may be inaugurated in conjunction with the first and feel that it will be just as well received.

Following the presentation and discussion of the Co-operative Advertising plan a "progress report" on the work of the formation of the new credit bureau will be presented. It is the purpose of the Mercantile Division through these meetings not only to bring up new projects but to keep members and citizens informed as to the progress of the projects under way.

Members and those interested in the subject are urged to make their reservations for the dinner not later than noon Saturday Feb. 17th, by notifying the office of the Newton Chamber. Those who find it impossible to attend the dinner are asked to try and attend the meeting which will be opened at 7.45 o'clock.

The Mercantile Division Committee has—as a result of the meetings already held by the committee—definitely committed itself to a systematic policy of making the Mercantile Division one of the most active departments of the Chamber. The Co-operative Advertising Plan and Credit Reporting Bureau has developed to the point where both are ready for the approval of the mercantile membership, while various other activities are being discussed and considered by the committee. The third meeting of the committee was held at the Newton Club on Monday of this week, with practically a full attendance. The usual luncheon was followed by a business meeting that extended until 4 P.M. The preliminary plans for organizing the Credit Bureau, which matter was referred to this committee at the Mercantile Division meeting on February 5, were worked out and steps taken to make the proposed service available to local business men as soon as possible. The Co-operative Advertising plan was perfected for presentation at the meeting on next Monday evening, and arrangements completed for this meeting. The members of the Division Committee are developing more and more enthusiasm as they appreciate the many opportunities for developing activities that will be for the benefit of the local business men and are also giving some thought to the community benefit that may be derived through improving and increasing the facilities and service offered by the merchants to the people of the city.

The Chamber committee appointed to co-operate with the special Aldermanic committee appointed to draw up and submit to the Board of Aldermen a proposed traffic ordinance for Newton, will hold its initial meeting this evening, at the Chamber office, at 277 Washington street. The personnel of this committee includes Chief Walter B. Randlett of the Newton Fire Department, Ex-Alderman Henry D. Lloyd, and President Henry C. Robbins of the Waban Improvement Association. This committee is to consider the broader traffic problems of the city and, at its initial meeting, will develop suggestions for the consideration of the Aldermanic Committee. The Chamber committee will also offer its services to the Aldermanic Committee in any way that may help that committee in working out its difficult problem of determining just the right kind of a traffic ordinance to meet the needs of the city as a whole as well as those of the respective villages. Chief of Police Bernard F. Burke and Street Commissioner George E. Stuart are to meet with the Committee at its initial meeting this evening.

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by Dorothy Drake

Junior High School

Class II D, is busily working on a pageant that takes in all work that has been done concerning South America. If it is a success, the play may be produced for the eighth grade assembly. We hope it will be a success.

The week of January 29th, was known as "Newtonite Subscription week." The board of business management have been trying to secure subscriptions of everyone in the building. A few of the rooms already have 100%. We will continue this campaign for there have been many signs showing the way to success.

We extend our sincerest sympathies to Myrtle Dankert for the loss of her sister, Mildred, who died after a short illness.

Division II B, is very interested in a magazine about South America, which they are making with the help of Miss Sheib. There are many different systematic committees that have formed systematic committees that have individual topics. Among these are the Art and Scenery, Resources, Biography and People, Current History and Poetry. The pupils are all very enthusiastic about this pamphlet and hope to see it completed in the best of arrangements.

The ninth and eighth grades of J. H. S. held an assembly in the auditorium on Friday, February 9, 1923. The eighth grades entertained with the following program:

Opening exercise, Salute to Flag and Star Spangled Banner. Introduction, Philip Ahurn; Music, Catherine Hodges; Our school, Margaret Merrill; Do We Choose Wisely, Helen Beltram; Poem, Doris Frederikson; Music, Catherine Hodges; The Newtonite, Edwin Ducayet; On Our Honor, Warren Adams.

The meeting was a success and everybody left the assembly with definite ideas as to what each member should strive for.

The Junior High hockey team defeated the Waltham Junior high at Bulloughs Pond on Friday, February 9, 1923. The game ended with the score 12-3 in favor of Newton.

The Seventh Grade held their second class meeting on Tuesday. The following committees were elected: Executive, Herbert Holbrook, James Brown, Edward Dodge, Henry Kraber, Mary Pilger; Student Council, Donald Ross, Edith Loud; Pin and Ring, Ernest Irving, Frank Larrabee, Leslie Church; Color, Barbara Rogers, Barbara Davis, Constance Barber.

Most of the apparatus in the gymnasium is now installed. Needless to say this physical training period is very popular. At present the boys seem to be the more fortunate as they are able to use the showers.

Burr and Williams Schools

Master Herman Goldberger, of Grade IV, Williams School, Auburn, is taking a trip through the West Indies. He is keeping a diary which he will read to the class on his return. In the meantime his classmates greatly enjoy following his travels through map study and are receiving, also, every few days, illustrated postcards from the various points which he has visited.

During the past month the pupils of Grade V, Williams school, Auburndale have been studying railroads. Special topics have been given and reported upon by different pupils.

The following took part: Maurice Cram, Donald Hansen, Edward Smith, Leo Poplanski, Robert Van Patten, Constance Gai, Nelson Bell.

The classes in social studies on a trip through Europe as seen by their teacher during the summer of 1914. The lantern gave them views of many interesting things and places, among them structures erected long before the discovery of America.

Wednesday afternoon, the eighth grades of the Burr School gave a most instructive exhibit of the industries of the United States. Pictures illustrating such occupations as fishing, the growing of wheat and corn, cotton raising, wool production, mining, and forestry were collected and mounted by the pupils who also brought many samples of both raw and manufactured products.

The Burr kindergarten children are prompt little people. Not a single tardiness occurred among them last month.

A group of seventh and eighth grade pupils from the Burr School very much enjoyed and appreciated the Children's Concert in Symphony Hall, on Tuesday afternoon, February thirteenth. They were chaperoned by two of their teachers.

The Albert Edgar Angier School

Over two hundred dollars was realized as a result of the school entertainment held this week. Mrs. Wilfred O. White, Mrs. Hills, and Donald Houghton were the directors. Mrs. White staged the opening play "Mrs. Tabor's Garden." Mrs. Hills acted as dancing teacher for the folk dances of part two; and Donald Houghton directed the minstrel show.

Among the leading characters were Althea Adalian, Jean Macdonald, Edward Offutt, Beatrice Piser, Isabel White, Frank Spain, James Marsh, and Richard Robbins, Jr. There were about fifty others of the school pupils in the chorus, group folk dances, and minstrel circle.

Many of the costumes were made by the girls' sewing classes under the leadership of Mrs. White and Miss Savary; the programs were the result of an art project in the fine arts classes of Miss Doran. Mrs. Marsh served as accompanist for the minstrel show and a host of other folks assisted. Mr. George M. Angier made a strong suggestion for between the acts he sold programs which netted over twenty dollars.

A shower to Miss Hazel A. Goodhue of the school faculty was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Crowell on Wednesday evening, by the teachers. Miss Goodhue was much surprised and pleased. She has the warm friendship of all her co-workers.

EVERYBODY, LEND A HAND!

The present is the most critical time we have had or shall have in the coal situation in Newton this winter, and calls for complete co-operation on the part of every customer with their coal dealer.

There seems to be a misunderstanding on the part of some people as to how to get coal for their homes. There is no secret about it. There are no new regulations regarding it. Do the same as you have always done, and continue ordering your coal from some coal dealer with whom you have been trading. Give him at least a week's time in which to fill your order. Don't overstate the facts, but give him a plain simple statement of when you must have coal, and he will come as near getting it to you at that time as possible.

The Fuel Administrator's job is not to tear customers away from the one coal dealer and load them onto another equally overworked coal dealer, but rather to help the needy ones get coal, and suggest when possible every conceivable way of bettering coal conditions in our city.

If you have any conveyance of any kind, and must have some coal within a day or two, don't call up the Fuel Administrator and tell him about it, but take your driver and go to your coal dealer's yard and bring home with you a few bags of coal. This is the most practical co-operation possible, and will result in getting you coal, which after all is what you want.

It is the Fuel Administrator's duty to place first order with a coal dealer for any newcomers in Newton, naturally the one nearest to customer's home.

Because you know that some dealer in Newton Centre happens to have some coal, which your dealer on the north side hasn't got don't ask the Fuel Administrator to have the Newton Centre dealer bring half a ton clear across the city for your benefit, thus depriving some Newton Centre customer of what they need equally as much.

After new customers have been located, their relations with their dealer becomes the same as yours with your coal dealer, your grocer or other local store, that take care of their customers the best they possibly can.

Another thing, don't be too critical of the size of coal that your coal dealer sends you. You tell him what you have had and what you want, and he will come as near to it as he can. Don't send this coal back to him because it is not the exact size you ordered, as one lady did last week who ordered Furnace and got Egg coal. To do that is to add insult to your well-meaning overworked coal dealer. Don't say you cannot use smaller sizes in your heater or if necessary, some Soft coal along with your hard coal! We can do most anything if we have to, and that seems to be the present situation. Soft coal is the life-saver of the nation this winter. Our dealers will not ask you to take it if they have any small sizes of hard coal to give you.

Now, if in this and in every other way you can help LEND A HAND, EVERYBODY, and to everything they can to help the coal dealers, we will soon be through with it all, without any suffering in our city.

Your Fuel Administrator has no envy or jealousy. Help him out by helping yourself, and taking the matter up directly with your own dealer as much as possible. When the emergency comes, the Fuel Administrator may be depended upon to do everything possible to help the situation in Newton, which, by the way, is not at all serious as compared with some of our neighboring cities.

OLIVER M. FISHER,
Fuel Administrator, City of Newton

SHUBERT THEATRE—"Elsie," the John Jay Scholl musical comedy sensation to be at the Shubert next week, is registering heavily among the voters of the theatre elsewhere because of its well defined theme, its realistic semblance of what would take place in a home of wealth, should its only son marry, seemingly, beneath, his station—to an actress. Of the song numbers, written by Sessle and Blake of "Shuffle Along" fame and Carlo and Sanders who composed "Tangerine," "Hearts in Tune" sung and danced to by Mr. Fredley and Miss Marwick, easily leads because of its true love-like tenderness, its delightful diction and the exquisite sway and rhythm of its waltz movement. Next follows "Two Lips are Roses," which causes "Tartarousness and fun. Then comes "Baby Bunting" in which fast, furious frivolities follow so frequently that one has hardly time to catch one's breath between laughs "Honey Moon Home" with its lifting love motif, its excellent staging, its bits of comedy by the members of the chorus who act as sheriffs, mortgage collectors and constable's assistants receives three, four and off times more encores nightly. And last, but not least, are "Everybody's Strutting Now" and the "Thunderstorm Jazz" numbers the whole forming an evening of high class fun and merriment that will make a visit to see "Elsie" at the Shubert worth while.

Stearns School

In spite of the storm several children from the fifth and sixth grades attended the Children's Symphony Concert, given at Symphony Hall, on Tuesday afternoon.

NEAR EAST RELIEF

An extremely interesting lecture was given at Central Church last Friday evening, illustrated by moving pictures, on the work of the Near East Relief. The speaker was Herbert L. Willett, Jr., who spent some time in relief work in those lands several years ago, and who is now taking a course at Harvard and will later go back to the Orient to continue his activities with this organization.

The people who heard this lecture and saw these remarkable pictures were surprised by the vast scope of this enterprise, and the amazing results it is getting. Scenes were presented from the great orphanages maintained by the N. E. R., in safety zones in Greece, Russian Armenia, and Palestine, where the children will be out of reach of the former oppressors of their people. It was deeply impressive to see these pictures of great throngs of children gathered on the grounds of these various institutions, and few people in this country have the least conception of the magnitude of this work until they see it represented in some way like this. The organization is caring for over 100,000 children in these institutions.

There were scenes from the great work rooms maintained by these orphanages, where the children are being taught trades like lace making, rug weaving, shoe making, etc., by which they will be able to support themselves. There were also pictures showing the throngs of children that roam about the streets of many cities in the Orient, without anyone to look after them, and subsisting on what scraps they can pick up around the streets and homes. The relief workers have to turn down a multitude of these pathetic little ones, as they do not have sufficient funds to care for all. There were scenes from Smyrna and other localities where the exiles have gathered, showing them fleeing from the Turks with their farm animals and household furniture.

WHIST

A most enjoyable and successful whist party and dance took place last Friday evening in Norumbega Hall, given by the Young Ladies of Corpus Christi Church, in aid of the Parish Building Fund. Dancing was in the large hall. Music furnished by Fitzgerald's Orchestra. Many features were introduced, prizes being awarded to the lucky couples. Miss Edna Moir had charge of the dancing. In Society hall, whist was enjoyed by a large number, beautiful prizes given the lucky winners Miss Annie Dignan captured first ladies prize; Miss Agnes Kelley, second; Mrs. Crane, third; Mrs. Shattuck, fourth; Mrs. Thorne, house prize; Miss Mary Fitzsimmons, for having a lucky number receiving a 2 lb. box of fancy chocolates and bonbons. Mrs. Daniel Sullivan and Mr. William Morrissey, received very handsome Valentine Dolls, for having an extra cupid on their score card.

Mr. John F. Murphy took gentleman's first prize; Mr. Martin Cummings, second; Mr. Fred Scribner, third; Mr. Williams O'Donnell, fourth. Miss Eleanor Rooney had charge of the whist assisted by Miss Mary Crotty, Miss Lucy Gleason, Miss Alice Gleason and Miss Loretta Melody. The young ladies are to be congratulated as it was such a magnificent success. Delicious ice cream was served by "Oids" the caterer, Auburn-dale.

ST. JAMES THEATRE—At the St. James this week the Boston Stock Company will be seen in a play new to Boston, "Up The Ladder" from the pen of Owen Davis author of "Sinners," "Al 945," "Forever After," "The Detour" and whose latest play, "Icebound" has just been successfully established on Broadway. "Up The Ladder" was produced last season by W. A. Brady and with Doris Kenyon in the stellar role enjoyed a season's run at the Playhouse. It has to do with two young Americans, meeting in the office where they both work, marrying and then starting together the long climb up. The problem's they have to solve, the temptations that threaten their love, the hopes and despair of the first year make an appealing story. "Up The Ladder" is a modern play depicting average American home life, treated in an absorbing manner by its talented author. Miss Bushnell and Mr. Gilbert will share the leading roles, Lucille Adams will be seen in what it termed as the "greatest flapper role ever written," and an augmented cast of players will be seen in support.

WILBUR THEATRE—"Listening In" the mystery comedy which comes to the Wilbur Theatre (Boston) Monday night, February 19th, direct from its run at the Bijou Theatre, New York, is sponsored by the Milton Productions and has a real Boston favorite in the leading role in Ernest Glendinning. "Listening In" tells the story of a young man whose fortune is at stake and who, left alone in a supposedly haunted house, sees a ghost materializing from ectoplasm, and while "Listening In" on the infinite gets information which he uses for material gain. The simplicity of the modus operandi is fascinating, for, so natural is the play, that it hardly seems to be acting and a play at all. People come and go as in real life, and woven through the whole is sufficient romance, adventure, thrills, and comedy to make "Listening In" more than merely an evening's entertainment. Dodson Mitchell and Frank Andrews, also well known Boston favorites are also in the and splendid cast which includes Minna Gombel, Harry Stubbs, Bruce Elmore, Helen Flint, William Davidson, Margaret Linden, Gloria Matorral, George Gaston, Herbert Rarjeau and Gerald Stopp.

Early Sunday morning the home of Emmanuel Dath at 56 Chapel street, Nonantum, was raided by the Newton police liquor squad, headed by Sergeant Leehan and Moran, with search warrants, and assisted by Patrolmen Hannon, McLean, C. Feeley, Dowling and Walker. About six gallons of whiskey, one quart of wine, 27 gallons of ale, a quantity of empty bottles and a copper boiler and stove of 12-gallon capacity were seized, together with funnels, tubing, etc. Dath is 56 years of age, a mill overseer. He was charged with an illegal sale of intoxicating liquor and with keeping and exposing liquor for sale. Monday morning in the Newton District Court before Judge Bacon he pleaded guilty, on the second and was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction. The fines he paid and the jail sentence was suspended. Carmelo Gorgone of 86 Border street, West Newton, whose home was raided a week ago by Sergeant Leehan and Patrolmen Monaghan, Gaquin and Loughlin, was fined $100 for illegal sale of intoxicating liquor and was given a suspended sentence of two months in the House of Correction.

Surviving him are two daughters, Miss Alice M. Young of Newtonville, and Mrs. Sarah E. Hathaway of Wilmington, Delaware, and five sons, Dr. Walter Young of Newton Centre, Mr. Alfred L. Young of Arlington, James Everett Young of Chestnut Hill, Clarence Joseph Young of Wollaston, and William S. Young of New London, Conn. Mr. Young was a member of the Church of the New Jerusalem in Boston. Services were held at his late residence on Wednesday, Rev. H. Clinton Hay of Boston officiating, and the burial was in Dorchester.

DEATH OF MR. YOUNG

James A. Young, who died Sunday at his home in Newtonville, was born in Boston in 1843. He served for three years in the Civil War. He returned to Boston, married Emma A. Gove of Nahant, and went into the lobster business, opening a store on the old Federal street bridge. At the time sufficient lobsters for the trade were caught in Boston Harbor. They were caught mostly by Portuguese fishermen living on the islands in the harbor. They would bring them to Boston by the dory load and would receive two or three cents apiece for the small lobsters and up to ten, twelve or fifteen cents for the large "Blue-nose" Cape lobsters. Lobsters at that time and for some time after would sell on the streets of Boston for five cents apiece, being known as "Joes."

Mr. Young was pioneer in the "pound" idea for lobsters. He obtained a large pond in East Boston having an outlet to the salt water, put a dam across the outlet, cleaned out the pond, divided it with piling, and put lobsters in there during the summer time when they were scarce.

After four or five years of this, he moved his ponds to the island of Southport, Boothbay Harbor, Maine. Two ponds built there by him are still carried on. From the Federal Street Bridge, he moved this business to Commercial Wharf where it is now being conducted by his son.

The operetta was in two acts, both acts being in the garden of a restaurant in France. The setting of the garden was very attractive, and the gay colors of the peasants and Newton girls added much to the effect of the scene.

There were many tuneful songs, and lively solo dances by a large and varied cast. Miss Anna Morrison scored a decided hit as the Irish mother, Miss Mary Delaney and Miss Irene Mellen were also very popular as Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean, and got off many local hits.

Between the acts there was a curtain sketch which caused much merriment.

The cast included: Anna Morrison, Dadda Masse, Stella Chaisson, Peggy Orliphant, Helen Shea, Catherine Sullivan, Ethel Morrell, Ruth Stubbart, Halma Rosenbaum, Inez Seaward, Lena Womholdt, The setting of the garden was very attractive, and the gay colors of the peasants and Newton girls added much to the effect of the scene.

There were single skating exhibitions by Mr. N. W. Niles, Mrs. T. W. Blanchard, and Mrs. Sherwin Badger, and skating in pairs by Mrs. Dillard and Mr. N. W. Niles, and by Miss and Mr. Rotch. The ten step competition was won by Mrs. Blanchard and Mr. Niles.

The judges were Mrs. C. L. Newton, Mr. Louis B. Van Washburn and Mr. A. W. Bingham.

The Friendly Glow

A step today, and— you can meet tomorrow

IT used to be New Downer's Landing—a picnic grove, with an amusement park, and rowboats for hire to idle about the Fore River. It's just across Quincy Point Bridge, and just opposite the shipyards, on the main shore road to the Cape.

We have bought 60 acres there, and when winter is out of the ground there will be activity. The plans are drawn, the contracts awarded, and you will see the building of a station there to generate 400,000 horsepower of electricity.

It will rank with the largest generating stations in the United States; with enough capacity to supply the Greater Boston district with twice the electricity it used on December 21, 1922, the biggest day in its history.

It will have storage space for 300,000 tons of coal—enough to make electricity for Greater Boston for 170 days like last December 21st.

And it is built by simple arithmetic!

How do we dare build so far beyond the maximum of present requirement? By simple arithmetic. You aren't likely to come to us today for twice the electricity that is now helping you to live and work more easily, and more effectively; even if you do, it isn't likely that the two million others in Greater Boston will have the same needs at the same moment. Aren't we guessing? No, we're figuring!

For example: In December of 1921 you did so many things with electricity in home and shop and office and factory, and in going and fro, that you used 38,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity.

One year later, in December, 1922, you used over fifty million kilowatt hours in the business of making Greater Boston greater—an increase of 32 per cent over the previous December, and the first time you ever needed more than 50,000,000.

A one-third increase in one year! If that rate of growth were to go on, in less than three years Greater Boston would use twice the quantity of today. It won't be quite as fast as that, for Greater Boston is no boom town. But it is our business to know exactly what your requirement will be, and to meet it even before you know your needs yourself.

Arithmetic plus Faith

Every calculation we make looks forward so Greater Boston can step forward. Every record we have shows it has stepped forward. Our simple arithmetic is based on the relentless advance of Greater Boston in a common spirit that for nearly three centuries has made this city greater every year.

That sort of figuring is called Faith. Faith is one-way, and two-sided. We grow together.

NEW CHEVROLET SALES ROOM

W. J. Furbush Opens Branch Store

These are busy days for W. J. Furbush, Chevrolet Dealer in Newton. The demand for Chevrolet Motor Cars is such that Mr. Furbush has found it necessary to open a second sales room to be located at 245 Walnut street, Newtonville. The new store will be under the active management of Douglas Furbush who understands thoroughly Chevrolet Motor Cars and the manner in which they meet the demand for economical transportation.

In discussing his new sales room and the growth of his business, Mr. Furbush said: "It is necessary to visit a Chevrolet sales room to appreciate fully the great interest being taken in Chevrolet motor cars. Chevrolet is very much in the public mind and this spring and summer will see a great number sold. Quality has been still further improved by more artistic design and added equipment. Economy has been still further increased by engineering improvements and prices of the new line remain the same in spite of added equipment and more expensive construction which have greatly increased value."

Bigelow School

The highest per cent of attendance for the past four weeks was that of Miss Stearn's class, 93%.

Lincoln's birthday was observed with appropriate exercises in the school hall. The eighth grade had a special program in their own classroom.

Bigelow is doing creditable work in the Senior Grammar hockey league having won all games so far played.

The first game was played Thursday, January 25, and Bigelow, playing without the services of Capt. Stubbs, defeated Horace Mann 1-0. McLean featured.

Bigelow defeated Mason in the second league game on Tuesday, January 30, by a score of 1-0. The game was fast and exciting, the only point being scored by Captain Stubbs at the close of the second period. King played a strong defensive game for Bigelow and McLean played well in the forward line.

Our hardest game was played with Peirce on February 8 at Bullough's Pond; two overtime periods being necessary to determine the winner. Peirce fought hard as she knew defeat meant the loss of the championship. Peirce, although able to tie the score twice, was never in the lead. The final score was 3 to 2 with Bigelow winning. The following players make up the Bigelow team: Forwards, Capt. Stubbs, "Joe" McLean, "Billy" Switzer, and "Allie" Fletcher; Defense, "Ed" King, Herbert Hatch, Arthur Foster, "Bill" Sutcliffe and Tom Kinley.

Mason School

There are three clubs to which the eighth grades belong. They are devoted to music, English and science, and sessions are held once in three weeks.

The Science Club began on Radio, and the English Club discussed the possibility of giving a play.

The Music Club heard its secretary's report, and then Helen Wetherbee very skillfully gave a piano solo. Brandon Marsh read from Bach's life and then the meeting ended with some song practice.

Last week Thursday Mr. Sidney Porter told the eighth grades about the insurance business. The class is discussing, in its arithmetic work, business occupations of different kinds and the qualifications for each.

A very wonderful afternoon it was for the children who attended the concert given by the Symphony Orchestra on this week Tuesday. For an hour they listened to the most entrancing music.

The ten-week report cards went home this week and in the various rooms, it was interesting to see the children discussing the marks they had earned.

An appropriate vocal selection, "In Christ There is Neither East nor West" was rendered by Mrs. Lewis E. Moore. Mrs. F. H. ## John Hancock LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

SYNOPSIS OF 60TH ANNUAL STATEMENT

Reported to the Massachusetts Insurance Department as of December 31, 1922

The Total Resources, or Assets, amounted to $268,075,903.41

Comprising $23,939,266.89 in United States Liberty Bonds
$130,078,119.89 in Mortgages on Farms $33,084,113.79 in Railroad Bonds
9,113,000.00 in other first-class Mortgages 22,458,027.97 in Municipal Bonds
22,278,445.72 in Loans on Company's Policies 27,124,929.15 in other Legal Assets

Of these Resources there was set aside as a liability to cover the Reserves required by law on Policies in Force, the sum of 236,792,105.00

And also there was set aside for all other defined liabilities (including $5,640,000 for the full year's apportionment of Surplus Returns to Policyholders for 1923) the sum of 12,303,279.62

Leaving as Surplus Assets for General Emergency Protection 18,980,518.79

These funds make secure the policies of some 3,250,000 individuals who are the owners of the funds and for whom they are held in trust. These policyholders are insured in this Company for $1,668,847,668.

But these funds do more than secure the policies; they are daily in use for the public welfare.

The Liberty Bonds held are the living evidence of the support which the policyholders gave to our Country in financing our war.

Mortgages on farms and on other real estate, bonds of States, Cities, Counties, and Townships, of Public Service Corporations, of Railroads, assist in the production and transportation of food and other commodities, and in other activities of our nation's life.

Payments to policyholders and their beneficiaries, for death, endowment, and other claims, reached $25,080,474.17 for the year, or $83.601 per working day.

Since organization in 1862 the payments to policyholders aggregate $292,858,962

In every essential element—new business written, income, assets, surplus—there was a strong and consistent gain in 1922.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The State House has been crowded this week at the many hearings held on a wide range of subjects.

What was expected to be one of the most interesting hearings of the session and assigned to the Auditorium on that account, viz., the subject of probate—attracted less than a hundred persons the first day and not over fifty on the second day.

The repeal of the 48 hour law brought out a storm of remonstrance. While the proposition to tax dividends on telephone stock taxed the capacity not only of the committee room but of the adjacent corridors as well.

The Democrats forced two roll calls this week on unimportant matters, and it looks as if the time saved by the adoption of the amendment on emergency roll calls will be more than offset by these unnecessary party and petty politics.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

Adequate meeting places for the large clubs are exceedingly difficult to obtain in localities that have not begun to think in terms of audiences of 600 and over. The beautiful and commodious new club house of the Newton Centre Woman's Club, which those who attended yesterday's meeting of the Newton Federation viewed with envy, will be a constant source of joy. The simple beauty and dignity of its auditorium impresses itself more and more upon those who frequent it. Auburndale, too, is most happy in the solution of its problem in the auditorium of the Auburndale Club House, which although still not quite finished, has already served both clubs of that village to good purpose. The hall, not as pretentious as that in Newton Centre, has a cheery, homelike atmosphere, while the ample stage gives opportunity for all sorts of entertainments. What has been fortunate for several years in its combination with the Neighborhood Club. These three communities have solved their problem, but there remain at least three other villages which are still in a state of mere endurance. It is a tremendous proposition for a woman's club to finance the building of a club house, but what women have done, others may do, and without doubt will do. Newton Highlands and Newtonville have made beginnings, but the largest club of all, the Community Club at Newton will have to get busy in the near future if it is to go forward and fill the place in the community that is awaiting it. Nothing puts vitality into a person or into an organization like a big task or the sense of working together for a common cause. By its very geographical position and the ease of getting to Boston, Newton has much less of the community spirit than any of the other parts of the city, and, therefore, needs some big common interest to awake it from the lethargy of being merely one of Boston's bedrooms. The sooner the Community Club can get to work the better.

Owing to the holiday next Thursday copy for this department should be in the hands of the Club Editor not later than Wednesday morning.

State Federation

From all parts of Massachusetts club women will gather at Somerville, Tuesday, Feb. 27, for the midwinter meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. Sessions at 10 A. M. and 2 P. M. will be held in Somerville High School, Highland avenue, where a cordial welcome from the Council of Federated Clubs of Somerville will await the thousands of delegates. The chief interest of the day will center in the afternoon address of His Excellency, Governor Channing H. Cox, who will choose a timely subject.

Response of the State President, Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, of Brockton will follow addresses of welcome at the opening of the morning session by John W. Webster, Mayor of Somerville, and Miss Clara G. Hegan, chairman of the Council of Somerville Clubs.

An outstanding feature of the day will be the consideration and action on certain legislative measures, both state and federal, to be presented, pro and con, by authorities, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph W. Atwill of Lynn, state chairman of legislation. Opening the afternoon session community singing will be led by Mrs. Mabel F. Barstow and a group of songs will be given by Charles W. Ellis, tenor. New clubs to be presented include the Cotnam Woman's Club, Community Service Club of West Newton, Groveland Woman's Club and Fortnightly Club of Monson. The presentation of resolutions by Mrs. William H. White of Wellesley Hills, chairman, will conclude what promises to be a memorable day in Federation activities.

Professional Woman's Club

Tuesday, February 20, 12.30 P. M. Monthly luncheon, Ballroom, Copley-Plaza Hotel. The program, "Duet from 'Romeo and Juliet,'" presented by Alice M. Stevens, soprano; Rulon Robinson, tenor; Minnie Stratton Watson, at the piano; Mabel M. Foote, contralto, with Elsie Luker at the piano. Among the guests invited are Secretary of State, Frederic Cook, State Treasurer, James Jackson and prominent men and women, as well as stage favorites.

Local Happenings

Dr. J. Burford Parry, of Springfield, held his audience completely fascinated throughout his entire lecture upon "A Great Welshman—Lloyd George" before the Newton Community Club last Thursday. It was in no sense a biographical sketch, but rather an impersonation of the "man who has captured the imagination of the world." Dr. Parry presented Lloyd George, not only as the public statesman who steered England through the War, but also as the simple, human character that he is among his friends at home in North Wales. Altogether the lecture was full of interest from start to finish, and no speaker has received a heartier demonstration than that accorded Dr. Parry at the close. The club also greatly enjoyed the two selections by the chorus with Mrs. Arthur S. Plinn as director.

Friday evening was Guest Night for the Community Service Club of West Newton. A large number of members and their friends were enthusiastic in their reception of the miscellaneous program of music, dances, and readings, concluded with the one-act play, "Sham," given by local talent. Miss Helene Tardivel rendered piano selections very delightfully and also contributed whistling solos. Miss Wamburg gave readings, and Miss Ruth McIntyre three dances, a Greek dance, an Oriental, the slave girl from Egyptian ballet, and the ballet from Faust. "Sham" proved a very clever satire on social climbers and was very well done by Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Whiting, Henry N. Pratt, and Geoffrey Baker.

The Review Club of Auburndale will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, February 20 at 10 A. M., at the home of Mrs. Wickliffe J. Spaulding, 429 Wolcott street. The morning's program is devoted to music, with a paper on "Jenny Lind" by Mrs. Spaulding and one on Paderevski by Mrs. Percival M. Wood. Some musical features of especial interest have also been promised.

"The Pacific Ocean and Its Problems" will be discussed by Dr. George H. Blakeslee, Professor of History and International Relations at Clark University, at the meeting of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands, on Tuesday, at 2.30 o'clock, in the Congregational church. Music will be furnished by Professor William Leonard Grey of Boston. A social half hour over the tea-cups will follow. Movies in aid of the Community Building Fund will be offered on three successive Saturday afternoons and evenings in Lincoln Hall, beginning February 17, when Tom Mix and his famous horse will appear in "Catch My Smoke." Weekly news, educational and comedy films will complete the program.

"President's Day" will be observed by the Newtonville Woman's Club next Tuesday when past-presidents of the club and thirty or more presidents of other clubs in and about Newton will be the special guests of the afternoon. Mr. Vernon L. Kellogg, executive secretary of the "National Research Council," active in European relief work since 1915 and a trusted aid of Herbert Hoover, will speak on "Russia under Soviet Government." Mr. Kellogg was in the Russian famine region in 1921-22, and saw the effect of the Soviet Government on the attempt to requisition the surplus grain produced by the farmers, and has first hand knowledge of present conditions in Russia. As a scientific investigator, he may be expected to deal with his subject in an impartial and unemotional manner. There will be music under the direction of Mrs. Arthur D. Quimby, and tea will be served by the hospitality committee, Mrs. Horton Allen, chairman. Under the auspices of the club, a fairy play, "The Enchanted Princess," will be given by the Children's Company of Emerson College, in the Technical high school hall, Mar. 3, at 2.30 o'clock.

Children attending the "Story Hours" at the Museum of Fine Arts will meet in the waiting-room of the station at 1.12 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The spring millinery class under the management of the Home Economics committee, Mrs. L. A. Abbott, chairman, begins Thursday, March 1, at 10 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. Royal L. Lapham, 80 Central avenue. The class, as heretofore, will have Miss L. F. Williams for instructor.

Wednesday morning a paper on Louis XVI and the Revolution by Mile. Alice Bertrand, of Paris, will be presented before the Newton Social Science Club.

The Community Service Club of West Newton will hold an all-day sewing meeting in the Parish House of the Congregational Church on Wednesday.

Friday, Feb. 23, at 2.30 P. M., at Players' Small Hall, William Filene Sons Co. will put on a unique Fashion Show for the West Newton Women's Educational Club. Music will be furnished by Miss Marion Hyde of Melrose, pianist. Mrs. Charles L. Anderson of Newton Centre, chairman of the club, will make every effort to make this an unusual afternoon. As this is an open meeting, come and bring your friends.

Mrs. F. A. Day, acting for the Group Activities Committee of the Newton Community Club, will conduct the party to the Museum of Fine Arts on Wednesday, February 21st. Members will meet at the library at 1.30 P. M. Those wishing to go please notify Miss G. H. Emery before Monday, February 19th. A special exhibition of American Handicrafts prepared by the American Federation of Arts is being held at the Museum.

A delightful afternoon is promised by the Auburndale Woman's Club for both children and grown-ups on Saturday, February 24th, at 2 o'clock in the Clubhouse Auditorium, when "The Steadfast Princess," together with songs and story-telling will be given by the Players from the Children's Theatre of Emerson College. The play will also be given and home-made candy on sale. This is all a part of the scheme for raising money for the Philanthropic Fund of the Club, Mrs. Walter S. Wells, chairman, and tickets may be secured from Mrs. J. Warren Burnham.

The Currents Events meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, Friday, February 9th, was full of interest to everyone present. Mrs. Frederick E. Waring gave a fine report of the visit of the Home Economics Class to the Stone Institute. They not only gave great pleasure to the ladies in the home, but had a delightful afternoon themselves. Dr. Francis George Curtis, chairman of the Newton Health Board, explained very clearly the Schick Test. Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Brockton, President of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, gave a very vivid idea of the affairs at Washington, D. C., and advised watching the doings there for the next few weeks. She also gave an insight into the political situation and conditions in the Eastern and Western parts of Europe. The Auburndale Women's Club Chorus Trio rendered two groups of songs delightfully. Mrs. Ralph C. Henry, President of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, a past president, were guests of honor. The social hour was greatly enjoyed by the large number present and the club is indebted to Mrs. Frederick A. Cole and her committee for the fine afternoon's program.

A few weeks ago, Mrs. Harry S. Wells, president of the club, told of the great need for woolen afghans at the Peabody Home for Crippled Children at Newton Centre, and asked the members to knit or crochet as many eight-inch squares as possible before the meeting on February 9. While there has been a generous response, there is still need for more, and additional contributions will be greatly appreciated.

Lincoln Day was observed by the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club on Monday evening with a program of music, a paper on Lincoln and personal reminiscences of Mrs. Lincoln. The Girl Scouts, who were special guests on this occasion, presented a part of the program with which they open their meetings. Mrs. G. W. Ulmer, Jr., of Newton Centre, rendered cornet solos and accompanied by patriotic singing. Mrs. Charles Wilford spoke of Lincoln in a present-day perspective. Mrs. E. B. Kellogg's reminiscences of Mrs. Lincoln were particularly interesting as were also the picture of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln, which has never been published, and some of Mrs. Lincoln's letters written to Mrs. Kellogg's mother, which were shown.

At the meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club held on Tuesday, February 13th, Mrs. Charles S. Grover gave a short synopsis of the three bills to receive favorable consideration—Classification of Prisoners, Educational Motion Pictures in connection with Schools and Colleges, and the Federal Child Labor Bill; also of the two recommended for study—"Women for Jury Service," and "Uniform Divorce Law." The one to be opposed is Equal Rights for Men and Women. The speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. J. W. Ferguson Kennedy, better known as Barbara Bradford, was, at a very late hour, unable to attend, and the program committee was most fortunate in securing at such extremely short notice, Miss Margaret Penich, who gave a Southern Program which was enjoyed by all. This was preceded by a group of three songs by the Club chorus: "The Bells," by Montani; "A Fond Kiss" by Deurus Taylor; and "Where My Caravan Has Rested," by Hermann Lohr. This musical committee of the Club has increased during the past year and under the leadership of Mrs. Julia R. McCormick an artistic performance is always guaranteed. Mr. Sturtevant of the Jewett Players spoke at the close of the meeting in behalf of the Repertory Theatre.

Guest night is on the 27th, and while the number of guests a member may invite is unlimited, no tickets can be purchased after the 23rd, and none will be on sale that evening.

D. A. R.

The regular meeting of the Lucy Jackson Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held in the parish house of the Unitarian Church, West Newton, on Lincoln's Birthday. About a hundred were present including many guests.

Miss Gertrude Knight told of the present condition of the American Indians, gave a number of their legends and dances, and made a strong plea for greater freedom for them. The delegates for the national congress in Washington and their alternates were chosen as follows: Regent, Mrs. Frederick J. Fessenden; delegate, Mrs. Charles D. Meserve; alternates, Mrs. Frank A. Day, Mrs. Louis Bell, Mrs. Fred E. Mann, Miss Eva Van Wagenen, Mrs. Walter Corson, Mrs. Gill.

For the state conference in Boston in March, the following were chosen: Mrs. Frederick J. Fessenden, Regent; Mrs. Charles D. Meserve, Mrs. Frank A. Day, and Mrs. Louis Bell with Mrs. Fred E. Mann, Miss Eva Van Wagenen, Mrs. Gill and Mrs. Corson as alternates.

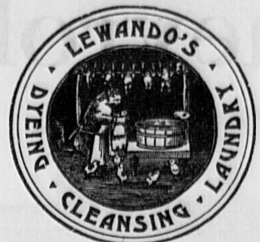

During the afternoon a poem on Lincoln by Mrs. Fred E. Mann of Newtonville recited a poem called "Lincoln's Dream." Lincoln's portrait was conspicuously placed upon the piano.

The parish house was tastefully decorated for the occasion. Tea was served. The following being hostesses: Mrs. Charles D. Meserve, chairman; Mrs. Francis Newhall, Miss Alice Morton, Miss Alice Munroe.

NEWTONVILLE COMMUNITY FORUM

A wonderful treat is in store for the citizens of the Newtons, Sunday, February 18, at 4 P. M. when Denis A. McCarthy, LL.D., Lecturer, author and publicist of note will conduct the second meeting of the Newtonville Community Forum. His subject: "Americanizing the Alien—And Ourselves" is one upon which he is at his best. Particularly so because he is among his other many duties employed by the Massachusetts Department of Education as a lecturer to teachers of Americanization.

Knowing the immigrant problem from the immigrant's side as well as from that of the American Citizen, and combining an inimitable humor with convincing earnestness, Mr. McCarthy is sure to make a striking appeal to the hundreds who attend the Forum Meetings.

Among his many accomplishments Mr. McCarthy is author, journalist, poet and publicist. His activity in civic and social movements is well known. His belief in free and open discussion should make this second mid-winter Forum especially keen and inviting.

The public is cordially welcomed at these Lectures and Discussions. Admission is free.

The meeting will begin at 4 o'clock and will be held in the Central Church Newtonville. There will be special music.

DEATH OF MRS. BUTLER

On February 12th, occurred the death of Mrs. Julia M. Butler, at the age of 82, a resident of Newtonville for the past twenty-five years. It is an interesting coincidence that she passed away on that particular date, because all through her long life she had lived on the same high plane as our beloved martyr President, in brotherly love, kindly consideration and faithful service for all whose lives touched hers. A descendant of Elder William Brewster and Rev. Thomas Hooker, born while her father was studying for the ministry in Andover Theological Seminary and reared in a minister's family she has always lived a consistent Christian life of service grounded firmly on the faith of her fathers. She was a loved and respected member of the Central Congregational Church, where she was deaconess for four years, taught in the Sunday School and rendered faithful service wherever and whenever she could.

Rev. Jay T. Stocking, a former pastor of Central Church, in a letter to Mrs. Butler written shortly before her death, said to her, "How many people there are in the world who love you dearly for all you are to them. You have lighted the way for so many with your love and friendship and sunny face." Her sweet and winsome personality radiated sunshine and happiness into the lives of all who knew her. Her immediate relatives who have seen her pass peacefully on into the larger life, include an unbroken family circle of five children. Mrs. M. A. Andrews and George M. Butler of West Hartford, Conn., William E. Butler of Stamford, Conn., Miss Julia A. and Kate L. Butler of Newtonville, nine grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Neither they nor her host of friends mourn her going, but everyone of them will cherish and bless the memory of this unassuming, faithful, sweet Christian life.

The funeral was held in the chapel of the Central Church, on Wednesday, February 14, Rev. M. H. Lichliter conducting the services.

—Inclement weather did not prevent a goodly number of Channing Alliance from attending the meeting on Tuesday afternoon, when Rev. Miles Hanson, of Roxbury, was the speaker. Mr. Hanson gave a thoughtful, intimate, and inspirational talk upon "What the Bible Means to Me," which amply repaid for the effort made by those who came. Miss Conant, contralto in the church choir, added much pleasure by her selections. Tea was served under the direction of Miss Edith Byfield, Mrs. Oliver M. Fisher, and Miss Helen L. Wells, presiding over the tea table. The Junior Alliance held a very successful cake and candy sale during the social hour.

—Beginning with the history of the movement and its progress during the last sixteen years at Emmanuel Church, she went on to tell of the kind of cases treated and of the methods used. The latter she stated, were both spiritual and psychological.

The new psychology recognizes the necessity in many cases of re-education in point of view. Many mental cases are the result of a distorted point of view which must be changed if real help is to be effected.

Two methods are largely used—psychoanalysis and suggestion. Exercises in relaxation and deep breathing are often used as a preliminary to bring about a receptive mood. The final aim is the reconstruction of the individual, the transformation of life from inefficiency to efficiency.

Mrs. Patten especially called attention to the fact that the new psychology is not irreligious as is sometimes thought, but, on the other hand, greater understanding leads to a deeper and truer religion. Prayer and autosuggestion are both acts of faith. Both are used at Emmanuel Church.

She said, in concluding, that there are to be a number of public meetings at Emmanuel Church for those interested in the work beginning with next Wednesday evening, Feb. 21, at 7.30. She also left a list of books which would be helpful in connection with the work. Next week another member of the Emmanuel Church is to speak further of this work.

JOHN HANCOCK MUTUAL LIFE

Annual Meeting of Policyholders Re-elected Officers—Second Best Year of Business Just Finished

The annual meeting of the policyholders of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company was held Monday, February 12, at its new administration building on Clarendon street. Pres. Walton L. Crocker was in the chair.

The principal business transacted was the reading of the annual report for the past year, the election of officers and the annual address of President Crocker. The present officers were re-elected, George R. Nutter of Dunbar, Nutter & McClellan, attorneys, and Thomas M. Devlin of Devlin Bros., leather dealers, were elected to the Board of Directors.

President Crocker presented the 60th annual report of the directors, summarizing the activities of the past year as a record of healthy progress and accomplishment. The admitted assets as reported to the Massachusetts Insurance Department as of Dec. 31 last, total $288,075,903, representing an increase of $28,382,532 over the previous year. The ascertained liabilities being $249,095,284 (95 per cent of this sum comprising the policy reserve), there result surplus assets of $138,980,619.

The new insurance written and placed in force in the year was $250,492,524, or an increase of 13 per cent over the corresponding item in 1921. This is the company's second best year of writings, having been exceeded only in the somewhat abnormal year of 1920. The outstanding paid-for insurance was brought up to $1,688,847,668, or an increase of 8 per cent over the preceding Dec. 31. The net income, of which $56,879,460 was from premiums and $11,983,877 from interest, aggregated $68,863,337.

Payments to policyholders comprised a total during the year of $25,089,474. These payments averaged $83.60 for every working day.

After paying a warm tribute to the "well-ordered, enthusiastic organization working in effective cooperation" in the home office and in the field, which now comprises approximately 12,200 persons, President Crocker said in part:

"The health of policyholders has increasingly become the concern of life insurance administration in general. Your company has recognized its proper field of activity here and desires to manifest its attitude through the adoption of all practical means of helping to prolong and preserve life."

"The new home office medical laboratory will furnish an effective base from which to pursue future studies relating to this desirable cause. As an instance of the company's interest in such matters, there may be mentioned our alliance with the Harvard Cancer Commission, and through that body with the Huntington Memorial Hospital, which has been most admirably equipped for the study and treatment of cancer."

"As about 10 per cent of the death rate is caused by cancer, which appears to be on the increase, the question is of moment not only financially to the policyholders of the company but from a sentimental and humanitarian standpoint."

"A life insurance policy is property. Every life insurance policyholder is thus a property owner. The securities upon which this property, either present or potential, is based, comprise farms, railroads, public service utilities, schools, highways—the mediums of production and distribution, and other elements of the manifold activities of our National life. Through the institution of life insurance, therefore, society at large is relieved of many financial burdens."

—The young people's hour at the Eliot Church Lenten service on Thursday night was a great success. Because of the holiday, the meeting next week will be on Friday from 6-7 P. M. The speaker will be Professor Herbert A. Mayer of Boston University who will speak on "Community Team Work." All young people are cordially invited.

LENTEN INSTITUTE

Eliot Church began a series of Lenten Institute lectures and classes this Thursday evening.

Dr. Patton led in the discussion of the question, "Should America Re-assess her Former Isolation from European Affairs?" He began by saying that it was of supreme importance that the right attitude toward European affairs be maintained at the present time. He then went on to point out the great importance of examination into the sources of our information in regard to European affairs.

The danger points in Europe were briefly outlined and attention called to the intensified nationalism brought about by the war.

Before dealing with the question of the evening, Dr. Patton reviewed the history of our country dealing especially with those events in which we have co-operated with other nations, such as the affair of the Algerian pirates, the slave trade, etc. He stated that our country kept a squadron on the African coast to help England in putting down the slave traffic.

In these instances he proved that America had not always maintained a policy of isolation. He then asked upon what our present policy was based, and discussed the question whether by remaining out of European affairs we were really doing more good than by entering them.

The conclusion to which he came was that it will be impossible, even if desirable, for us to remain isolated from the affairs of the world. In closing he quoted from the "Round Table" as follows: "In a world of nations, it is the way in which America acts as a Nation which counts."

Following Mr. Patton Mrs. Mary E. Patten of the Emmanuel Church, Boston, spoke on "The Principles of Psychotherapy," as carried out in Emmanuel Church.

Beginning with the history of the movement and its progress during the last sixteen years at Emmanuel Church, she went on to tell of the kind of cases treated and of the methods used. The latter she stated, were both spiritual and psychological.

The new psychology recognizes the necessity in many cases of re-education in point of view. Many mental cases are the result of a distorted point of view which must be changed if real help is to be effected.

N. H. S.

The Melrose High hockey team shut out Newton High 4 to 0 on Bullough's Pond, yesterday afternoon.

Melrose High played excellent hockey, counting once in the first period, getting two more goals in the second and the fourth one in the final period.

Capt. Gardner, Leland Harrington and Donette contributed the feature work for Melrose, and Capt. Henry Crosby, Guy Holbrook and Dick Vaughan for Newton.

Members of the faculty, parents and students were very much impressed by the Senior Play, "Fanny and the Servant Problem," given by the Technical High School on Feb. 8, 9, 10. It is said by some that this was one of the best plays ever given in the school, and great credit is due those who produced it. The cast included the following: Catherine and Ed Sullivan, Walter Hanning, Todd Wallace, John Sheehan, Leonora Bennett, Natalie Sawyer, Philip Reed, Frank Hinks, Dora Shriberg, Hilda Campbell and others. There was dancing in the gymnasium after the performances of Feb. 9-10, with the following as patronesses: Miss Bigelow, Mrs. Hinks, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. McMullen, Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Wallace. During the intermission between acts the school orchestra rendered some very delightful music under the leadership of Mr. Harrington.

NEWTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

New Credit Bureau formed and an Advertising Program Discussed at Recent Meeting

That the proposed retail credit reporting bureau for the Mercants of Newton will become a reality in the near future was assured last Monday night at a dinner meeting of the Mercantile Division of the Chamber of Commerce; when about 40 merchants from greater Newton, gathered at the Newton Club, pledged membership in and support of the credit organization. Sharing attention and interest with the Credit Bureau was the plan outlined by Secretary Clifton C. Mowry of the Chamber for Co-operative advertising campaign for Newton merchants as the first step of a "Trade in Newton" campaign.

Mr. Mowry spoke in detail of the plans prepared by the Merchants Committee for the publication of a weekly newspaper devoted solely to local advertising, accompanied by some educational trade reading matter, to be distributed by mail to eight thousand homes in the city of Newton. The plan was received in a most enthusiastic manner by those present, and both members and guests who took part in the discussion following the Secretary's remarks praised the scheme as the most progressive forward looking step advanced for the building up of home trade in a long time. It was voted by those present to start publication of the paper as soon as possible.

The Secretary then spoke of the Credit Bureau, telling of a day spent as the guest of Mr. Parker in Taunton where they were able to view first hand the Taunton Credit Bureau and its method of operation. He outlined step by step the operations necessary to the collection of date, preparation of rating books and all work which must be done preliminary to the actual opening of the bureau. He also told of the approximate cost of operating the bureau for one year and how the cost would be apportioned among the subscribers.

Mr. Mowry also told of the need of patience and wholehearted cooperation on the part of the subscribing merchants. He was followed by the Associate Secretary, Wm. M. Stevenson who emphasized the point of co-operation and explained briefly the methods of Credit Bureau operation in some other cities.

Let us men who value freedom use our utmost care to support liberty, the only bulwark against lawless power which in all ages has sacrificed to its wild lust and boundless ambition the blood of the best men that ever lived.—Alexander Hamilton.

WINS SECOND PLACE

The Newton High School track team won second place last Saturday, in the Greater Boston Interscholastic meet with a total of 15½ points to 19 for Medford.

Newton won first place in the 1000 yard run, second place in the 45 yard hurdles and standing broad jump and received 4½ points in the team races. In the 1000 yard run, Capt. Wesley Dicks of Newton won handily. Time 2m 32s.

Walter McQuiston for Newton won second place in the 45 yard hurdles, and Julius Kohler won second place in the standing broad jump clearing 9ft. 5½ inches only a ¼ inch behind the winner.

There were nine senior three-lap relay races and all brought out some close competition. Naturally the Newton-Medford race, the final one, was the one watched with interest and it certainly was a thriller. Medford obtained the lead on the first relay and held it until Weeks of Newton nosed out Rismann of Medford on the second relay. On the third relay Hornell of Medford managed to overhaul Duane of Newton and turned over a good margin to Jim Kelley, his anchor man. Walter McQuiston, the Newton anchor, managed to come up within striking distance of Kelley, but the former attempted to pass him on one of the corners at top speed with the result that he had to slow up and that gave the Medford High boy his chance. Kelley let loose and McQuiston thereafter was in no position to overhaul him. The time 2m 19 1-5s, made by Medford, was the best of the day and gave it the five points for the fastest relay. Newton made the second fastest time 2m 21s.

Newton High and Medford High will have it out again this afternoon, when they clash in a dual meet in the Huntington School Gymnasium. It is generally conceded that these two rank as foremost in Greater Boston school track. Newton has won all except two meets this winter, losing to Huntington and Brookline High, but later it turned the tables on the latter school. Clare Johnson, Newton High shot-putter, failed to appear for the Newton-Brookline High meet at Brookline and was suspended from the team. He declared he would not return to school and was absent when Newton competed at the Greater Boston meet.

The first duty of an American citizen or of a citizen of any constitutional government, is obedience to the constitution and laws of his country.—Stephen A. Douglas.

MOCK TRIAL

At the Highland Circuit Court (Waban Neighborhood Club House), last Saturday evening, the trial of James R. Chandler for larceny, a verdict of Guilty was given by a Jury composed of twelve prominent Waban women but many of the large number who attended the trial, felt that the evidence presented in a very able manner by Prosecuting Attorney Allen, was insufficient to warrant conviction. The defendant's attorney, Bates, made a most appealing defence and it was evident that Judge Bartlett was greatly embarrassed in sentencing the prisoner. The testimony of the witnesses, much of which seemed incredible, was however all admitted as evidence.

An appeal may be taken, as it was shown that the Jury had made its decision before the Court was opened and if the case is re-tried, the defendant, Chandler, insists that having made no impression upon the former Jury, that twelve entirely different list of witnesses.

The cast included: Judge, J. W. Bartlett; Prosecuting Attorney, F. C. Allen; Defendant's Attorney, Sanford Bates; Clerk, C. A. Andrews; Court Officers, L. A. Marr; L. W. Arnold; Witnesses for Prosecution: Mrs. J. E. Parker, Herself; Mr. Rastus Johnson, H. O. Stetson; Police Officer Muldoon, H. L. Andrews. Witnesses for Defendant: N. H. Marvin, Himself; Danvers McNutt, G. N. Roberts; Maggie Flaherty, Mrs. P. G. Marsh; J. R. Chandler, Himself.

The Jury was composed of Mrs. Sanford Bates, Mrs. Eugene Bissell, Mrs. Joseph Congdon, Mrs. L. M. Cotton, Mrs. D. M. Dutch, Mrs. J. R. Emmett, Mrs. Gifford LeClear, Mrs. A. P. Newman, Mrs. H. M. North, Mrs. G. W. Phipps, Mrs. E. J. Shiland, Mrs. A. C. Turner.

The Friday Evening Orchestra is popular with all, and their congenial spirit seems contagious and everyone enjoys the Friday Dancing Socials. There were favors of fancy caps, hearts and valentines and the evening passed all too quickly.

Let us have faith that right makes might; and, in that faith, let us, to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it.—Abraham Lincoln.

VALENTINE DANCE

The Valentine Dance held in Odd Fellows' Hall, Newtonville, last Friday evening, by the Friday Evening Dancing Class, under the supervision of Mr. Roscoe F. Jenkins, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Perkins, was a delightful affair, and a good crowd of friendly people was in attendance.

An interesting feature was the announcement of the engagement of a mysterious couple, when the "cat was let out of the bag," that Miss Samantha Giggler and Mr. Sethie Snigins have decided to "get hitched up" and elaborate preparations are being made for a grand wedding, the date to be announced later.

By request, Mr. Jenkins and Mrs. Pearl Barnes Rodd gave one of their beautiful exhibition dances, which called forth appreciative applause. Their dances are of a strictly high-class nature, graceful and artistic, and show the real beauty of dancing as a profession. They show a truly artistic interpretation of musical rhythm.

A surprise treat of cake, coffee, and cocoa was served in the banquet hall by friends, Mrs. Maxcey, Mrs. Stuart, and Mrs. Soule, assisted by some of the ladies who kindly contributed to the cake. After enjoying this substantial surprise all went back to the hall and Mr. Jenkins made a pleasing speech, explaining some about the wedding to come, telling the audience this is the bridegroom's fourth or fifth matrimonial venture. Who the bride and groom are is yet to be revealed. The wonderful wedding will be a regular old timer, a brilliant "country affair," followed by a "glad to meet all our old friends," and "glad to greet all our new friends" country dance in "country tones."

The Friday Evening Orchestra is popular with all, and their congenial spirit seems contagious and everyone enjoys the Friday Dancing Socials. There were favors of fancy caps, hearts and valentines and the evening passed all too quickly.

Let us have faith that right makes might; and, in that faith, let us, to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it.—Abraham Lincoln.

OAK HILL DEVELOPMENT

Board of Aldermen Hear Arguments by Arnold Hartmann for Street Construction in that District

There was little but routine business before the aldermen at its regular meeting last Monday evening, at which every member was present.

The greater part of the evening was taken up in a hearing on the laying out of a proposed street at Oak Hill under a proposal of Mr. Arnold Hartmann to pay 25% of its cost. Former Senator Thomas Weston represented Mr. Hartmann and introduced the speakers favorable to the enterprise. Mr. Hartmann said that Oak Hill had been dormant for many years and needed some impetus. It contained 22% of the area of Newton and paid but 2% of the taxes. The proposed street would shorten the distance from the Brookline line to the new Charles River Country Club by a mile. The layout was substantially that suggested by the Newton Planning Board. This was a main thoroughfare and Mr. Hartmann figured that if he gave the land, subgraded the street and paid 25 per cent of the cost he was practically paying for the improvement. He predicted that building this street would bring two and a half millions of valuation to the district, yielding $60,000 in taxes each year.

Mr. A. A. Shurtleff read the vote of the Newton Planning Board approving Mr. Hartmann's proposition and commented favorably on the way Mr. Hartmann had planned the improvement. Hon. Albert T. Rhodes, a former street commissioner of Worcester, estimated the cost at $2.55 a sq. yd. or a total of $42,860. Mr. Rhodes suggested that if the street saved a mile the saving to automobile drives, figuring 500 cars a day and 10 cents a mile would be $50 a day.

Mr. Weston quoted the Newton Chamber of Commerce, the Oak Hill Improvement Society and the Charles River Country Club as approving the project. Mr. Weston also said that in the matter of precedent, that Commonwealth avenue was laid out on a much poorer plan than this. Messrs. H. J. Potter and W. M. Mick spoke briefly in favor.

Mr. James W. Spring led the opposition and filed a protest representing 850 acres of Oak Hill property. He said this was simply a real estate development which Mr. Hartmann wished to be undertaken by Hartmann, Newton & Co. The proposed street parallels Brookline street and should not be constructed until the present streets are built upon. Mr. Hartmann proposes 200 half acre lots and the nearest transportation point is ¾ of a mile away. There is plenty of land for sale now in Oak Hill on existing streets much nearer to transportation than the Hartmann land. The financial features are also objectionable. Mr. A. C. Badger said he had land for sale in this district and wanted to know why Greenwood street would not serve with a little resurfacing.

Mr. T. F. Melody appeared in favor of his petition to make his stable on Auburn street into a public garage. It was opposed by Mr. P. J. McAleer, who lives across the street.

Patrick Riley spoke in favor of laying out Cranberry street under the name of Parmenter road and it was opposed by a representative of Mrs. Hovey, a large owner on the street.

The following jurors were drawn for the Cambridge Superior Court, Arthur S. Healey, Harvard street, Edward G. Ludlam, Lee road, George J. Martin, Commonwealth avenue, and John J. Fogg, Boylston road.

These jurors were drawn for the Lowell Superior court.—Ernest F. Russell, Loring street, Richard B. Capstick, Hamilton street.

Mayor Childs recommended $632.67 for laborers pension, $15,875 for laying water mains, $27,102 for purchase of land on Woodland road and Washington street for a junior high school, recommended that an order for $6000 for preliminary work at the Under-school be reduced to $1600, submitted a recommendation from the School Committee that the Bigelow school be remodelled into a Junior High school, and requests of the Newton Federation of Women's Club for electric lights in public schools and of the Newton Centre School Association for electric lights in the Mason school.

The mayor appointed Lewis H. Bacon chairman of the board of appeal for three years and Mr. George H. Bourne, as a registrar of voters for three years.

Petitions of Mary Sweeney for an intelligence office of Michael Maguire for a private garage on Linwood avenue, of the telephone company to remove poles on Prentice road, of Donald McKay for a private garage on Prospect avenue and of the F. H. Birch Co. for a billboard location on Boylston street were granted.

An intermediate and a junior dual meet was contested in the Newton High drill hall last Friday afternoon. In the intermediate division Lynn English High won with 24 points, Rindge Tech was second with 18 points, Lynn English was second with 14 points and Rindge third with 12 points.

The junior division meet, held separate from the intermediate meet, was captured by the Newton High team with 18 points, Lynn English was second with 14 points and Rindge third with 12 points.

One of the features of the intermediate division events was the 600-yard run which was captured by Leon Campbell of Rindge in the fast time of 1m 29.1-58. Woods of Rindge, an intermediate, leaped 5ft. 2in. a noteworthy performance, and he should be heard from in the State-wide meet intermediate division high jump.

After three regular 10-minute periods and three five-minute overtime periods the postponed interscholastic ice hockey game between Newton High and Somerville High at Bulfinch Pond, Newtonville, Monday afternoon ended 1 to 1.

Newton High was expected to win, but it was given one of its hardest matches of the season by the Red and Blue. Somerville High played better than in any previous game.

Capt. Henry Crosby, Guy Holbrook, Nick Tedesco and Robert Nixon did the best work for Newton, while Edward Jeremiah, Dan McFadden and Boyd performed finely for Somerville. The first point was made possible in the opening period, when Kelson of Somerville obtained the disk on a face-off and passed it to Jeremiah, who in turn passed again to Kelson, who scored.

Newton High tied the count in the second period, when Capt. Crosby took the rubber down the rink and passed it to Holbrook, who scored.

No scoring was done in the third period and it was agreed to play 10 minutes overtime, five minutes each way, but still there was no scoring. Then five minutes more were decided upon and the teams fought nip and tuck all in vain.

Friends of Miss Mary A. Laselle, a former well known teacher in the Vocational High School will be glad to learn that she is greatly improved in health.

MESERVE MEMORIAL FUND

Last week at the offices of Sherburne, Needham and Powers in Boston, the following eight men were elected to the Board of Trustees to direct and manage the "Charles D. Meserve Corporation": President, Francis S. Bacon; Secretary, Wallace E. Richmond; Treasurer, Frank A. Day; Irving O. Palmer; Maynard Hutchinson, 1904; Charles R. Cabot, 1908; Frederick N. Blodgett, 1921; Alfred H. Stafford, 1922.

Shortly after Mr. Meserve's death in 1921, members of the classes from 1900 to 1920 began to collect funds to be used as a memorial to Mr. Meserve's long and devoted services as a teacher in Newton High School. Those who have been especially active in the creation of this memorial are Maynard Hutchinson, '04, and Frank A. Day, '13. At present the class of 1913 leads in subscriptions to the fund.

All contributors to the fund who so notify the Secretary become members of the Charles D. Meserve Corporation. The fund is still open, so that new contributors may become members of the corporation. The original incorporators are: C. O. Wellington, '03; F. Rogers Thomas, '04; Charles R. Cabot, '08; Frank A. Day, '13; F. Forrest Davidson, '16; George Hutchinson, and Francis S. Bacon.

From 1897 to his death in 1921 Mr. Meserve was the Head of the Mathematics Department in our school. But he was far more than that. He was the wise counselor and friend of every boy in Newton High. From his desk in Room 1 radiated kindness and inspiration. He was naturally a leader and lover of boys and probably no man in our school ever influenced so many boys for good. Since he was always helping boys in every way, and especially by aiding them to continue their education, the interest of the fund will be used to carry on his own devoted work.

To that end, the Board of Trustees, will select annually one or more boys from the Senior Class of the Newton High School to be recipients of scholarships to aid such student or students in obtaining a higher education. If in any year it is found there is no person qualified to receive a scholarship, the income will be added to the principal.

The beneficiaries will be selected with regard to those qualities which best typify the well-rounded character which Mr. Meserve so well recognized and admired, and with due consideration to the financial needs of the recipient.

It is hoped that the first students to receive the Charles D. Meserve Scholarship will be chosen next spring from the class of 1923.

HEAVY COST OF SNOW

The cost of the snow removal in the city of Newton up to last Saturday amounted to $43,606. To this amount $5477 should be added for snow removal in December 1922. Street Commissioner George E. Stuart has asked for $55,000 in the budget for 1923 for snow removal. According to the figures in Mr. Stuart's office 58 inches of snow have fallen in Newton this year up to February 10. In the winter of 1919 1920 more than 70 inches fell in Newton, and the cost of removal to the city was $62,000.

This year the work of removing the snow has been harder than in previous years, because of the increase in the use of automobiles in the winter time. Newton's main thoroughfares, however, have been kept free of ruts all winter.

At the annual banquet of the city employees two weeks ago practically every member of the Board of Aldermen speaking on the street work in Newton mentioned the wonderful condition of the Newton roads.

The Street Department has kept clear this winter 230 miles of streets and 440 miles of sidewalks. Ten auto trucks owned by the city have been in constant use day and night, and 10 hired trucks have been in service most of the winter. There have been 55 sidewalk plows and 60 horses at work and employment has been given to 250 men.

At all times this winter, even in the heaviest storms, the Newton Hospital road has been kept open. Y-shington street, from Newton corner to Newton Lower Falls, has been kept entirely free of snow the greater part of the winter.

SPALDING-TAYLOR

Last Saturday evening, Miss Mildred Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Baker Taylor of Elmhurst road, Newton, became the bride of Mr. Atherton Spalding of Paul St., Newton Centre. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Grant Person of Eliot Church, Newton.

The sister of the bride, Mrs. Albert J. Eldon of Montclair, N. J., was the matron of honor, and the brother of the groom, Mr. John Farnum Spalding, was the best man. The ushers were Messrs. Albert J. Eldon of Montclair, N. J., Edward F. Belches of Framingham, Roland Cook of Worcester, and William B. Durkee of Newton.

A reception at the home of the bride, immediately followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Spalding are to make their home on Woodward St., Waban, where they will receive their friends after April 1st.

John J. McNamara, automobile editor of the Boston Post, and who formerly filled a similar position with The Herald, died Monday night at his home, 102 College road, Chestnut Hill, of pneumonia, following an illness of nine days.

His first newspaper work was as district man for the Boston Globe. He then became a sporting writer for The Herald, and later became head of that department. As a writer on boxing, football, polo, horse racing and dogs he had a wide following and his accounts of classic sporting events were often reprinted.

He later became automobile editor of The Herald, and as such covered the races in Florida in 1905 and 1906, which opened fresh visions of possibilities of automobiles. In 1911 he went to the Post as automobile editor, which position he filled until his death.

He was a member of the Commonwealth Country Club and filled many offices in the Bay State Automobile Association, being a director at the time of his death. He was also a member of the Newspaper Club and was editor-in-chief of that organization in 1913.

In 1904 he married Miss Joanna E. Conolly, who survived him. Mr. McNamara was 57 years of age.

We have every reason to believe that the local coal dealers are giving the people of Newton as good service as is possible in the present serious situation. It should be remembered that in addition to the wretched travelling conditions, the delivery of small lots of coal is much more expensive than in larger orders. Delivery costs are therefore much higher than formerly, and in many cases have been assumed by the dealer and not passed onto the consumer. Not so much can be said for the mining end of the business and it is also probable that the railroads are taking some advantage of the situation. All in all we believe that some drastic action should be taken by the Federal government to prevent the repetition of the difficulties New England has experienced this winter.

—Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin heartily indorses the position taken in this column that jail sentences should be imposed for persons convicted of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Fines have little effect on this class of offenders.

The Charles D. Meserve Memorial Scholarship Fund deserves the hearty support of all our citizens. It is a memorial which adequately expresses that to which Mr. Meserve devoted himself and will help to keep alive the inspiration and influence of his life.

We are glad to note that there has been a substantial reduction in the appropriation first made for preliminary work at the proposed Underwood school, $4400 is well worth saving.

Auburndale

—Mrs. Harold D. Thorne of Auburn street has returned from a visit to Montreal, Canada.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Heald of Robinson road, are rejoicing in the birth of a daughter.

—Mr. F. H. Barbour is among those at the Iron Mountain House, at Jackson, N. H., with the Appalachian Club.

—The Woman's Guild of the Church of the Messiah will hold a food sale at the Auburndale Club House tomorrow afternoon.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Haven, formerly of Commonwealth avenue, entertained this last week, Mr. and Mrs. Royce of Royce road, Newton Centre, in their new home, Hollywood, California.

—Lenten Study Courses are being held at the Congregational Church, on Thursday evenings. Many members from the K. O. K. A. of Auburndale are planning to attend the State Meet of the K. O. K. A. at Lynn, on Washington's Birthday.

—Miss Anna W. Briggs, died last Sunday, in her 84th year at her home on Ash street. Miss Briggs was born in Hampden, Maine, and was the daughter of William W. Briggs. About 60 years ago she moved to the house now occupied by the Auburndale Club. Miss Briggs was a great worker in the Lincoln Park Baptist Church, West Newton. Services were held at the home of her brother, Mr. William P. Briggs, on Lexington street, on Tuesday. Rev. Frederick Peakes officiated, and the burial was in the Newton Cemetery.

—Mrs. A. A. Sanderson, widow of George Sanderson, late of Loir Lane, Weston Highlands, but for the past 15 years at River street, South Weston, is recovering from the shock of the passing out on February 11, at the Waltham Hospital, of her oldest child, George Edwin, late of Wayland. Mr. Sanderson was a direct descendant of Edmund Sanderson, one of the two brothers who came from England in the early part of 1690. His great grand settled in the "Highlands," coming to Weston from "Piet Corner," Waltham, prior to 1775. Services were held at Weston Unitarian Church.

LADIES' NIGHT

The Laymen's League of the Newton Centre Unitarian Church, held its Annual Ladies' Night Meeting on Thursday, February 15, in the Parish House, Cypress and Centre streets. Dr. S. C. Dalrymple, President of the League introduced as the speaker of the evening John Clair Minot, Literary Editor of the Boston Herald. In most entertaining fashion and with discriminating judgment, Mr. Minot spoke for an hour on "What's What among the New Novels." He gave his choice of the first six American Novels of 1922. Among these were "One of Ours" by Catharine, "Vandemars Folly by Quick, and "Old Crow" by Alice Brown. The English novels he named as "This Freedom by Hutchinson, "The Cathedral by Walpole, "Tryone by Locke, Capt. Blood by author of Scaramouche, and "Spinder of this Parish by Maxwell. After the address many questions were asked by the large audience of interested men and women to all of which Mr. Minot answered adding to the great pleasure already given by his address. It was an evening of rare literary profit, and both the League and its guests expressed gratitude to Mr. Minot for imparting his insight of books in so helpful a manner.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

Considerable interest was aroused this week by the hearing on the bill to require a jail sentence for persons convicted of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Frank A. Goodwin registrar of motor vehicles, severely criticised the courts for failing to properly to enforce the laws relating to the operating of motor vehicles by persons under the influence of liquor.

"What is the use of making new laws when your courts do not enforce the laws written on the statute books?" he asked. Continuing he said: "Last year there were more than one hundred second convictions for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The law expressly provides a jail sentence. There is no alternative. Yet only nineteen of those one hundred men went to jail. The courts are to blame, and when I say the courts I want to particularly include the district attorneys. There was a case in Hingham. The driver of an automobile, which killed two girls on a joy ride, was convicted of operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor and he was sentenced to six months in jail. He is as free as the air today. That is only one case. I can supply many more from the records of my office."

Mr. Goodwin pointed out that in 1919, when there were six months of prohibition there were only 554 convictions in the State for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Last year there were 2100 convictions for driving while drunk, he said. "There are not twice as many cars now as there were in 1919 and you will note that drunkenness has increased about four-fold. It is imperative that we eliminate the drunken driver from the highways and streets of the Commonwealth. It isn't a question of more laws, although I personally favor this proposed law. The courts must show the drunken driver that regardless of who or what he is they will put him in jail as the law provides."

"The only thing that counts is an aroused public opinion to enforce the law. I am trying to arouse that opinion, but I am doing it at the risk of having my own official head lopped off," he declared.

Representative Symonds told the committee that if they decided his bill would overtax the capacity of the jails his answer in the interests of public safety was to build more jails.

"I say that the automobile law is a respecter of persons," said representative Symonds. "The man with money, influence or political pull escapes the penalty and fines are not paid by the man who drives a motor vehicle while drunk. If he can afford to pay for liquor at present prices a fine means nothing to him. There will be a half million motor vehicles operating in this State this year. It is urgent that the sober drivers and pedestrians be given some protection."

The writer was unsuccessful this week in his attempt to defeat a bill which will reduce to one year the time within which a collector of taxes must exercise his lien.

The present law gives the collector two years in which to collect the tax and the reduction of this time to one year, will undoubtedly seriously effect tax payers who are in hard luck. It is a pity that the legislature is so divided. With ample security behind the tax bill, with authority to borrow money in anticipation of the collection of these taxes at a less rate than the tax itself bears, there is no good reason why the tax payer should be further crowded in paying his taxes.

The committee on Public Health has taken advance action on all bills relating to vaccination, making a 50-50 split between the advocates of further extension and those who demand a repeal of the compulsory vaccination law.

Mr. Raymond L. Bridgman of Auburndale who has had long service on a State House reporter appeared before the committee on Constitutional Law this week in favor of constitutional amendments which would return to the former method of annual elections. Mr. Bridgman pointed out that never in recent years has there been so much partisanship and so little consideration of legislation on its merits as there is at present. He cited the frequent roll calls initiated by the Democrats in an effort to maintain unity.

He declared that according to figures made public by the Secretary of State last week there has been an "unprecedented scramble" for public office, and lessened accountability. More money has been spent than ever before to secure nominations and elections, he asserted. Bitterness within the parties at primaries, he said, is having an effect upon party harmony at the elections.

He believed that under biennial elections the parties of legislators would be "green." He compared the last election under the annual plan with the election just passed, saying that in the former 154 Representatives out of a total of 240 were re-elected, while at the biennial just passed only 116 of the House were re-elected, less than a majority. At present, he said, instead of the customary 25 or 30 re-elected members in the Senate, there are only 16 experienced legislators.

In 1921, he said, in the haste for a short session, 300 matters were thrown over to the next. In 1922, continued Mr. Bridgman, many, realizing that they could not be re-elected, helped induce negligence of legislative business and caused Speaker Young to administer a public rebuke to the House for its inefficiency. Legislative committees, he said, being less accountable to their constituents, are frequently forced to wait for quorums or proceed without them.

tola for change of property at Commonwealth avenue, and Walnut street from residence zone to business zone. He also submitted the names of the following assistant assessors and they were immediately confirmed.

Timothy D. Murphy, Alexander W. Dewire, Joseph B. Robson, Stewart A. Paterson, Alvin G. Dinsmore, Frank E. Hunter, Willis F. Hadlock, Edwin T. Ramsdell, R. Jackson Cram, Charles E. Libbey, C. Edwin Josselyn, Charles A. Haskell, Hugh S. Boyd, Frederick A. Gould, John Finelli, Bernard D. Farrell, Jr., J. Arthur Forstall, Walter A. Hodgdon, Edwin H. Corey, Jr., Warner R. Holt, Antonio P. Tedesco, Ralph T. Laffie.

These appointments of the Mayor were confirmed, O. J. McCourt as overseer of the poor; Dr. C. A. Boutelle as inspector of animals; Ralph W. Angier and Thomas J. Lyons, as members of Playground Commission; and Alston Burr, as Sinking Fund Commissioner. The order restricting scope of Saturday half holiday was allowed to stay on the table after Alderman White had called attention to the difficulty in translating the present law. He believed the law intended to cover only permanent employees and not the hour or temporary employees. He said that Brookline allows the half holiday only to those who work on Saturday morning. He believed the matter should be settled in the near future. Alderman Madden stated that the committee were considering three drafts prepared by the City Solicitor on the matter.

Hearings were assigned on March 5, for taking land for sewer in Wamsit street, and in Plainfield street, and for relocating and widening the southerly corner of Washington and Centre streets. $632.67 was voted for laborer's pension and the previous appropriation of $6000 for work at the Underwood school was reduced to $1600.

Alderman Heathcote introduced a resolution allowing the use of city teams in the transportation and distribution of coal and after some debate in which Aldermen Heathcote, White and Ball participated, another resolution presented by Alderman White relating to the Mayor to take steps to relieve the present serious situation in conjunction with the Fuel Administrator, was adopted.

No one appeared at hearings on petition of the Strong estate for a ten car garage at Windsor road and Beacon street, on petition of A. DiMatteo to sell gasoline at 392 Langley road, and on relocation of Washington street, at Woodland road.

The board adjourned at 10 P. M.

THE PERIWINKLE

Among the green and ferny plants that flourish here in pots, While winter weaves its shining web above our chimney tops, And whirling crystals in the snow Assault the window panes below With tarantelle madrigals,— While flicker capers, and grown to monstrous girls.

Are guarding most ferociously these shelter spots of earth, There blooms the quaintest little thing, so perfectly undaunted, A periwinkle, if you please, by poets quite undaunted. It glows behind the frosted glass, ad ventures in its soul, Although a single icy breath would take its life in toll; It's like the Spirit of the Spring, And every living, jocund thing That stirs the heart to gladness,— Its tender hue, horizon blue, epitomizes here.

The lure that lies in distant hills, and beckons from the mere, I cannot view the lovely thing without a sweet emotion. So open-eyed and confident in winter's wild commotion. And Oh, if now your patience with these foolish lines that tinkle, Might lead you to adore with me, the blessed Periwinkle.

Winifred A. Burr.

GIRL SCOUTS

On Friday evening, Feb. 16, the Girl Scouts of Troop 6 (Nonantum) entertained the members of Troop 2 (Newton) at a Valentine Party. The party was held in the gymnasium of the Stearns School and was a very joyful affair. Games were played, refreshments served, and each one present was presented with a very pretty valentine. Mrs. Frank Day, Miss Louise Lowell, Mrs. Champagne, and Mrs. Seward of the Troop Committee were present.

On Saturday afternoon, the Auburndale Troop (Troop 8) gave an entertainment in the New Club House. Miss Helen Porter, captain of the Troop, read a very interesting Bird Lecture, obtained from the Audubon Society, while pictures of many of the birds mentioned in the lecture were thrown on the screen. This was followed by the Newton Girl Scouts Bugle and Drum Corps, and then "The Golden Eagle," a Girl Scout motion picture was given. This picture depicts a girl from the time she first joins a troop of Girl Scouts until she reaches that goal which all scouts long for and which some reach. A large and enthusiastic audience enjoyed a delightful afternoon.

$5,000 FIRE

Newtonville square was saved what might have been a serious fire about 2 o'clock Thursday morning when the upper floor of the Charles Evans sweater factory, owned and managed by Michael F. Curran and John Casper, at 92 Bowers street, burst into flames from some unknown cause. Patrolman Harold Elliot saw the blaze through the windows and pulled an alarm from Box 23 in the square. All the North Side apparatus responded and the firemen found the whole third floor in flames.

The roof was badly damaged and considerable of the stock and machinery was spoiled by the fire and water. The all-out signal was rung about two hours later.

Shortly before 8 o'clock the same morning Patrolman Elliot discovered that the fire had broken out again and he sent in a still alarm for the Newtonville apparatus. The damage amounted to about $5,000. The block is known as the Partridge Building and is situated opposite the Newtonville railroad station.

NEW YORK HAS A BIG HEART

Tired Visitor, Asleep on Bryant Park Bench, Acquired a Hatful of Pennies.

"New York is certainly a charitable town. Never saw anything like it." The enthusiastic visitor straightened an expensive silk tie and drew on a glove as he exclaimed:

"I am only in town for a few days, staying at a Broadway hotel. The other morning I rose late and after breakfast sauntered over to Bryant park. I had been out late the night before—a theatre and a Broadway dance club afterward, and I felt rather tired. I debated between a taxi ride through Central park to freshen up or sitting down in the square, and finally selected an empty bench.

"I sat there enjoying the odor which was beginning to show in the grass and trees, and the air being very mild, I fell asleep. Nothing remarkable about that, although it was a bit public, with the crowd cutting past toward Forty-second street. I must have leaned back on the bench and dropped my hat. At any rate I slept for perhaps twenty minutes.

"When I woke up I found myself sprawled pretty awkwardly over the bench and without my hat. I soon found the hat. It had fallen forward and lay directly in front of me on the pavement. I said New York was charitable. My experience certainly proves it. As I slept there bareheaded I must have aroused a lot of sympathy. The bottom of my hat was covered with pennies."

MEXICAN TREE WITH HANDS

To the Aztec It Was the Earthly Expression of a Dreadful, Almighty Deity.

Few instances of the singular fact that nature, possibly for protection, repeats in flowers and plants the shape or appearance of other objects, are more astonishing than the tree with hands. The Aztecs in Mexico were so much impressed by it that they offered it most devout worship. To them the Macpalcochiquetil, as they called it—"the Hand Flower Tree"—with its blood red hands, was the earthly expression of a deity, dreadful and almighty. From the center of each bloom there springs a columnar stem which accurately represents a human arm and wrist, and this breaks into five stamens, which are of a gory hue and arranged after the manner of the human hand, with its fingers and thumb. The very points of these vegetable fingers are curved like finger tips with overgrown nails.

The Macpalcochiquetil has its parallel in one of the rarest of plants in Japan—the Five-Fingered Orange. This dwarf tree, that is seldom more than five feet high, and one of the most crooked, grows its fruit in the exact shape of the human hand, fingers, thumb and all. It is a partly opened hand, and the hard pointed nails of the lean, yellow fruit-hand are the closest imitation to the nails of an aristocratic Chinaman.

Kangaroo Is a Born Boxer.

The art of boxing comes naturally to the kangaroo. The mother gives the young kangaroo his first lessons in this mode of self-defense. Afterward the father takes up the teaching, and with much gentleness and patience trains him to box. When kangaroos box they back off and rush in and prance about very skillfully. Each one watches for an opportunity to strike, and at the same time tries to prevent the other from striking. They cleverly try to move about so as to get the enemy below them on the slope of a hill. The resounding blows they give with their hind feet can be heard far away. The kangaroo fights like a gentleman. He is a good sportsman, even when he is fighting with his enemy. The animals strike with the flat of the foot, and never use against each other their terrible ripping claws.

"Only a Man."

Edith Wharton, the writer, told this war story: "The American wounded were being brought in from the second Marne battle," she said, "and a fussy-looking woman in a khaki uniform and Sam Browne belt knelt over the stretcher and said, 'Is this an officer, or only a man?'"

"The brawny corporal who stood beside the stretcher gave her a grim laugh and said: 'Well, lady, he ain't no officer, but he's been hit twice in the innards, both legs busted, he's got two bullets in both arms and we dropped him three times without his lettin' out a squeak, so I guess you can call him a man.'—Argonaut.

Unqualified.

A policeman had found a dog and returned it to the mansion from which it had strayed. The nurse girl took the animal from him, at which the constable inquired:

"Do you have to take care of the dog?"

"Oh, no," returned the maid. "The missis says I'm too young and inexperienced—I only look after the children."—London Weekly Telegraph.

The Day's Catch.

"Where's your pa?" asked the man with the brand-new outing clothes. "Gone fishin'," replied the small boy.

"What does he expect to catch?" "Nothin' while he's fishin', but maw told him he'd catch the dickens if he didn't clear out while she was house cleaning."—Washington Evening Star.

PREACHES HERE

—Rev. Dr. W. L. Sperry, Dean of the Theological School at Harvard University, was a recent preacher at the Second Church, in West Newton. Dr. Sperry took as his text the first two verses of the one hundred and twenty first Psalm. In introducing his subject, he spoke of the expedition of the Royal Geographic Society of England in their recent attempt to climb the highest mountain in the world, Mt. Everest. Until 1849, this peak was not known to be the highest mountain in the world because of the fact that it sits in the midst of a great many peaks and is farther away from the civilized lowlands than the others. This made Mt. Everest seem smaller than the other peaks but in 1849, after much triangulating, a mathematician sitting in his office with a set of figures made the great discovery.

The ideas and the ideals of life are very similar to the fact brought out by this story of the mountain range. The ideas and ideals of life which are near to us seem great, but as we advance through the years we find that the idea of God, which is afar, is yet the greatest of all.

We are coming to the time of Lent, this is the time when we should give ourselves much religious thinking about God. The hope of the world today comes from the lives of men and women who are giving some of their waking hours to thinking about God. "Let me present to you," said Dr. Sperry, "one of the thoughts about God which comes as a sentence from Leo Tolstoy, 'the most important thing in life is for man to unite with man and the worst thing in life is for man to go apart from one another.' Friendship is the one great human compensation for living. This will apply not only to the business of life but to the play in life. The greatest athletes find as the game develops that the great result of being an athlete is social, that is, the making of friends on his own team and on the team opposing. We must view with grave concern when we notice races and industrial classes pulling apart and with joy anything which tends to bring races and groups of men together. One of our mottoes of living should be, 'Draw near to your fellow beings.'"

Usually a third person or a third thing is necessary to the making of friendship. It cannot be made in the way in which young Blodgett from Missouri tried to make it at Oxford. Said Blodgett to the young Englishman, "My name is Blodgett and I come from Missouri" as he stepped with hand extended in friendship to the student. But the Englishman only replied "I say, how very unusual." In New England the third term which brings in the possibility of friendship seems to be the weather. This gives us something to talk about and probably accounts for our preference to New England rather than Southern California at this time of year. Books and people whom others have known often help and certainly our colleges in the country as a whole serve as great socializing bodies.

There are, however, at the present time in the world, hundreds of thousands of human beings with hatred in their hearts who have deeply sworn that they will never have anything to do for the rest of their lives with those who have been their enemies. This means literally a world of closed hearts and of closed minds. What are you going to do with those people who take the attitude of the waiter who was serving an Englishman in a restaurant in Munich. His order was given in the English tongue and the waiter quickly noticing this, with a curl of his lip returned "I never serve an enemy of the Fatherland," and quickly turned on his heel to go. Here is the great difficulty of getting people together.

The great hope must come during the Lenten season. There is one idea that is big enough and that is the idea of God. There are those human beings whom you cannot possibly get at in any way save from the summits of God's highest mountains, through thinking constantly about God. The problem of human sorrow is solved even as mountainous feuds may be broken by deep and Godly thoughts. The Choir, under the direction of William Lester Bates, sang an Anthem by James H. Rogers, "I will Magnify Thee, O Lord." Mrs. Kingsbury, soprano, and Mrs. Dudley, contralto, sang the Offertory Duet from Mendelssohn, "I Waited for the Lord." There was a congregation of seven hundred who listened most intently.

NEWTON CLUB MASQUERADE

The annual costume party held at the "Newton Club" Wednesday evening, February 21, in charge of Mr. Arthur L. LeBaron, was a great success.

One hundred and fifty ladies and gentlemen in costume made a gay picture in the dance hall and enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

The grand march directed by Mr. Joseph Cryan and led by Vice-President Mr. Fred E. Mann and Mrs. Mann gave the judges a good opportunity to render their decisions. The judges of costumes were: Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Veo, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy V. Collins, and Mrs. Joseph Cryan. They gave the ladle's prize to Mrs. William Henderson, who made a lovely picture as a quasi old fashioned girl, and the men's prize to Mr. George D. MacPherson, who so cleverly took the part of an Italian organ-grinder, amusing the crowd greatly with his Italian grunts, real hand-organ music, and his trained human monkey, Mr. Chester Wilcox.

Honorable mention was given to Mrs. Dr. L. B. Bennett, dressed as an Hawaiian dancer, and to Mrs. Sheldon Root as "Raggy Anne." Mr. George Woodcock as a "pirate" and Mr. Arthur Quimby as "Janitor" drew honorable mention for the men. The lucky number dance was won by Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hall.

SELWYN THEATRE—Channing Pollock says he didn't write "The Fool" for theatregoers. That is, not for the type of theatregoer that is satisfied with two hours of laughter and nothing else. "The Fool" was written for people who want to be entertained and amused but who also are interested in the big questions of the day, and are glad to have a new thought put in their minds by a diverting discussion on the stage. One of the Boston critics said of "The Fool" that it was a great and effective combination of common sense, religion, and thrilling melodrama. Perhaps this is the reason why the play has been running to capacity business for five months in New York, and why it has started off at the same pace in the Selwyn Theatre, Boston.

"There is one other thing which Jesus represents in the religious life of today. He stands as a spiritual leader. He marches at the head of the column. He inspires by his example, he commands by his teaching, he marks out the way to God by the footprints of his own life."

ELIJAH

The dramatic pageant of "Elijah" written by Mrs. Grace Lane Berkeley of Newton Centre, was presented on Tuesday night, in the First Baptist Church of Newton Centre. The church was filled to capacity, many coming from out of town for the occasion.

The pageant included six episodes in the life of Elijah in Samaria during the reign of Ahab and the wicked queen Jezebel. The religious conflict between the priests of Baal brought into Samaria by Jezebel and the priests of Jehovah was brought out in the first scene and reached its climax at the trial on Mt. Carmel.

The weakness of Ahab and the power of Jezebel, and latter's intense hatred of Elijah was another point which the episodes emphasized.

Elijah rose to moral grandeur in the contest with the priests of Baal, and his prayer to Jehovah was very moving.

In all of the scenes the mob played an important part. The costumes worn were true to the times.

Musical from the oratorio of Elijah was sung by the members of the church quartet by way of interpretation.

The last scene, enacted on the inner stage, was particularly effective. It represented the prophet of God discouraged sitting under the juniper tree and the coming of the angel with words of comfort and strength.

The morning's program for the meeting of the Auburndale Review Club on Feb. 20, at the home of Mrs. Wyckliffe J. Spaulding was given to the study of the careers of two musicians. First, Mrs. Spaulding told interestingly of the life of Jenny Lind, emphasizing especially her purity and religious faith as a woman rather than an artist; and telling details of her famous American tour in 1850. The lecturer said the "Red Army" was a very real army under splendid control as was demonstrated by the late repulse of the Poles, and there was little possibility of a revolution in Russia, today because of its efficiency.

—The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company broke all records in amount of business done in the year 1922, according to a report published today. The amount of new business placed on the books exceeded the phenomenal year of 1920 and was far in excess of what had been done in 1921.

—The Officers of the Company believe that this certainly reflects improved business conditions.

—Particularly significant is the fact that Industrial insurance, which is taken largely by wage earners and their families, had such a great volume.

—The total amount of Industrial insurance placed during the year was over $775,000,000. The investment situation is also good. The income of the Company increased by over thirty-eight and a half million dollars that of 1921, reaching the total of $340,658,301.

—The assets of the Company increased $144,267,300 and at the end of the year stood at $1,259,850,325. The mortality increased somewhat as compared with the previous year, and the total number of claims paid was 365,276.

—This was an average of one claim paid every 24 second of each business day of eight hours, or just about 1,000 a day during the year, including Sundays and holidays.

—The amount paid to policyholders averaged $803.81 a minute of each business day.

—Along with this great increase on the business side, the welfare work done by the Company, in behalf of the health of its Industrial policyholders, kept pace. Metropolitan nurses made more than two million free visits to sick Industrial policyholders, bringing the total number made since this service was inaugurated to over sixteen million. The Company has distributed altogether two hundred and seventy-two million booklets and pamphlets giving hints on hygiene and prevention of disease and this, in cooperation with the general activities which are widening each year on the part of all official and semi-official health organizations, has resulted in extending the life expectancy among Industrial policyholders by eight and one-half years since 1911.

SYMPATHY IS SHOWN BY ANTS

Naturalist Tells How They Set Free Their Fellows When He Imprisoned Them.

An eminent naturalist, while watching a column of foraging ants, one day, placed a small stone on one of them to secure it. The next that he approached, on discovering the situation of its associate, ran back in an excited manner and communicated with the others, when all rushed to the rescue.

Some bit at the stone and tried to move it, others seized the prisoner by the legs and tugged with a force which threatened to separate them from its body; but they persevered until they got the captive free.

Interested by this evidence of intelligence, the naturalist next covered one of the ants with a piece of clay, leaving only the ends of its antennae projecting. It was soon discovered by its fellows, who set to work immediately and by biting off pieces of the clay soon liberated it.

On another occasion a very few ants were passing along at intervals. One of these was confined under a piece of clay a little distance from the trail, with its head projecting. Several ants went by without seeing it, but at last it was discovered by a sharp-eyed friend that at once undertook to pull it out. Falling in this it immediately hurried off for assistance, and soon returned with a dozen or more companions, all evidently fully informed of the circumstances of the case, for they made directly for their imprisoned comrade, and shortly set him free.

Can such actions be regarded as instinctive? They seem rather to be the result of sympathy, the ants rendering to their fellows such assistance as man is in the habit of rendering to his kind.

STARFISH HAS MANY FEET

Cover the Underside of Each Arm and Are Withdrawn Inside Skin When He Rests.

The starfish is one of the commonest of sea-shore creatures. If you pick one out of his pool and place him in a vessel full of salt water, you will soon find that he is beginning to walk. The underside of each arm is covered with an immense number of tiny feet.

When the starfish is at rest all these feet are drawn up inside his skin, but as soon as he wants to move he pushes them out in all directions. Each of them has a little sucker at its end.

He makes very good use of these suckers when he comes across his favorite food, an oyster, or some other shell fish. He climbs onto the shell and entwines his arms around it. Every sucker takes a firm hold, and then he begins to pull. The oyster pulls against him, but usually the starfish manages in the end to make him open his shell a fraction of an inch. As soon as this happens, he squirts into the shell a quantity of poison, which has the effect of paralyzing the muscle which holds it shut.

And the starfish dines at his leisure. Some fishermen are so annoyed when they pull up a starfish that they tear him in two. But each of the torn halves soon shoots out new limbs and becomes a complete starfish.

Ashamed of the Old Folks.

A story is going the rounds of prep schools and colleges which has enough truth in it to make it useful whether the words were ever spoken or not. It is funny and it is sad. A lad—pupil in a great fitting school—is represented as saying to his parents: "You make it very difficult for me with my schoolmates. Father is a prosperous business man and mother comes to see me in a D-car." (naming one of the inexpensive makes). The idea conveyed is that in the gilded circle in which the boy moves, the merely industrious, good-citizen type of dad is rather bad form; he should be a whirlwind of conspicuousness of some sort—literature, perhaps, or grafting financial of the official class, it is immaterial.

New Haven Journal-Courier.

If He Had a Million.

Joe Brown was the porter at a little bank in southern Kansas. One spring day he rested on his broom and looked outdoors where nature beckoned him down to the river, where he might doze and wait for the catfish to nibble on his line.

"Gee, boss," he declared fervently, "I suddenly do wish Ah had a million dollars!"

"A million dollars, Joe?" the cashier said, smiling. "What would you do with a million dollars?"

"Ah'd buy me some pigs and make me some money,"—Judge.

Hero of His Class.

"How did you get on with spelling?" Harry's mother asked him after his first day at school. "You look so pleased that I'm sure that you did well."

"No, I couldn't spell much of anything," admitted Harry, "and I couldn't remember the arithmetic very well, nor the geography."

The mother showed her disappointment but Harry had consolation in reserve.

"But that's no matter, mother," he said: "the boys admire me; they say I've got the biggest feet in the class."—Chicago News.
